SEEK WALLACE SHOWDOWN IN SENATE TODAY

New Dealers Move to Compromise.

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Administration leaders in the senate today called an emergency Democratic caucus for tomorrow in an attempt to stave off threatened defeat of President Roosevelt's nomination of Henry A. Wallace as secretary of commerce. The Democrats will meet at 10 a. m., two hours before the senate convenes.

The caucus was called by Sen. Hill [D., Ala.], acting for Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, who is ill, after Hill had conferred with Chairman Bailey [D., N. C.] of the senate commerce committee and leader of the anti-Wallace forces. Bailey, despite Hill's effort to dissuade him, reiterated after the conference that he would move for an early vote on Wallace tomorrow.

Want George Bill First.

Hill told reporters that Barkley, who is expected to leave his sickbed to attend tomorrow's caucus and senate session, would try to beat Bailey to the punch by moving to make the George bill, which would strip the commerce department of its control over federal lending agencies, the first item of business when the senate convenes.

Meanwhile, Bailey filed his committee's adverse report on the Wallace nomination and its favorable report on the George bill, which was introduced by Chairman George [D., Ga.] of the senate finance committee the same day Wallace's nomination was received from the White House.

Bailey's report of the George bill stated it was imperative to remove federal lending agencies, which include the Reconstruction Finance corporation, from the control of a cabinet officer. He emphasized that commitments of the RFC and its subsidiaries total more than 45 billion dollars and that their potential borrowing authority is unlimited.

Great Powers Told.

"The man who has charge of these agencies," said Bailey, without mentioning Wallace by name, "could so administer these powers as to determine the economic direction of the country, and, with that, its social and political character."

Bailey's report on the Wallace nomination was merely a notation of last Friday's action by the committee—a 14 to 5 vote to send the nomination to the senate with an adverse report.

Minority reports, prepared by Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.], New Deal mouthpiece, and concurred in by Senators Mead [D., N. Y.], Bilbo [D., Miss.], and Magnuson [D, Wash], called for senate confirmation of Wallace and defeat of the George bill be-

CIO Accused of Unfairness to War Wives

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 31 [Special].—A mass meeting of local 5 of the CIO United Automobile Workers union tonight voted down a demand by 350 women members whose husbands are in service that they be given seniority preference over other women as regards layoffs at the Studebaker plant here.

As a result, Mrs. Lucille Stover of South Bend, a member of the union and wife of a service man, announced as spokesman for the war wives that they will begin picketing the union headquarters here tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Stover said that about half of the 350 women already have been laid off and that the others expect layoffs within a short time. She said that hundreds of other women who have a longer record of employment at the plant, but who are unmarried or whose husbands are not in service, have been kept on the job.

1,400 Laid Off.

The Studebaker plant recently laid off about 1,400 men and women as a result of cutbacks on contracts for airplane engines. At that time the company refused to follow ordinary seniority practice in regard to about 100 recent employes who were service men back with honorable discharges. The company contended that these men were entitled to a seniority status computed on their military as well as their employment records.

Union officials announced after conferences that they agreed with this policy as regards returned service men and it was stated they were working with representatives of the company in preparing an amendment to the union contract to cover the situation. No question was raised at that time in regard to seniority preference for wives of service men, however.

Supporting Families.

"Our husbands are away fighting for their country," Mrs. Stover said. "We wives have to work to support our families. When layoffs are necessary, we should have precedence over women who are not trying to keep up a home broken up by the war."

Accompanied by a delegation of 35 of the war wives, Mrs. Stover visited a local radio station after the union meeting, and at her request a newscaster broadcast her announcement that union headquarters will be picketed.

The union headquarters is on S. Michigan st., about 15 blocks south of the main business district.

600 Markets Close

More than 600 of approximately 8,000 meat markets in the Chicago metropolitan area have closed within the last 60 days, and, with many more facing the same fate, Chicago is threatened by one of the worst meat black markets of the war, John J. Tunzer, secretary of the joint council of the Retail Meat Dealers' Association of Chicago, declared yesterday.

Tunzer reported that contemplated military purchases for the first quarter of 1945 have been increased 113 million pounds over the amount previously estimated as necessary for the fighting forces, cutting civilian supplies 15 per cent below the 1944 level and leaving the average civilian with less than two pounds of meat a week. He cited one market which normally received four beeves a week and now receives half a beef.

Asserting that some meat dealers are remaining open only by paying illegal wholesale prices, he urged consumers to be watchful and demand that dealers sell at ceiling prices as one of the best methods of combating illicit sales.

The 2,100 members of the association, Tunzer said, have been asked to refuse to purchase commodities that would result in overceiling purchases.

Our 'Obligation' Told

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 [Special].—The United States may be in for "some embarrassing moments in international relations" if it does not give more of its meat output to foreign nations—at the expense of the American housewife—a federal food official asserted today.

The official, M. K. Bennett, chief of the food allocations division of the foreign economic administration, made the observation in an article in an agriculture department publication.

He indicated that housewives could expect a greater meat reduction than the department's estimate of a 5 to 10 pound cut per person in 1945 over a year ago. This, he claimed, would be due to the existence of "international obligations" to share America's meat supply. He did not explain the "obligations" further.

Bennett declared "foreign countries want more of our meat than they are getting. If they are permitted to have it, our own per capita consumption must fall.

"If they are not permitted to have it, some embarrassing moments in international relations may arise."

HOW TO CATCH A MONKEY

(Picture on page 6.)

Carrying a partly dressed child in each arm, Michael Ogliore, 30, a former soldier, walked into the park district police station in Garfield park last night, and told Desk Sgt. Maurice K. Begner, "I just beat up my wife She's at home."

Michael Ogliore.

A Fillmore st. police squad was sent to his home in an attic over a garage in the rear of a former mansion at 3334 Washington blvd. There they found Ogliore's wife, Pearl, 20, an expectant mother, dead from head blows. She had been struck with a crank handle, which was found among the children's toys. The children are Christine, 1, and Michael Jr., 2.

Ogliore collapsed when told his wife was dead. Lt. William Ryan said he could not make a coherent statement, but did talk of domestic trouble.

Bright Lights Dimmed Out to Save Coal

Chicago's bright lights were dimmed out at 12:01 o'clock this morning in compliance with the nation-wide order of the war production board cutting the consumption of electric power to save coal.

The change in Chicago's traditional night time appearance was pronounced. American Airlines pilots and others flying above the city after midnight reported vast expanses of darkness in areas previously brightly illuminated. One pilot reported that he was over the lake front before he realized it. Ordinarily he could see the lake front light glow from midlake.

The dim-out was most apparent in the downtown area, especially in the Randolph st. theater district. Store display windows were curtained or dark.

Darker in Outlying Areas.

Outlying districts, however, also were darkened. Upper Michigan av., the Rush st. night club belt, N. Clark st., Broadway, Sheridan rd., all substantially cut lighting, altho along N. La Salle st. 10 out of 37 signs still were illuminated. Lindbergh beacon, an air navigation aid, remained on. The west side's brightest thorofare, Madison st., was darkened, as was the south side's "mile of brightness" — 63d st. between Cottage Grove av. and Stony Island av.

Many store owners complied with the WPB order before the deadline and many electric signs had been darkened.

Enforcement of the dim-out rests with the WPB, which will warn first offenders. Repeated violations may bring heavy penalties. The primary purpose is to save coal. In this connection Mayor Kelly yesterday wired Secretary of the Interior Ickes that much coal could be saved if the diversion of Lake Michigan water thru the drainage canal were to be increased, thus increasing the electric output at the Lockport power plant.

Would Need No New Labor.

"Thousands of tons of coal," the mayor's wire read, "could be saved in this emergency and the load on railroads thereby eased if the electrical output of water power plant at Lockport were doubled by temporary increase of flow in drainage canal to 5,000 cubic feet per second. Would require no additional materials or labor; would be beneficial to high water conditions in Lake Michigan and to low water conditions in the Mississippi valley."

Facts in the possession of the city officials indicate that such an increase over the present 1,500 cubic feet per second flow would save some 6,000 tons of coal per month.

APPROVE HIRING OF 100 POLICE TO FILL VACANCIES

Employment of 100 temporary policemen to help fill the vacancies in the department caused by absences of men in military service was authorized by the city council yesterday at the request of Police Commissioner Allman.

The police patrolmen's civil service eligibility list was exhausted last summer, but the names of 86 men who waived calls then have been restored to the rolls. These 86 have been asked to appear for physical examinations tomorrow at the commission's rooms at 54 W. Hubbard st., but department officials said only about 25 are expected to report. The others are frozen in war jobs.

Commissioner Allman said the department is short 300 patrolmen. There are 5,276 on duty, and an additional 771 are in the army and navy. The temporary appointees will have full police status except civil service rights and will be released when civil service patrolmen return from the army and navy.

FOE 42 MILES FROM CITY, NAZIS SAY; TWO ARMIES CLOSING IN ON BATAAN

Russians Seize Big Communications Center.

LONDON, Feb. 1 [Thursday]—(AP).—The Red army, dashing unchecked across the frozen approaches to Berlin, was 63 miles from the Nazi capital by its own account today and a scanty 42 miles according to the German radio.

The soviet war bulletin late last night announced the capture of Beyersdorf, 63 miles northeast of Berlin. This represented a 10 mile advance in 24 hours for Marshal Zhukov's 1st White Russian army, which took the big communications center of Landsberg in passing.

20 Miles from Frankfurt.

Russian armored spearheads have reached the vicinity of Kustrin on the Oder river, 42 miles east of Berlin, the German radio said. Kustrin is at the confluence of the Oder and Warthe rivers, less than 20 miles north of Frankfurt-on-the-Oder. It is connected with both that city and the German capital by broad, straight highways.

The Germans asserted that the Red army had reached the Oder valley with "very marked superiority," but added that Nazi counter-blows were imminent.

A German Transocean agency broadcast said Zhukov's tanks and mobile infantry were locked in battle with German reserves on a 40 mile front from the vicinity of Zielenzig, 62 miles east of Berlin, to the area of Soldin, 58 miles northeast of the capital.

There was no confirmation of the German reports from any source in Moscow.

Gain on Whole Front.

The soviet war bulletin reported continued advances along the entire eastern front, from East Prussia, where surrounded German divisions were squeezed inside less than one-fifth of the province's territory, to besieged Budapest.

The Moscow bulletin made no mention of besieged Breslau and the Silesian sector where Marshal Konev's 1st Ukraine army is operating, but the Berlin radio, contending that the line west of Breslau had been stabilized, acknowledged Russian crossings of the Oder at many points in that area and placed the northern end of Konev's line at Sorau, 45 miles inside Germany and 30 miles west of the Oder. Sorau is 84 miles southeast of Berlin.

In the 1st White Russian army's sector directly east of Berlin, the soviet bulletin announced capture of Topper, 70 miles from the capital.

Drive to Sever Pomerania.

The northward spread of this army in Pomerania brought the capture of Flatow, Jastrow, and more than 50 other populated places. The thrust to Jastrow represented an advance of 12 miles in a drive which threatened to cut off the greater part of Pomerania from Germany and endangered Stettin, Berlin's port on the Baltic.

At Soldin, Zhukov's forces were

MOST OF YANK WEAPONS TO BE LEFT IN EUROPE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—American troops shifted from Europe to the Pacific after the defeat of Germany will leave the bulk of their equipment behind, under present plans, and will be armed anew for Japan.

The purpose of this military decision, it was learned tonight, is to bring substantial forces to bear against the Japanese "months and months" ahead of the time otherwise possible.

Sending new arms and supplies from the American production arsenal, however, will require continued large scale war production and slower reconversion to civilian industry after victory in Europe.

Earlier Drive Expected.

This decision was said to result from these military considerations:

First, that the strides already made across the Pacific will make it possible to employ large bodies of troops—presumably in operations on the Asiatic mainland—much earlier than had been expected.

Second, that it would be more expedient, in view of transport problems, to let soldiers from Europe and munitions from America converge for the showdown assault against Japan than to undertake the slower task of shipping both from Europe.

Cost Expected to Be Less.

Proponents of the plan held that otherwise months of effort would be required in reassembling the weapons, vehicles, and supplies from depots and bases in Europe, in preparing them for reshipment, and in hauling them to ports congested with troop movements.

It was held further that heavier costs incurred in producing new equipment would be outweighed by the resultant quicker ending of the war and the saving in lives.

Property abandoned in Europe presumably would be forwarded ultimately to the new theater, returned to this country, or sold as surplus on the spot.

YOUNG PETRILLO IS SATISFIED TO LET PAPA FIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 31.—"I don't ever again want to fight with anybody. I'll leave that to papa," Leroy J. Petrillo of Chicago, son of James C. Petrillo, music union czar, told the inquiring reporter of the Stars and Stripes, army newspaper. Answering the question what he would do when he returned home, Petrillo said: "I just want my old job back as music librarian of WCFL in Chicago. When I get home I'll stay put, never more to roam."

After nominating papa as a future Petrillo shock trooper, Leroy added: "However, I do feel we ought to have a vets' organization of our own. We are young and we still will make the future. The Legion and the V. F. W. just don't have our ideas."

U. S. Troops Cross River 28 Miles from Manila.

MacARTHUR'S HDQ., Luzon, Feb. 1 [Thursday]—(AP).—Eighth army troops secured Subic bay, including Olongapo naval base, Tuesday without opposition, and the United States 7th fleet then entered the bay while to the east the 6th army seized Calumpit and crossed the Pampanga river, 28 road miles from Manila.

Fleet entrance into the good anchorage and repair base on the fringes of Manila bay followed unimpeded occupation of Grande Island, Subic's "Little Corregidor."

American guns which were defending Grande Island when it fell to the Japanese in 1942 were recaptured. Olongapo was dotted with dugouts and pillboxes—all abandoned.

Roll Toward Juncture.

The surge of the 6th into Calumpit, in an advance of 13 miles southward down Pampanga province, carried motorized units of the 14th army corps safely thru a narrow stretch of land compressed between two swamps. Beyond, the plains open wide to Manila with no good defenses for the Nipponese in between.

While the 8th army Yanks of Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger thus advanced more than 20 miles from Monday's beachheads on the Zambales coast to win Olongapo, 6th army columns rolled 10 miles southwest of San Fernando toward a juncture with the 8th which would seal off the Bataan peninsula. The converging armies are 25 miles apart.

The two army elements are pushing toward each other along a winding road of 60 miles from the Zambales coast to San Fernando.

Gain in All Sectors.

The Yanks were on the move in all sectors. They cleaned out enemy pockets at Fort Stotsenburg. They punched closer to the summer capital of Baguio to the north. They seized highway junctions near the foothills of the Sierra Madre range flanking the Luzon plains on the east, thus severing enemy routes of retreat.

Reporting from Subic bay, James Hutcheson, Associated Press correspondent, said:

"We found no Japanese on Grande Island, but the American guns which composed this small pre-war fortress still were there—pointing disconsolately out to sea."

Bombardment Called Off.

Adm. Struble was prepared to shell the island, but called off the bombardment for the same reason that he canceled one prior to the 8th army's Monday landings. No Japanese could be seen.

Thirty-eighth division units reached Olongapo at the base of Bataan peninsula Tuesday evening, 36 hours and 21 minutes after they hit the beaches on the Zambales coast. They reached Subic town eight miles from the former American naval station, 10 hours after the landings.

At Calumpit, scene of a gallant stand by Americans and Filipinos at the start of the war, the Americans secured bridges spanning the Pampanga river.

Begin Development.

Gen. MacArthur, announcing these gains in his bulletin today, said the Americans who seized Grande Island and Olongapo "are now using this excellent anchorage, and the development of a naval base is already under way."

Sixth army Yanks advancing toward the Bataan penisula from captured San Fernando have taken the town of Lubao in a 10 mile advance. Thus elements of the two armies

Paris WACs Protest Cut in Rations

BY ANNE BRUYERE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Americans of the women's army corps [WACs] protested today against the new reduction in their rations. Formerly they received regular G. I. field rations of tinned soup, meat, vegetables, bread and butter, tinned fruit, coffee, and milk, containing the necessary vitamins and 3,500 calories daily.

Diminutive, curly haired Mary Armato, 5229 Race av., Chicago, finished her luncheon of reduced rations—mashed potatoes, a meat ball, two thin slices of white bread, a tiny chocolate eclair, and coffee. Then she heaved a deep sigh and murmured:

Chubby, freckled Charlotte Kravitz, 4312 Jackson blvd., Chicago, admitted she had put on weight since she joined the WACs, but added:

"Every day we are given potatoes or macaroni. In civilian life I never touched starchy, fattening food. I used to be very fussy about my meals but I soon learned in the army one must take what's served or starve."

Maj. Henriette Horak, public relations officer, said the rations were reduced because food was going to waste, but that the WACs still had enough to eat.

"WACs who sit in offices all day," she said, "don't need to eat as much as soldiers digging foxholes and fighting.

"In civilian life most of these girls simply snatched a glass of milk and a sandwich at a soda water counter for lunch. Here they have a hot meal with meat twice daily."

on Luzon Island were heading toward a junction which would seal off the historic peninsula where Americans and Filipinos fought a brave but fruitless battle in early 1942. Japanese from the San Fernando sector have fled into the Bataan peninsula, and many enemy troops are reported to have landed there by boat in evacuating starving Manila.

Gain in North Sector.

In the northern sector near Lingayen gulf, where the 6th army landed Jan. 9, Americans have captured Udiao, road junction some 15 miles south of Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines.

The Yanks, pressing eastward toward the Sierra Madre foothills skirting the east side of the central Luzon plain, have captured Tayug, Umingan, Munoz, and Talavera on the Manila-Baguio highway.

American bombers pounded the Cavite naval base in Manila bay with 57 tons of bombs, causing heavy explosions and fires.

Split into Five Pockets.

Escorted Liberators bombed the important Japanese air base at Heito, Formosa, blasting assembly and repair shops, numerous fires were started and 20 planes were destroyed.

Patrol bombers hit Japanese shipping in the Sakishima Islands to the east, sinking four freighters and setting two others afire.

THREE ALLIED COLUMNS PUSH ON MANDALAY

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 31 (AP).—Three allied spearheads today threatened Mandalay, Burma's second largest city. One column was driving toward the city from Monywa while a second was pushing east from Myinmu. Monywa is 35 miles west of Mandalay and Myinmu is about 25 miles southwest.

A third threat was developing at Singu, 40 miles north of Mandalay, where British troops have opened an attack from a bridgehead across the Irrawaddy river.

Name Air Chief.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP).—Acting Air Marshal W. A. Coryton has been appointed assistant air commander of the eastern air command in southeast Asia, the air ministry announced today. He also was named air marshal commanding the R. A. F. in Bengal and Burma.

SAYS MARINE MIGHT 'FORGET' GIRL'S SLAYING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—A psychiatrist testified today that marine Pvt. Earl McFarland may not even remember it if he killed Dorothy M. Berrum, government worker who was assaulted and strangled here last October.

Dr. Thomas Vernon Moore of Catholic university told the jury in McFarland's murder trial that his examination indicated the 24 year old Guadalcanal veteran is suffering from a mental illness, accompanied by loss of memory. He said he had found no "guilt consciousness" when he talked to him. With this testimony the defense rested its case.

McFarland, subjected to an hour's questioning, denied he had ever been to Hains Point, scene of the crime on the Potomac river.

TOKYO REPORTS FIVE MORE JAP GENERALS DEAD

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The death of five more Japanese army generals was announced by the Tokyo Domei news agency yesterday in a broadcast. The deaths brought to 111 the number of Japanese generals and admirals who have died of natural causes or been killed in action in the last eight months. The dispatch said the five generals were included among 109 men to whom posthumous awards were given Monday by the war ministry and board of decorations. The officers were identified as Lt. Gen. Tomitaro Hori, and Maj. Gens. Yasuji Arai, Mamoru Sekiguchi, Yaki Adachi, and Junichipo Tagawa.

PUT UNDER SUPERVISION.

Stephen Nicholas, 17, of 218 S. Racine av., who admitted breaking into a grocery at 1149 Van Buren st. and stealing $5 worth of canned goods, was placed under supervision of the Chicago Church federation by Municipal Judge Joseph J. Drucker yesterday.

U. S. PLANES RIP JAP BASES OF IWO AND WOLEI

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Forward Area, Feb. 1 [Thursday]—(AP).—Iwo Jima, daily bombed Japanese air base in the Volcano Islands, and Wolei, enemy air base in the Carolines 525 statute miles west of Truk, were pounded Tuesday by American planes, Adm. Nimitz reported in a bulletin today. Three planes intercepted over Iwo and one was damaged.

Torpedo planes destroyed a building the next day in an attack on Yap in the western Carolines and Corsairs sank two barges near Babelthuap in the Palau Islands.

Oft bombed Iwo took a 40 ton bombing Sunday by army Liberators which also ranged west to hit little Marcus Island.

LUBLIN POLES RECOGNIZED BY CZECHOSLOVAKS

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP). — The Czechoslovak government in exile tonight announced formal recognition of the provisional Polish government at Lublin, and said diplomatic relations would be started.

Czechoslavakia is the first of the allies, except Russia, to recognize the Lublin government.

The Yugoslav government is understood to have given assurances that it will make a similar declaration.

The Czechoslovak cabinet was understood to have decided yesterday upon transferring its recognition from the London Poles, recognized by the British and United States governments, to the Lublin Poles, who have the support of soviet Russia.

AUSSIE CONFESSED KILLING OF 2 YANKS, POLICEMEN TESTIFY

BRISBANE, Australia, Jan. 31 (AP).—Frederick W. Everest, Australian ex-soldier, admitted he killed two American service men, policemen testified at his preliminary hearing today on charges of murder. They said he had suffered from hallucinations.

The victims were Petty Officer John D. McCollum and Lt. Allen C. Middleton. Everest was not acquainted with either.

McCollum was shot Jan. 24. "Yes, I shot him," Everest was quoted. "Those Yanks have been after me a long time. They tried to poison me." Regarding Lt. Middleton, who was killed Jan. 11, Everest said: "He looked like one of those Yanks who were after me." Everest received a medical discharge after four and a half years' military service.

AWOL FIGURE SHRINKS FROM 18,000 TO 8,000

PARIS, Feb. 1 [Thursday]—(AP).—The figure of 18,000 American soldiers who were said last week to be absent without leave in the European theater was revised down to 8,000 today by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, provost marshal.

Reckord said the 18,000 total, which was published in the army newspaper Stars and Stripes Jan. 26 and credited to the provost marshal's office, probably had been computed by adding the approximately 600 new AWOL cases reported each day and not taking into account each day men who had returned to duty.

Reckord said that of the total AWOL, 40 per cent were from the army ground forces reënforcement command.

HINT BIG 3 WON'T DISCUSS RED AID AGAINST JAPAN

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP).—Members of the house of commons, conscious that the absence of their leaders might mean that a meeting of the Big Three was under way, were given a guarded hint today that the question of early Russian aid against Japan had been removed from the agenda of that conference.

Richard Law.

Replying to a suggestion that British war prisoners would receive better treatment if Russia spoke sharply to Japan, Richard Law, minister of state, said "it is not proposed to raise this question at the forthcoming conference."

Other Topics to Discuss.

Law's reply, coupled with a statement in Italy by Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's personal representative, that Britain and the United States were counting on their own resources against the Japanese, drew the interpretation here that Mr. Roosevelt, Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Churchill would have other things to talk about.

Unconfirmed reports circulating here tonight said the Russians may oppose any announcement by the Big Three of allied plans for treatment of Germany after its surrender, urging that such announcement be postponed until Berlin has fallen.

The absence of both Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden from the house on a day when Eden is almost always present to answer questions on foreign affairs drew fresh speculation that the Big Three conference was close at hand. Some members argued, as did the Berlin radio, that the meeting already was under way.

Pledges British Blows at Japs.

Law told the house Britain would never back out as America's ally against Japan and would send reenforcements to the Pacific as soon as the European war was over.

Wavell Wakefield opened the debate with an assertion that there was a "widespread belief in the United States that Britain will leave the United States to fight out the Japanese war." He said something should be done to remove this "mistrust."

Law replied that Britain's determination had been made "abundantly clear." Britain's forces, he said, "will be increased when the war in Europe comes to an end."

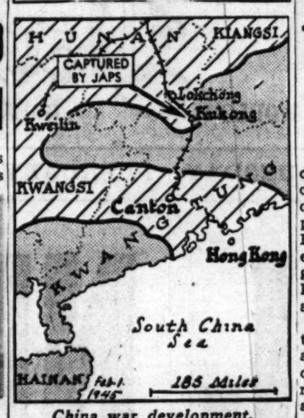

Stettinius, Hopkins Quit Rome.

ROME, Italy, Jan. 31 (AP).—United States Secretary of State Stettinius and Harry Hopkins left Rome by air today for an undisclosed destination, which may or may not be the scene of the big three conference.

Hopkins, who conferred with the Italian foreign minister, Alcide de Gasperi, during his two day visit, acknowledged that his trip was connected with the preliminaries for the conference. With Stettinius, he conferred with American military leaders yesterday and today.

CHURCH OPENS 1ST CONGRESS OF STALIN REGIME

MOSCOW, Jan. 31 (AP).—The first congress of the Russian Orthodox church since the revolution of 1917 opened today amid prayers for peace and victory and praise for Premier Marshal Stalin. Bearded ecclesiastics from all over the world gathered in Moscow's Church of the Resurrection to name a new patriarch.

Hundreds of spectators jammed the beautifully decorated church in a mixed atmosphere of ancient clerical gowns and caps and symbols of modern times including floodlights and movie cameras as the acting patriarch, Alexei of Leningrad and Novgorod, opened the congress. Alexei's formal election as patriarch was expected today.

Leader from United States.

Upwards of 160 delegates attended today's session. The first to enter the church was big, black bearded Metropolitan Benjamin Fedchenkov, spiritual leader of the Orthodox church in North America and the Aleutian Islands.

At this point a chorus of 100 voices sang a psalm of welcome as invisible bells rang thru the church. The patriarchs walked slowly forward, then raising their veils they kissed each other, and finally sat down.

Georgi Karjov, chairman of the state council of church affairs, rose, bowed, and commenced speaking.

"Good Citizen and Patriot."

"All thru the period of war," he said, "the Orthodox church has continuously taken part in the defense of the country. The church has made many sacrifices for the motherland. In the testament of the late Sergei, Alexei was mentioned as one to assume his duties as patriarch. He has proved himself a good citizen and patriot."

Alexei formally thanked Karjov, then he formally thanked the Russian government for "all its help," and added that "we are praying for the government and for him [Stalin] who is leading our country to victory and happiness."

CHICAGO FLYER BAGS CRUISER HE DIDN'T AIM AT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—Two navy avenger pilots aimed torpedoes at a Japanese battleship during the second battle of the Philippines off Samar but missed. Turning in disgust, they were delighted to see wakes of the torpedoes moving toward an Atago class heavy cruiser. For some reason the cruiser failed to change course and both torpedoes scored hits, one amidships and the other near the stern. Two explosions followed and two minutes later the cruiser sank. The pilots were Lt. [j. g.] Robert F. Voltz, 7130 Paxton av., Chicago, and Lt. [j. g.] George W. Gaiennie, Shreveport, La.

RUSSIANS GAIN 10 MILES IN NEW PUSH ON BERLIN

42 Miles from Capital, Germans Say.

within 36 miles of Stettin and 24 miles from the Oder. If Stettin is reached, all of northeastern Germany will be lopped off. Moscow dispatches said the Red army also was only 60 miles from Koslin, Baltic port midway between Stettin and Danzig.

Zhukov's columns hitting southwestward reached the Oder at a point about 38 miles southeast of Zielenzig and near Grunberg. German broadcasts reported fighting northeast of Grunberg, but gave no indication that Zhukov actually had forced the Oder to reach Grunberg.

Near Link with Konev.

Zhukov's troops were close to a linkup with Konev's army and were in position for a possible drive westward to outflank Frankfurt and the main Oder line.

Moscow dispatches declared Zhukov's tanks were sweeping westward in deep snows, and quoted captured German officers as saying the Nazi positions broken in Brandenburg were "the last strong defense line before the Oder."

Marshal Stalin issued two orders of the day yesterday, the first announcing the fall of Landsberg and the second proclaiming the capture of Friedland and Heilsberg, south and southwest of Koenigsberg in East Prussia.

Seize Strong Points.

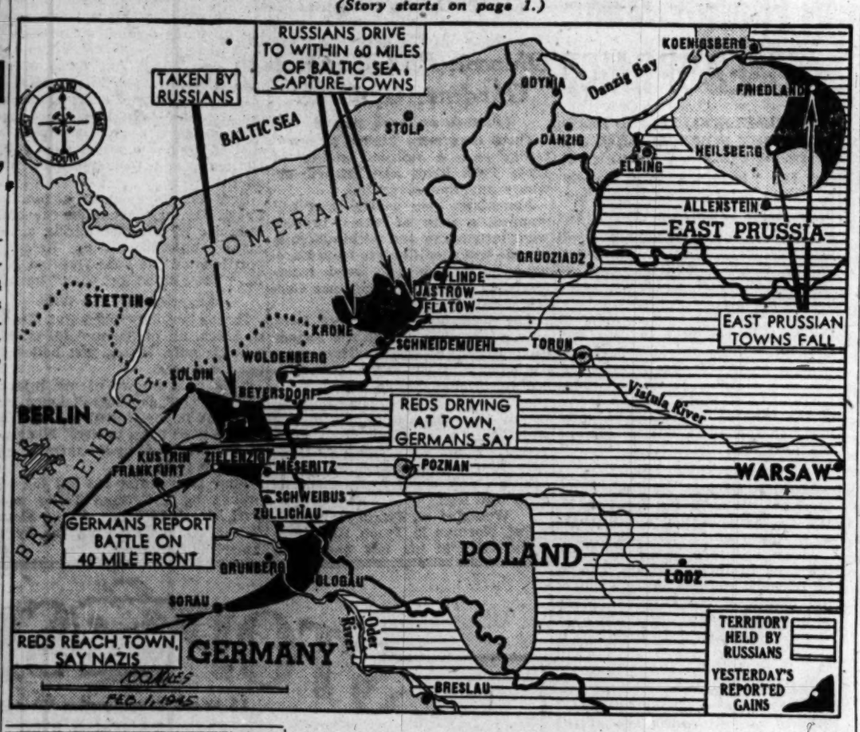

In addition to Landsberg, a strategic communications center 27 miles northeast of the confluence of the Oder and Warthe rivers at Kustrin, Stalin announced the capture of Meseritz, 24 miles southeast of Landsberg; Schweibus, 13 miles south of Meseritz, and Zullichau, 11 miles southeast of Schweibus. All are powerful defensive points covering the approaches to Frankfurt-on-the-Oder.

The 1st White Russian army now has advanced more than 250 miles from its bridgeheads south of Warsaw in less than three weeks. Moscow dispatches said that improving weather had permitted soviet aircraft to give the ground forces increased support.

Moscow also reported gains west and southwest of Katowice, Poland, in the Carpathian mountains of southern Poland and in central Slovakia. Oderwalde, a town on the Oder river 11 miles inside German Silesia and 28 miles west of Katowice, fell to Marshall Konev's army.

Russians Continue Their Drive for Berlin

SOME GERMANS READY TO QUIT, BERLIN LAMENTS

But We'll Fight On, Radio Asserts.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP).—Some Germans are ready to surrender, the Berlin radio said today, but declared, "Those cowardly creatures who try to desert the fatherland in its hour of need are relatively few among our people."

"Germany will fight on no matter where or under what conditions," the broadcast added.

Other German radio reports told of refugees fleeing toward Berlin. One transmission by Transocean, Nazi news agency, said 5 million Germans were trudging westward from the threatened areas, some of them in columns more than 35 miles long.

Urge Clearing of Roads.

Another appealed to German women and children to help clear the roads of snow and ice for the reenforcements moving up to the eastern front. "The German homeland is now at stake," said the appeal.

Stockholm reports said Berlin's gauleiter-dictator, Paul Joseph Goebbels, was rushing preparations for a defense of the capital "which will not leave one stone atop another when the Russians enter."

All public buildings and institutions—even the zoo observatory—were said to have been converted into defense points. As gauleiter, Goebbels has full charge of Berlin's defenses.

"Factories will be blown up and the whole capital scorched," the Nazi propaganda minister was quoted.

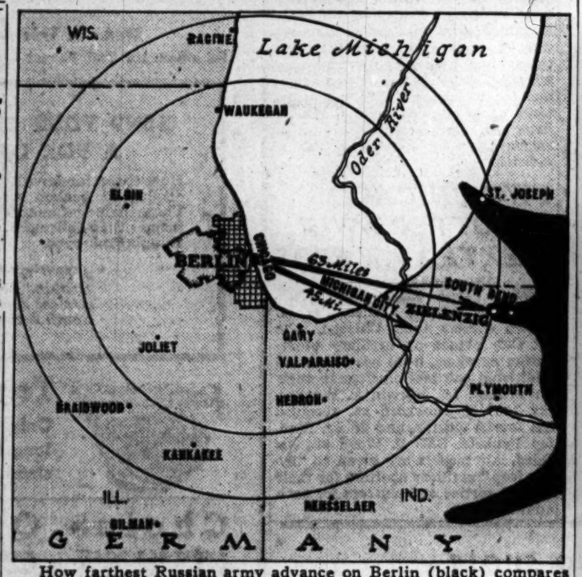

GERMANS SILENT

BERN, Switzerland, Jan. 31 (AP).—An observer for the conservative Der Bund wrote today that Hitler's appeal for steadfast resistance was answered by the German people with steadfast silence.

"The people keep silent and thereby manifest their longing for peace, no matter what the price," this observer said. "They have found their weapon—silence—in refusing longer to accept official declarations and 'pep talks.'

"The people thus express their will, their longing, their goal, and their hope. They are keeping closed lips—until the day when the last cannon is fired, when they again can make their voices heard."

The writer said revolt in Germany is possible, that weapons are available and that the July 20 abortive revolt against Hitler proved this. He said small groups, little known abroad, seek by propaganda and by sabotage of industry to overthrow the Hitler regime.

BERLIN TENSION GROWS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 31 [Reuters]. — "Tension in Berlin is growing daily but it is too early yet to speak of panic," the German controled Scandinavian telegram bureau announced today. At the same time German censors allowed Swedish correspondents to refer to an "electric atmosphere" in Berlin.

"The situation on the eastern front is critical, but it will not become desperate until German soldiers ride to their battle sectors on the Berlin underground railway," said a German military spokesman to correspondents in Berlin.

"All people who cannot flee—seven year old boys, eighty year old men, women, and little girls—are defending their homes and farms with rifles and carbines" said one German report on the fighting in Brandenburg.

The damage to the Teme has been repaired and the frigate is back on operations.

U.S. ARMY BEGINS LIQUIDATION OF UNITS IN IRAN

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 27 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Persian gulf command is being liquidated since the opening of a shorter supply line to Russia thru the Dardanelles and the Black sea, but American military railway service troops are likely to linger for some time in Iran [Persia].

American withdrawal from the once vital lifeline to Russia was planned about a year ago and even before the first allied convoy passed thru the Dardanelles the Persian gulf command began its "streamlining" with abandonment of motor transport service across Iran about two months ago.

Districts Consolidated.

The plan now calls for immediate dissolving of mountain and desert districts of the command and consolidation of the gulf district with the Khorramshahr port units.

The only remaining motor operations under allied supervision are the one way trips by trucks assembled at Khorramshahr under army direction, loaded with military cargoes, and driven into Russia by Russian soldiers and the Persian drivers the Russians employ.

At present, the railway and the Khorramshahr truck assembly plant are the only surviving American military operations in Iran.

Plans Will Take Time.

Altho farsighted plans have been made to turn back the trans-Iranian railway from the gulf to Tehran, where the Russians take over and operate it as far as the Caspian sea and the Iranian northwest, the transfer cannot be effected overnight.

Moreover, the railway continues to carry aviation gasoline, lubricants, and the ingredients for processing and supplementing soviet production of high octane fuel. The source of these products is the Anglo-Iranian oil company, conveniently located in the Persian gulf area.

Since the formation of the old Persian gulf supply command in the autumn of 1942, the Americans have sent more than 4,500,000 tons of materiel thru the Persian corridor to Russia. This was augmented by 750,000 tons delivered by the British.

THIEVES TAKE SILVERWARE.

Silverware and a wrist watch all valued at $185, were stolen by burglars who entered thru a rear window of his apartment at 4209 N. Mozart st., Frank Swanson reported to police.

SUFFOCATED BY FIRE IN HOME.

William Vandermeulen, 75, of 844 W. 104th st., was found dead by firemen in the basement of his home yesterday, apparently of suffocation from a fire in the home, which was put out.

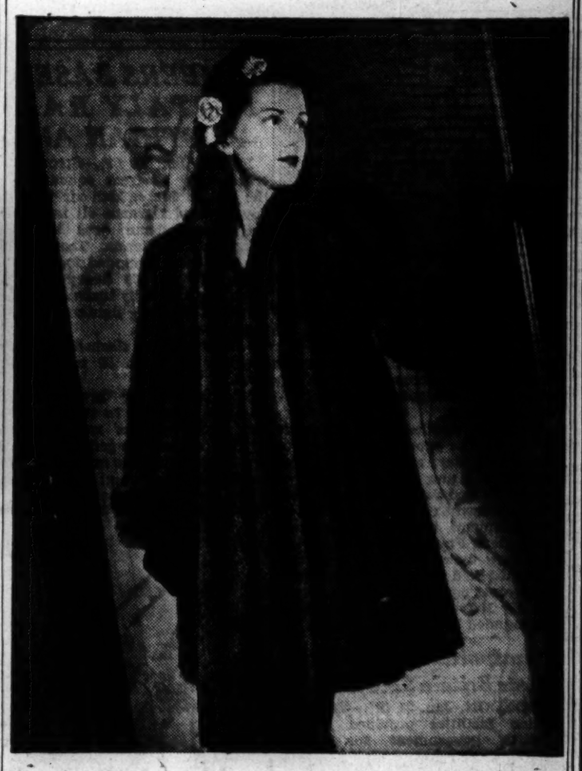

73 NEGRO TROOPS CONVICTED FOR HAWAII MUTINY

U. S. ARMY HDQ., CENTRAL PACIFIC BASE COMMAND, Jan. 31 (AP). — Seventy-three Negro soldiers have been convicted in two courts martial on charges of mutiny for refusing to work on an Oahu air field and have been sentenced to from 8 to 30 years confinement at hard labor. Oahu is the island on which Honolulu is situated.

The report today on the first army trials for mutiny in the Central Pacific area since the outbreak of the war said the mutiny took place the night of July 31, 1944. All the accused were members of company E of the 1320th engineer general service regiment.

One ringleader was sentenced to 30 years, a second to 25 years. Three others were given 20 years. Sentences of the five ringleaders also called for a dishonorable discharge and a total forfeiture of pay and allowances. The names were not made public.

TWO U.S. ARMIES PUSH INTO REICH AT 4 NEW PLACES

Expand Aachen Breach in Siegfried Line.

PARIS, Feb. 1 [Thursday]—(AP).—Germany's Siegfried line, its defenders thinned by withdrawals to reenforce the Russian front, faced a new test today from two American armies smashing eastward in a combined assault at the rate of three to four miles a day.

The doughboys yesterday cleared a two mile stretch of the Siegfried installations at the southern end of the Aachen gap and pushed across the reich frontier at four new places, virtually wiping out the last German foothold on Belgian soil.

With the Siegfried's main defenses under heavy artillery fire and the Americans pushing into the outposts of the line, it appeared to be only a matter of days, if not hours, until the allies would know to what extent the Germans have weakened their western defenses by shifting troops to the east.

French Kill 5,000 Nazis.

In the south, the Germans were on the verge of losing large slices of French territory around the city of Colmar, already outflanked by the French 1st army. It was estimated that in that area allied troops have killed at least 5,000 German troops and taken 2,500 prisoners in two days.

French troops apparently set up the Colmar garrison for the kill by punching to points where they could dominate the main highway connecting the city with the Rhine river bridge at Breisach. On the south edge of the Colmar pocket French troops, assisted by the United States 3d and 28th divisions, partly by-passed Cernay and Wittelsheim, where the Germans have been putting up a stiff fight.

[A dispatch last night to the London Daily Express said remnants of the 19th German army totaling 30,000 men were in full retreat south of Strasbourg. It said the battle in the Colmar area had developed into a race between German and French troops for the Rhine bridge at Breisach.]

7th's Opposition Slight.

Allied patrols all along the United States 7th army front from Strasbourg to Sarreguemines were reported encountering only slight Nazi opposition. Allied troops yesterday took without opposition the village of Gambsheim, eight miles northeast of Strasbourg and about two miles from the Rhine.

A Field dispatch last night said the easy conquest of Gambsheim may indicate a German withdrawal from the bridgehead they hold from there northward along the Rhine.

Troops of the United States 1st and 3d armies, many clad in snow camouflage suits, were pushing forward thru rain and slush along a 40 mile section of the Siegfried line. The assault was not yet a full scale offensive, but it was approaching the proportions of one, and Berlin broadcasts freely forecast that a supreme allied effort to break the deadlock seemed to be in the making.

Our Bridgehead Widened.

The attack ranged all the way from the Aachen breach driven into the Westwall last fall to the 3d army's Welchenhausen bridgehead across the Our river. The bridgehead itself now has been widened to seven miles.

The two armies, in addition to cutting across the frontier in four new places, advanced as much as 5,000 yards east yesterday and overran at least a dozen towns, some of them in Germany.

Little activity was reported from the United States 9th army front before Duren, but in the extreme north Canadian and British troops completed a mop-up of German units among the numerous dikes on the Maas Island bridgehead north of Tilburg, Holland.

As thick weather held allied air power on the ground yesterday for the second day, announcement was made that a new French component of the United States 1st tactical air force, known as the French Atlantic air command, now is in operation in western France. The French airmen are flying principally in support of allied forces guarding three west coast pockets in which approximately 100,000 Germans have been surrounded for several months.

Official German War Reports

Western Front.

Wednesday's German war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said:

"Fighting in the center of the west front has spread to the Monschau sector. After violent artillery preparation, formations of the American 1st army attacking there were able to enter several towns, in which fierce fighting still is going on.

"In the Monschau forest, the enemy was intercepted by counter-attacks and pressed back. On both sides of St. Vith, the enemy continued his breakthru attempts, but was checked by defense fire of all weapons.

"On the Moselle and Saar rivers fronts and in lower Alsace, the day passed quietly.

"In upper Alsace, the enemy tried anew to cut off both our flanks, probing into Wasgenwald. Half of the enemy tanks advancing in the Grussenheim sector were destroyed.

"At the Colmar canal, the enemy was able to widen his local bridgehead. North of Mulhouse and in the Sennheim area, enemy attempts to break thru to the north were foiled by the gallant defense of our troops which inflicted heavy losses. The penetrating enemy was thrown back again in a counter-thrust."

Russian Front.

The German Wednesday war bulletin as broadcast by Berlin said:

"Hungary, enemy attacks between the Drava [river] and Lake Balaton as well as between Lake Balaton and the Danube remained unsuccessful. In the west part of Budapest, the German and Hungarian garrison pitted itself with remarkable bravery against the heavy enemy onslaught. In the northern part, positions were taken back to a shortened line.

"On the upper Silesian front, major fighting ensued only in several sectors between Pless and Ratibor and Brieg.

"Near Ohlau and on both sides of Steinau, the Soviets attacking from their Oder river bridgeheads were intercepted in a counter-attack after fluctuating fighting.

"Strong German forces have fought their way back from the area of Kalisz.

"In the Oder-Warthe bend and north of the Warthe, our troops are engaged in heavy fighting with enemy infantry and tank forces pushing toward the west.

"North of Zlotowo and north of Krenowo on the Brahe river, a counter-attack against enemy reconnaissance formations which had advanced thus far, is going on.

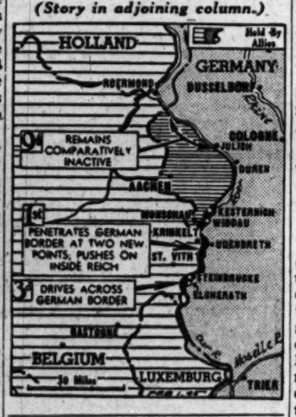

"The Soviets launched a strong counter-attack against our attack in the west part of East Prussia.

"South of Koenigsberg, panzer grenadiers threw back the enemy who had advanced as far as Frisches Haff, thus reestablishing a connection with the city which had been lost for the time being.

Transportation for U. S. Costs Britain $140,890,000

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP).—Transportation facilities provided by the British government for United States armed forces under reverse lend-lease from early 1942 until December, 1944, reached a total value of $140,890,000, United States army transportation corps officials said today. The major costs were in railroad freight and passenger service, computed on rates charged to the British government which totalled $85,000,000, and water transport, including ocean freight, repairs, stevedoring, and other port services, $46,650,000.

100 on Romania's First List of War Criminals

BUCHAREST, Romania, Jan. 30 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Romanian council of ministers approved tonight the first list of 100 generals, officials, and politicians arrested on charges of war crime and collaborating with Nazi Germany. Former Premier Ion Antonescu was formally charged immediately.

ISOLATED NAZIS IN FRANCE MAKE SERIES OF RAIDS

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, PARIS, Jan. 31 [Reuters].—Allied troops fighting the "forgotten war" in the western coastal area of France now have their own air force, the French Atlantic air command, which drops captured German bombs and pumps German outlets into the fortifications and ammunition dumps around La Rochelle.

There has been land fighting in the area in the past 10 days and German raiding forces seized two villages on the Vandee river, Charron and Marans, 11 and 15 miles north of La Rochelle. French forces of the interior [FFI] troops, however, chased them out of Marans the next day.

Capture Third Village.

Another German raiding party came out the following day, Jan. 23, and captured Bullon, a village 13 miles south of La Rochelle.

There still are 30,000 to 35,000 Germans in three pockets, one at La Rochelle and one on each side of the mouth of the Gironde. Many anti-aircraft guns blaze away at allied planes which occasionally stray over the pockets. In Lorient and Saint Nazaire 60,000 Germans still are holding out.

Message from Enemy Leader.

From Lorient comes one of the most impudent stories of the war. An allied division outside the port was relieved, and when the new commander took over he received a message from the German commander which read: "Congratulations on your new appointment. I hope our relations will continue as cordial as they were with the X division."

BOMBERS BASED IN ITALY RAID AUSTRIAN AREA

ROME, Jan. 31 (AP).—Strong Liberator and Fortress squadrons of the United States 15th air force today bombed German oil targets in the Mooslierbaun area 22 miles northwest of Vienna. These bombers had been grounded for 10 days. From 500 to 750 heavy bombers made the attack by instrument thru clouds. Lightning fighters provided the escort.

The tactical air force's medium bombers returned to the attack on the Brenner pass rail line and fighter bombers ranged across northern Italy. Mitchells struck at a rail station and bridge at Roverito and a rail diversion line at Lavis.

Almost as soon as the cars had stopped, a host of litter bearers went into action and within 30 minutes 74 wounded fighters from European battlefields had been transferred to the nearby Gardiner General hospital.

The men arrived in New York only a few days ago on the former liner Queen Elizabeth. They were "processed" thru the Halloran General hospital on Staten Island, N. Y., then placed aboard the hospital train. The men, ranging in age from 19 to 35, come from Ohio homes. Some wore Spica casts to hold injured arms in an outstretched position and some wore casts on arms and legs.

Wounded on Patrol Duty.

Pvt. Norman E. Tyson, 20, of Fostoria, O., had his left knee fractured when he was struck by shrapnel on the outskirts of Aachen last Oct. 19.

"I was with a five man patrol in back of the Jerry lines," he said. "We were passing a house when the Germans opened up on us.

"I was knocked down and another man was killed, but three of our men got away. The Jerries took me into the house and a medic treated my wound. About two hours later our men came back in strength, assaulted the house, killed some of the Germans, and took the rest prisoners."

Sgt. Jerry Nedved, 25, of Martin's Ferry, O., was struck in the right shoulder by a bullet during a German counter-attack on American positions on the Saar river on Nov. 26. "They didn't get thru," he said.

Surprise for His Wife.

It was last July when Pvt. George D. Lisch, 31, of Springfield, O., last saw his wife, Helen, just before he went overseas.

"My wife knows of my injury," he said, "but she doesn't know that I'm back in the United States. This will be good news to her." His right foot was injured by shrapnel in Holland last Nov. 4.

PEAK BY PEAK VICTORY TOLD BY CAPT. BRITT

Yank Infantry Captures Ridge in Italy.

(Taking a ridge—another job for the infantry! This story is another instalment in a series on Company L, 30th infantry, 3d infantry division, by the company's commanding officer, who has been called the No. 1 infantry man of this war.)

BY CAPT. MAURICE L. BRITT.

[First soldier to receive the medal of honor, the distinguished service cross, the silver star, and the bronze star in the present war.]

As told to Carl Wiegman.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I have seen many wounded men cry, not from pain, but from fear that they would be separated from their company. In the front lines, a man's company is his world; he thinks in terms of his company. A wound may mean hospitalization and the chance that when a man returns to action he may be sent to a strange community inhabited by members of unknown companies.

Back home, many of the members of company L would have few interests in common. In the front line, we held in common a supreme interest: staying alive.

Battle Stress Unites Soldiers.

Often we got replacements for men killed and wounded. Any new man would be accepted immediately, if his personality was attractive. But after the first battle, all new men were accepted, without regard for their personalities. Sharing of battle triumphs and agonies makes you very close.

I have seen brand new recruits swaggering down the line after their first battle, announcing, "I'm from company L," with all the pride and assurance of the oldest veteran.

The same soldiers who jeer at windy patriotic speeches never laugh at the most sentimental reference to their company. This esprit de corps is really the focus of their patriotism. Our pride in our company is therefore our pride in our country.

Men of Many Nations.

Company L was a cross section of America. My own ancestry is Scotch-Irish, and we had men representing many a European nationality: Polish, Czech, Russian, German, Scandinavian. Three of our best men were German Jews, who came to the United States in 1938 as refugees from the Nazis.

These men should have been sent to the Pacific theater, because capture by the Germans might have meant a Gestapo death for them. For this reason, we carefully avoided using them as members of patrols. But they were excellent interpreters and cheerfully performed every task, no matter how hard. They were driven by a hatred we didn't have.

Our knowledge of the war was confined to our own little section of the front. For security reasons, we were never told about the general plan of a campaign; some of us might be taken prisoners. We knew only our own objective—a hill, a town, a crossroads—or the yards of frontage in the line for which we were responsible.

Ordered to Take Ridge.

All we knew in November, 1943, was that we were generally going north in Italy. We supported other elements of the 3d division which crossed the Volturno river, then advanced toward the German winter line anchored at Cassino. At San Nicoli ridge the Germans had an outpost of the well fortified winter line. We were told to take the ridge that guarded the German occupied town of Pietravairano.

Taking of this ridge, which had a series of four peaks, was an example of the kind of job that only the infantry can do, even in this age of air power and mechanization. Two battalions were assigned to attack at the east end of the ridge. The town lay at the opposite end.

Fighting in an action with two battalions was big time stuff for company L. Until then we had been engaged mostly in a series of single company or single battalion battles. Our battalion, the 3d, was on the left, and the 2d battalion on the right.

Artillery Bombards in Advance.

At daybreak the artillery and air force bombarded the west half of the ridge for an hour, and then we started up the western slope, moving in a skirmish line much like the men in the Civil war. We took the first peak with only a few casualties and dug in to await a counter-attack.

In hilly country, where tanks can't operate, it is safe to dig slit trenches. Each man digs his own, making it long enough for him to lie in and as deep as he wants to dig. In flat country, where there is danger of being overrun by tanks, it is safer to dig a foxhole, which is circular and at least deep enough to crouch in.

We dug slit trenches on the first peak, arranging them so each man would have a field of fire if the enemy attacked. All that night we waited, permitting no one to sleep, but the Germans failed to show up. It started to drizzle, a clammy Italian drizzle that always made us wonder who started the expression "sunny Italy."

Breeze Betrays Germans.

When daylight came the mist was so thick that we could barely make out the next peak—our next objective—and we couldn't see anything in the depression between the peaks. Suddenly we had a lucky break. A breeze lifted the mist for a few seconds and we caught a glimpse of about 50 Germans frantically laying mines and barbed wire below us.

We advanced cautiously, assigned men to remove the detonators of the mines, got safely thru the trap, and started up the next peak. I was carrying a German machine pistol, which fires very rapidly and makes a sound something like b-d-d-d-t. It is an irritating sound.

I fired the German weapon in the air before the enemy had opened up on our advancing line. They evidently took this to be a signal to begin firing, and did so, while we were still in good cover. By opening up, they disclosed their gun positions, a godsend to us.

Three Nazis Surrender.

As we moved up thru the thick underbrush, I heard shouts of "Hahnds oop" a few feet away. I swung around with my gun in firing position. My radio man, Pvt. Solomon, who was beside me, pulled out his .45 and hollered back, "Hands up yourself," at three big Germans holding rifles. There was a tense instant as we stared at each other, then the Germans dropped their guns. We sent them back as prisoners.

After that, we took the second peak and dug in again. We had been in action or ready for action two days and a night without sleep and without fresh supplies of food or water. That night it rained again and some of the men tried to catch water in a blanket that they formed into a kind of trough. They managed to collect a little in a helmet by wringing out the blanket.

Without Food and Water.

Our mouths were so dry that cigarets tasted like dust. We tried to wet our tongues, but there was no saliva. Our lips were crusted and cracked. Our stomachs had an empty, drawn feeling. But there was nothing to be done about it. The only men we could spare to run supplies had to carry ammunition, not food and water.

Taking the next two peaks was more of the same kind of fighting and when we came down the east end of the ridge the Germans pulled out of Pietravairano without a fight. But they left some deadly souvenirs. As we entered the town, two Italian civilians told us "Mines, mines," with much gesticulating toward the town. We took the hint and spent the night in some ancient or medieval ruins on the hill. We had no guidebook and never found out whether the ruins were supposed to be historic. Anyway, we were too tired to care.

Civilians Die in Booby Traps.

Next morning, some of the civilians of the town, who had huddled in a church thru the fighting on the ridge, returned to their homes. Many were cut to pieces by the German mines and booby traps. Some of the victims were little children. We were as accustomed to death as men can ever get, but this made us sick. When our medics came up, they took care of the injured people, and we gave the civilians what food we could spare.

Thruout the campaign, the Italian civilians were often useful in providing information about the enemy. While they never misled us deliberately, to my knowledge, we soon learned they had a tendency to exaggerate. We usually divided their estimates by 10 and got a figure roughly near the truth.

Whenever we entered a town, the Italians greeted us with glad cries of "Amico, amico!" [friend, friend]. When that formality was over, they got down to business and asked, "When do we eat?"

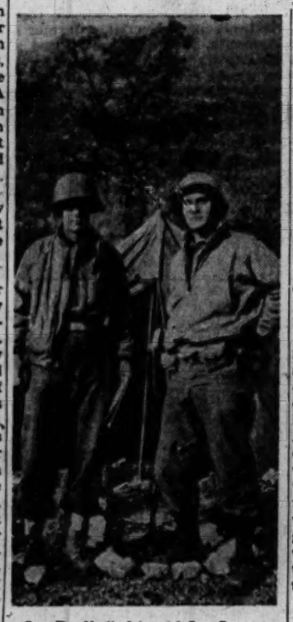

[Editor's note: For his valor in the taking of San Nicoli ridge, Capt. Britt was awarded the bronze star.]

Battle Along Ridge to Take Town

Today Capt. Britt gives much insight into the way the infantry fights to gain and keep ground in telling of his and another battalion's advance along a ridge to capture a town in Italy.

YANK GUNNERS 'MOUSE TRAP' 7 GERMAN TANKS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY IN ALSACE, France, Jan. 31.—How seven German tanks were destroyed and many enemy infantrymen killed in less than two minutes when they came into an American "mouse trap" was told today by some of the Americans involved. The Americans didn't suffer a casualty—in fact, the four Mark V. Panthers and three Mark IVs knocked out didn't get in a single shot.

The action took place several days ago near Weyersheim, eight miles south of Haguenau. Twenty-five German tanks with supporting infantry came west out of a wood. Five of our tank destroyers were waiting, dug in, two on one side of the road and three on the other.

Sergeant's Second Day.

Sgt. Rufus Brantley, Tennille, Ga., was gunner on one of the two tank destroyers north of the road. Only the day before Brantley had received his sergeant's stripes and been transferred at his request from the medical aid branch where he had served for 13 months. He opened fire at 1,200 yards.

"I thought I was hitting one tremendous tank," he said. "It blazed up beautifully after my second shot. Then I saw 'it' was actually two tanks, a Panther and a Mark IV."

Sgt. William Rutledge, Houston, Tex., on the adjacent tank destroyer let go at another Panther at 2,100 yards. He wrecked it with his first shell and poured in more shells to slaughter some of the accompanying infantry.

Brothers in One Crew.

Meanwhile, the three tank destroyers south of the road were blasting away at longer range at the rear of the German column.

Sgt. Claude Stokes, McAllister, Okla., was the gunner on one and his twin brother, Sgt. Clyde Stokes, was the driver. Claude knocked out a Panther at 3,000 yards and his alternate gunner, Staff Sgt. Leonard Collingsworth, Dodd City, Tex., got a Mark IV. at 2,500 yards and between them they also accounted for a number of the enemy infantry.

The extreme range for direct fire by our tank destroyers is 3,500 yards and it was at that distance that the two other gunners south of the road scored their victories.

FRENCH READY TO RETURN HOME FROM BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Plans for the repatriation of more than 3,000,000 French citizens scattered over the world by the war were announced today.

The first step will be the return of 20,000 French from England. The first boatload of repatriates is expected to reach an unidentified channel port next week.

At Nice, a reception center is being established for the expected arrival in the next two months of 200,000 French war prisoners now in Odessa, Russia. They were liberated by the Russians from German prison camps in Poland and Upper Silesia.

ARMY BREAKS UP OLDEST UNIT OF U. S. PARATROOPS

Survivors Assigned to Air Borne Divisions.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 1ST ARMY, Belgium, Jan. 31.—The 509th paratroop battalion, the oldest combat paratroop unit in the American army and one of its fightingest, is being dissolved, it was disclosed today. Its survivors, only a handful of those who made the initial paratroop operation in North Africa, are being sent into other units of our air borne divisions as reenforcements.

Col. Edson D. Raff.

To members of this historic battalion the loss of their battalion identity comes as a sore blow, but the army believes that the experience of the veterans will be of great advantage to the larger units which will absorb them.

Flew to French Morocco.

Skilled paratroopers such as the 509th men are highly prized as reenforcements. Even the crack air borne divisions cannot fight without casualties, so the army feels that their needs should be met in the most practicable fashion.

At the moment the 509th is considerably depleted in strength as a result of hard fighting. And of those who made the 1,500 mile flight from Land's End, England, to Talfarous, French Morocco, Nov. 8, 1942, scarcely 30 remain.

The battalion is now commanded by Maj. Edmund J. Tomasik of New Bedford, Mass., who started as a private in 1932. He took over the command from Lt. Col. William P. Yarborough of New York, now studying in the general staff school in Leavenworth, Kas.

When the battalion jumped in Morocco and later near Tebessa, Algeria, crossing from there quickly into Tunisia, it was commanded by the then Lt. Col. Edson D. Raff of New York. Later Lt. Col. Doyle M. Yardley took over before the battalion jumped at Avellino, Italy, where Yardley was wounded and captured.

[It was with the 509th that Mr. Thompson became the first war correspondent to jump with the paratroopers in combat. He accompanied them at Tebessa.]

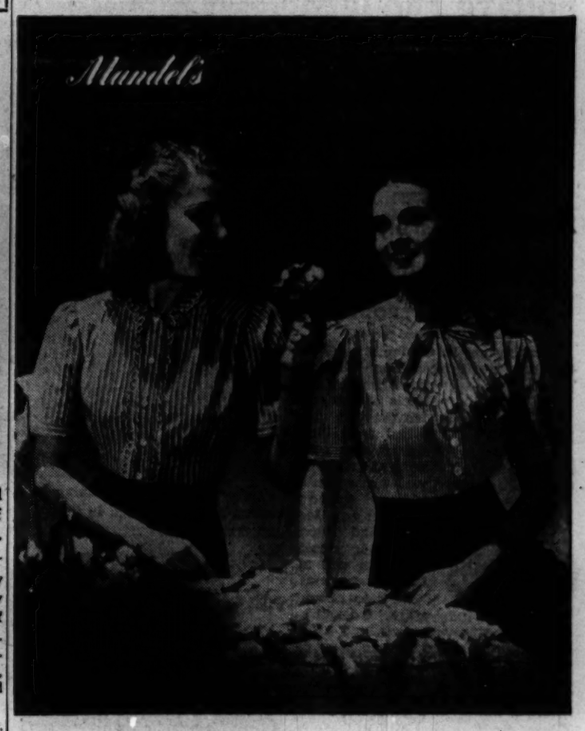

Fought Beside French.

The 509th was the first American unit to fight against the Germans with the French, for which they were authorized to wear the 3d Zouave regimental insignia, awarded on the Tunisian border. It was the first American unit to enter Tunisia, first to contact Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps, and first to reach Gafsa. The troopers also fought at Feriana, Sbeitla, and the first battle of Faid pass. Its jump at Avellino helped save the Salerno beachhead. Later the battalion fought at Venafro and for 70 days at Anzio.

It also participated in the air borne spearhead invasion of southern France, fighting there until Nov. 16, when it was shifted to the north and helped turn back Von Rundstedt's break-thru in Belgium.

The battalion veterans wear ribbons of a Presidential unit citation with an oak leaf cluster for Company C. In addition its roster includes the first medal of honor awarded a parachutist.

Other awards to members include nine distinguished service crosses.

DOUBTS AROUSED ON ALLIED TRIAL OF WAR GUILTY

Creation of Army Board Provokes Speculation.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Creation of a war crimes commission in the army, on the heels of the controversy in the allied nations war crimes commission, provoked speculation today whether any German and Japanese war criminals ever will be brought to trial.

...ve. Melv. e Purvis.

At the war and state departments it was acknowledged that many things stand in the way of bringing such characters as Hitler, Himmler, Ley, Goebbels, Tojo, and Koiso before the bar of a court or before a military commission.

Any number of things might happen to the high Nazis, it was said. Hitler and his followers might prefer death at the front or suicide to facing an allied trial, or they might be destroyed by an irate populace as disaster tumbles on the German people, it was said.

Russian Plans Are One Factor.

It also is considered possible the Russian troops may demand the Nazi ringleaders, to deal with them in their own way and without interference from Great Britain or the United States, as one of the payments for their victory.

It was conceded as remotely possible that both the German people and the Russians might allow the Nazis to escape to neutral countries where they are rumored to have various caches of money, jewels, and securities.

Legal problems in connection with trials would be tremendous, it was said at the justice department. It would be necessary to determine under what laws and of what nation the prisoners would be tried. Perhaps, it was said, an entirely new legal machinery might have to be established.

A rigid decision would have to be made as to how far down the party line trials would go, it was acknowledged, or every Nazi party member or servant in the remotest town, who worked for the Nazi effort, might be haled before a court or commission. Such action would mean, an observer said, that trials might go on for a quarter of a century after the end of hostilities.

Many officials here believe the question of the trial of Japanese war criminals will solve itself, because they expect wholesale suicides of Japanese leaders when that nation begs for peace.

During World War I. there was great demand for the trial of the kaiser and his staff after the war. He was allowed to live undisturbed in exile in Holland, however, and his staff went untouched.

Atrocity File Reported.

A new unit created in the army will function in the office of the judge advocate general. It reportedly is compiling dosiers of individual perpetrators of atrocities against Americans such as the death march on Bataan and the execution of American flyers who bombed Tokyo in 1942.

Col. Melvin Purvis, former FBI agent in Chicago, who traced down John Dillinger, one time No. 1 public enemy, has been assigned to the unit, which is headed by Brig. Gen. John M. Weir.

In London H. McKennon Wood, secretary of the allied war crimes commission, denied it had received a list of Italian war criminals, altho Ethiopians reported having forwarded such a list to the British government.

SENTENCE 5 NAZI WAR PRISONERS TO DEATH IN U. S.

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—Newsweek magazine says in its Feb. 5 issue that five German prisoners of war have been sentenced to death by court martial for killing a fellow prisoner at Camp Tonkawa, Okla., Nov. 5, 1943, and are awaiting "their doom in a federal penitentiary."

The five noncommissioned officers, the magazine says, "proudly admitted" at their trial—the first American court martial involving a capital offense by German prisoners of war—that they killed Corp. Johann Kunze, who was found beaten to death with sticks and bottles.

"Under the articles of war the court had no choice but to pronounce the death sentence," the magazine adds. "The Nazis appeared entirely satisfied."

CHARGES KING REGIME BETRAYS CANADA'S ARMY

Draft Policy Held in Contempt: Bracken.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 31.—Betrayal of the troops at the battle front was charged to Prime Minister King and Defense Minister McNaughton today by John Bracken, opposition party leader, who said that the federal government's reinforcement policy was held in "utter contempt" by the men at the front.

The national Progressive Conservative leader, addressing a meeting at Owen Sound in support of W. Garfield Case, candidate for parliament in the Grey North by-election Feb. 5, asserted that King is the one man above all others whose policies are responsible for "division and bitterness."

Warns of Disunity.

Bracken declared that if McNaughton is elected to parliament the electors will lay the basis for disunity which will spit the nation from end to end in civil strife.

Just returned from a tour of the battlefronts, Bracken said that when he read McNaughton's "misleading stories" of the government's reinforcement policy he was compelled to say that "no words could be too strong in condemnation of such deception."

Bracken said that while overseas he had talked with men in all ranks in the army and other services.

Wanted More Troops.

"They were from all parts of Canada, from families which had followed the different political beliefs which have grown up in this country," said Bracken. "I sought only the truth. If Col. Ralston was wrong, I wanted to know it. But they told me he was not wrong. They told me his was an understatement, rather than an overstatement."

Col. J. L. Ralston resigned as defense minister last November in protest against the King regime's refusal to compel military conscripts to serve overseas. He was succeeded by Gen. McNaughton. King later agreed to a plan of partial conscription for overseas duty.

Bracken said that the stories he heard from the various fronts he visited shocked him.

"If now I can shock the people of Canada into a greater sense of realism, and shock the government of Canada out of the political shackles which bind it, I will be doing precisely what our officers and men overseas would want me to do," he continued.

"And shocking tho the story may be to you, as it was to me, those men have the definite conviction that Canadians at home are letting them down."

CANADA CLOSES 5th SESSION OF 19th PARLIAMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan 31.—The fifth and possibly the last session of Canada's 19th parliament was officially prorogued today. It opened on Jan. 27, 1944, and sat until Aug. 14, when it adjourned until Nov. 22, then sat until Dec. 6, when it adjourned.

OPEN 2 PROBES INTO FIRE FATAL TO 16 INFANTS

Auburn, Me., Jan. 31 [Special].—Two state investigations were begun tonight into Maine's worst fire disaster in recent years which took the lives of 16 babies and a nurse early today in a privately owned boarding home for the children of working mothers.

Harry O. Page, Maine commissioner of health and welfare, disclosed that the converted farmhouse was being operated as a nursery without a legally required license from the bureau of social welfare.

Arriving here from the state capital to open an inquiry, Page said technical violations had prevented issuance of a permit. He listed one violation as the boarding of more than the maximum of 16 babies prescribed by the state code. He added, however, that there had been no indication of a fire hazard in the house.

Four Still Unidentified.

Another inquiry was ordered by State Insurance Commissioner Joseph A. Flynn to determine the cause of the flames that swept the story and a half wooden structure which housed 25 occupants. Only five children and three women escaped.

Stunned relatives of the little victims were still trying to identify four yet unclaimed bodies remaining in the morgue. Most of the children, who were between 3 months and 3 years old, were badly burned. Others had died of suffocation as firemen stood helpless, stopped by solid sheets of flame.

When firemen finally were able to enter the building they found the tots with their heads thrust between their crib slats in a futile struggle to escape. Strewn on the floor were charred dolls and toys where they had been dropped last night when the tots fell asleep.

Mrs. Eva Lacoste, who operated the home with the aid of her sister and two other women, said she was awakened and saw flames racing up the kitchen walls above a coal stove. She said she seized two cribs, the babies still in them, and started for the door but fell and lost them. She stumbled out the door alone, her arms badly burned.

Twins Among Victims.

Her own three sons, the youngest 6 years old, were saved, as was the 17 months old daughter of Mrs. Loretta Fournier, 20, one of the caretakers. Mrs. Fournier fled with her own child and a 1 year old charge. These five children, Mrs. Fournier, Mrs. Lacoste and the latter's sister, Miss Blanche Tanguay, were the only survivors. A fourth caretaker, Mrs. Rosa Cote, 50, perished in an unsuccessful attempt to save her own 5 year old son.

Three of the tiny victims were the children of servicemen, one of whom never had seen his 6 month old daughter. Among those who died were 8 months old twin boys who were placed in the home only last night.

Mrs. Jane Wideman, 23, wife of Seaman Arnold Wideman, now stationed in Chicago, fearfully entered a morgue searching for her 18 month old son. Slowly she walked by the upturned faces but suddenly stopped, clutched her throat and swayed as she moaned: "That's my baby!"

BIG FOOD FIRM LOSES $45,110 IN 2D SUIT BY OPA

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday entered a consent judgment of $45,110 against John Sexton & Co., wholesale food dealers at 500 Orleans st., on charges of violating office of price administration ceilings on paprika, pepper, and dry mustard. Monday the company was fined $15,000 on charges of selling spices in excess of its war food administration quota.

The OPA also filed several damage suits against alleged ceiling violators. Among those sued were the Hygrade Food Products corporation, a New York company with offices at 3900 Emerald av. and four subsidiaries. Other companies made defendants were the George Street Packing company, 2933 Lincoln av.; the Western Picture Frame company, 3759 S. Ashland av.; the Plaza hotel in Waukegan, and Mugrdich Mugrdichian, operating the Superior market in Waukegan.

Before Judge Philip J. Finnegan in Circuit court, the OPA obtained a temporary injunction to restrain the Roosevelt Building corporation and Peter J. Vlahos, owner, from making rent overcharges in a 15 apartment building at Roosevelt rd. and Home av., Berwyn.

AGREE ON SALE OF U. S. DEFENSE UNITS IN CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 31.—The United States and Canada have reached an agreement on disposition of defense facilities provided in Canada by the United States, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King announced today.

As to immovable facilities, within three months after the agreement becomes effective the United States will give to Canada a list of installations it desires to bring under the agreement.

Each government will then appoint an appraiser to agree on a fair market value of the facilities. If they cannot agree, they may appoint a third. The Canadian appraiser will be the war assets corporation, a company set up to dispose of Canadian surplus war assets. Once the price is established, Canada will pay the sum to the United States.

Canada's Expenses Considered.

Where retention or disposal of a facility would result in expense to Canada the agreement provides the charges shall be taken into consideration in final accounting.

The immovable facilities not listed by the United States will revert to Canada without cost within a year after cessation of hostilities.

As to movable facilities, the United States is to remove all it desires. The Canadian government will purchase the remainder, which will be sold by the war assets corporation. The proceeds, less costs, will be paid to the United States. A United States official will assist in the sales.

Pact Urged by Joint Board.

The agreement between the two countries was reached by acceptance of a recommendation of the permanent joint board on defense representing the two nations. It will not supersede agreements regarding the Alaska Highway, the Northwest staging route, or the Canol oil project in the Canadian northwest. It primarily affects those facilities not a part of these major works or not essential to them.

ALLIES TO PUNISH CRIMES OF NAZIS AGAINST JEWS

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP).—Richard Law, British minister of state, said today that the allied nations intended to punish Nazis responsible for persecution of Jews and other anti-Nazis inside Germany as well as to punish war criminals.

"Crimes committed by Germans against Germans are in a different category from war crimes and cannot be dealt with under the same procedure," he added. "But in spite of this, the British government will do its utmost to insure that those crimes do not go unpunished."

Discussing the question of atrocities without mentioning Jews or any other specific group, Law asserted that any one responsible for murder or mistreatment of anti-Nazi Germans in concentration camps or anywhere else in Germany would be regarded as a criminal.

ASSESSOR KILLS TAX REDUCTIONS OF 164 MILLIONS

No Action Taken Yet in Ickes Case.

County Assessor Clark has taken action to annul for 1944, 1945, and 1946 tax reductions totaling 164 million dollars granted by the board of tax appeals in its hearing on 1943 property valuation complaints, it was learned yesterday.

The appeals board had shaved 189 million dollars off the valuations of some of the persons who filed complaints. Clark has restored all but about 25 million dollars, it was learned.

At the average assumed tax rate of $4 on the $100 valuation, Clark's action, unless voided by higher authority, would result in compelling the 65,000 taxpayers involved to pay an additional $6,560,000. Should the reduced assessments stand, this sum would have to be spread on other taxpayers who got no reductions.

Ickes Slash Unchanged—Yet.

Included in the 25 millions of reductions thus far allowed to stand is the tax slash granted to Secretary of the Interior Ickes [Honest Harold] on his building at 231-33 S. State st. Clark has asserted this reduction was made on the basis of a false return by Ickes as to the rental received from the property. Members of the tax appeals board who granted Ickes' appeal from the 1943 valuation were John Toman and James McDermott.

Toman and Clark conferred yesterday, while McDermott was interviewed by Assistant State's Atty. Nash. Nash and Assistant State's Atty. Shamberg were assigned by State's Atty. Tuohy to investigate the Ickes tax reduction after Clark had charged it was secured thru a false statement.

Neither Nash nor Shamberg would comment on reports that the Ickes case might be laid before the Cook county grand jury next week. Tax experts took a deep interest in the assessor's move to cancel reductions.

Clark's action will restore to the assessment rolls of Cook county a huge part of the valuations slashed from the land and building values by McDermott and Toman. Ordinarily the action of the appeals board stands for four years and the person or agency responsible for obtaining the reduction charges 25 per cent of the saving to the taxpayer.

Court Ruling May Be Sought.

McDermott and Toman, it was explained by tax experts, may again order into effect the slashes they granted on 1943 valuations, but some county officials thought there would not be time for the board to act this year on every piece of property involved in time to do the taxpayer any good. It was also pointed out that, if they cut Clark's valuations for 1944, he can again raise them on the 1945 valuations, as well as in 1946.

The state's attorney's office was said to be expecting that many of the taxpayers who stand to lose some of the benefits of the board of appeals action may go into court for a ruling on Clark's action.

DR. CLENDENING, HEALTH WRITER, ENDS HIS LIFE

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 31 [Special].—Dr. Logan Clendening, 59, nationally known health writer, was found dead in his home today under circumstances which caused authorities to term it "a case of suicide." His throat was slashed and an instrument with a heavy blade was beside the body.

Dr. Clendening.

In his book, "The Human Body," Dr. Clendening said, "I have seen a good many people die. To a few, death comes as a friend, as a relief from pain, from intolerable loneliness or loss, or from disappointment." Altho he had for years been the writer of a syndicated newspaper column, "Diet and Health," he had recently been despondent over his own ill health.

Five years ago Dr. Clendening figured briefly in the news when he used an ax to break up an air compressor drill used on a WPA project near his home. Paying a $50 fine, he explained that its "rat-a-tat-tat rhythm, day after day, week after week," had prompted him to take direct action because he "knew of no way to deal wth the problem subjectively."

Lawrence Eaton.

Total bond of $15,000 was set on the three charges. State's Atty. Harry A. Hall announced his intention of calling the December grand jury to reconvene tomorrow to consider evidence against Eaton.

The youth is charged with having shot Rita Gibbons, 17, of 912 S. Utica st., Waukegan, on Jan. 13, and with having threatened Rose Mary Dunn, 14, of 615 North av., and her brother, Nolin [Doc] Dunn, 18, the same day.

FIRE BREAKS OUT AT TWO SPOTS IN ST. KEVIN CHURCH

Fire of undetermined origin which swept St. Kevin's church and school at 10513 Torrence av. yesterday caused damage estimated by the Rev. E. B. McNalley, the pastor, at $15,000.

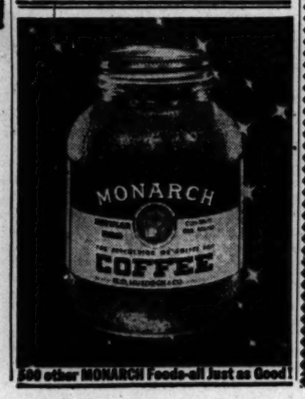

Fire damage was confined principally to the church proper, on the second floor. The schoolrooms on the third floor were damaged by water, as was the recreation room on the first floor, a semi-basement.

The blaze was discovered by George Urbin, janitor at the church, who said it appeared to have started in two places at once, one at the rear and one at the front of the church.

Later Urbin was detained by Lt. Anthony De Grazio of the East Side police for questioning by Henry Eckhardt, assistant corporation counsel assigned to fire investigations.

TRAINING PLAN HELD VITAL BY GEN. MARSHALL

[Whether the United States shall have compulsory military training in time of peace is one of the most widely debated subjects in the country today. This is another article reviewing official action and telling arguments as expressed by veterans' organizations, educators, churchmen, and labor groups.]

BY HARRY McCLAIN.

Giving unqualified indorsement to universal military training, war department planners, under orders from Gen. Marshall, chief of staff, are preparing for a post-war military establishment consisting of a relatively small standing army, a national guard strong enough to meet all requirements for a first year of total war, and a trained reserve that could be prepared for battle in a short time.

Organization details within a military establishment change with development in weapons, transportation, and international relations, Gen. Marshall said, but the type of United States military institutions was determined in the beginning by the nation's form of government and has not changed since the administration of President Washington.

Axis Army System Decried.

The war department says a large standing army would be wholly impracticable and prohibitive in cost. Gen. Marshall said the German and Japanese type of military organization, with a big standing army, placed control of military preparation and policy with a caste of professional soldiers and produced efficient armies, but that the system is open to serious political objection. Under this system, he added, only the brawn of a people is prepared for war.

In support of a system embracing a small professional army and a large reserve of trained citizens, he noted four advantages: Development of latent leadership among the citizens; education of the public on questions of military affairs; reduction in cost of the military establishment, and perfection of a traditional institution to meet modern requirements which no longer permit extemporization after the outbreak of war.

War Department Wants Year.

The planners demand, in what has become the stated policy of the war department, that all able bodied youths give a full, uninterrupted year to military training rather than four three-month periods with academic terms interspersed.

The department says its training program, which developed 15 divisions now fighting in Europe and the Pacific, has been proved successful by their victories; that, with all nonessentials eliminated, it can't do a good job under 52 weeks.

To educators who fear a year of military training between high school and college would stifle a youth's readiness to undertake higher education, the department replies that, if this be the case, then four nine-month interruptions would destroy the effectiveness of military instruction.

Assistance for Technicians.

The department holds that training of technical specialists must not be neglected, and suggests possible financial assistance for a limited number of military training graduates who show special aptitude for technical work essential to the army to permit them to attend civilian schools.

Expansion of the reserve officers training corps thru attention to an increased number of colleges and universities is essential for the production of junior officers and noncommissioned officers, is the expressed belief of the department. It would encourage military training graduates to continue their studies on a higher level and grant commissions to those who complete four years in the R. O. T. C.

Commissions to Be Reward.

Under universal training, according to the department, it would be possible for the first time to raise R. O. T. C. courses to a real university level, adding both dignity and prestige to the R. O. T. C.

Because leadership potentialities in many of the vast majority of youths who would not go to college would be revealed by a year of military training, the department would grant opportunity to them to win commissions thru correspondence courses, officer candidate schools, and tours of active duty with the army.

Finally, the department sees vast benefits accruing to the national guard from universal military training. Such a program, it is asserted, would result in guard units composed exclusively of men initially trained whose readiness for combat would be maintained by weekly drills, and annual periods of field training—something never before enjoyed by the state units.

[Another discussion of compulsory military training will appear soon.]

Sues for Divorce

MRS. ELIZABETH JELKE.

Mrs. Elizabeth Minot Clarke Jelke, 645 E. Westminster av., Lake Forest, filed suit for divorce yesterday in Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan from John Faris Jelke Jr., president of the John F. Jelke company, manufacturer of oleomargarine and other food products.

She charged two specific acts of cruelty, one on Jan. 19, the date of their separation, when, she said, he slapped her, and one on Jan. 24, when, the suit said, he forced her against a door and caused her to fall to the floor.

The couple was married in New York in 1922. Mrs. Jelke was a graduate of Miss Spence's school in New York. They have four children, Mary Louana, 21; John F. Jelke III., 19; Charles Clarke Jelke, 17, and Minot Frazier Jelke, 15.

Mrs. Jelke is represented by Jacob X. Schwartz, Chicago attorney.

AIRLINE HEAD'S WIFE BURNED IN CIGARET MISHAP

Mrs. Vera Patterson, whose husband, William A. Patterson, is president of the United Air Lines, was treated in Evanston hospital yesterday for burns on her hands, arms, back, and chest suffered when a fluffy wool sweater caught fire from a match as she was lighting a cigaret.

The accident occurred Tuesday in her home on Pfingsten rd., Northbrook. Miss Hilda Balko, a housekeeper, who was in the room, wrapped a blanket around Mrs. Patterson and extinguished the flames.

'A RISING TIDE' ENGULFS TWO CONGRESSMEN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—The house heard the same speech twice today.

And Rep. Kelly [D., Ill.], who provided the echo, still is a little bewildered about it.

Rep. Dingell [D., Mich.] made a brief speech criticizing what he called the "cheap, insignificant discharge buttons" issued to veterans. Speaking from a typewritten text, he began:

"There is a rising tide of resentment and criticism . . . ." And went on for several minutes.

The Tide Still Rises.

Two hours later Kelly got permission to address the house—virtually empty of members by then—walked to the microphone and began reading:

"There is a rising tide of resentment and criticism . . ." He went on and delivered Dingell's speech word for word.

Apparently none of the few members on the floor noticed the duplication, but the press gallery got curious. A reporter got this explanation from Kelly:

"It was handed to me. . . . It's one of those things. . . . I didn't know what Dingell had said, but I agreed with the paper so I put it in the Record. Now it's in the Record twice."

He's Not Talking—Again.

"Who handed it to you?" the reporter asked.

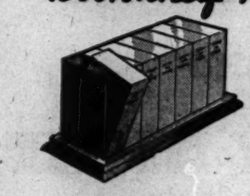

"I don't care to say," Kelly replied. "But I'll tell you this. It won't happen again. From here on in I'm using my own stuff only."

The speech was written in Dingell's office shortly before it was delivered. A few copies were delivered to the press gallery for reporters.

11 BIG HOSPITAL UNITS IN EUROPE WITH NO NURSE

PARIS, Jan. 27 [Delayed]—(AP).—Maj. Gen. Paul Hawley, surgeon general of the European theater, said today that 11 general United States army hospitals were arriving in this war zone without a nurse because nurses in the United States were not volunteering in sufficient numbers.

He said that in 1940 there were 120 nurses to a 1,000 bed army general hospital. In 1942 the number was reduced to 105; in 1943 to 100, and last year to 83. Arriving hospitals will force a cut to 74, he said.

But this is not the whole story, added the general. Thousand bed hospitals now are carrying an average load of 1,300 patients each. Several have 2,000 and one has 3,000.

Millions Switch To Mutton Suet Idea For Chest Colds

Quickly Relieves Children's Colds' Coughs, Loosens Phlegm

Many mothers all over America are switching to this idea of getting fast relief for these chest cold miseries. They are simply following Grandma. For years she counted on mutton suet to help carry her home medication to do its pain-easing work on nerve ends in the skin. No wonder so many more now welcome Grandma's idea as improved by science—Penetro, with its multi-medicated formula in a base containing mutton suet—that acts both as counter-irritant and pain-reliever when you spread it on, and as a soothing aromatic when breathed in. And so today Penetro hurries along newer help in the old reliable way—help that eases painful misery, lessens coughing, loosens phlegm, soothes chest rawness—so that you can rest more comfortably and give nature a chance to restore vitality. That's why millions are switching to Penetro today—why druggists are recommending it. 25c, double supply 35c. For all your family's chest cold miseries, be sure you get white, easy-to-use Penetro.

MEDICAL BATTALION SAVES 50,000 MEN IN 2 YEARS OF WAR

WITH THE U. S. 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Jan. 27 [Delayed]—(AP).—It is now two years and some 50,000 evacuated doughboys since the 109th medical battalion went to war, and these medic veterans are still at it. From the sandy flatlands of Tunisia to the mined, blown out, icy roads of the Gothic line in the Apennines they've pulled out the sick and the wounded and they've probably seen as much or more fighting than any other army medical men.

On their assignment in support of the veteran 34th division the 109th medics have made stops at such places as Fondouk, Hill 609, Kasserine pass, and Bizerte in Africa, and at Salerno, the Volturno, Cassino, Anzio, Rome, the Arno, and beyond, in Italy.

The 109th was commanded by Lt. Col. Edward W. Paulus of Iowa City, Ia., until recently, when he was replaced by another Iowan, Maj. Roger Minkel of Fort Dodge.

LOWER AIRCRAFT PLANT FORCE BY 1,000 MEN TODAY

Because of a cutback in the production of aircraft engines and parts at the Studebaker plant at 5555 Archer av., the plant will reduce its labor force by 1,000, beginning at noon today, Col. Nelson S. Talbott, commanding officer of the midcentral district of the air technical service command, disclosed yesterday.

Employes laid off will be absorbed by other war plants in the vicinity, or in the neighborhood of their homes, he said.

The United States employment service, officials of local 998 of the United Autombile Workers [CIO], and plant officials will coöperate in the transfer of workers.

DO WHAT QUINTUPLETS ALWAYS do for CHEST COLDS

- To Promptly Relieve Coughing
- Make Breathing Easier
- Break Up Congestion in Upper Bronchial Tract, Nose, Throat

Ever since they were tiny tots—whenever the Quintuplets catch cold—good old reliable Musterole is immediately rubbed on their chests, throats and backs.

Musterole gives such wonderful prompt relief because it's more than just an ordinary "salve". It's what so many Doctors and Nurses call a modern counter-irritant. Musterole not only relieves coughing, sore throat, tight aching chest muscles due to cold BUT ALSO breaks up congestion in upper bronchial tract, nose and throat. So much easier to apply than a mustard plaster. Just rub it on. "No fuss. No muss with Musterole."

VOTE TO UPHOLD UNIONS IN LABOR DRAFT MEASURE

New Deal Wins Fight on Amendments.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Administration forces, running the house with machine-like precision, today won the first round in their battle for the "work or jail" labor draft bill by beating down two major amendments with votes to spare.

The proposed revisions, offered by Republicans, were defeated when expected Democratic support for them faded under "cloak room" pressure and an impassioned floor appeal from Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.]. Rayburn asserted adoption of the amendments would so alienate various house factions as to spell defeat for the entire measure on the final vote.

The first proposal, by Rep. Wadsworth [R., N. Y.], would have written an anti-closed shop proviso into the bill, which gives federal authorities job placement powers over all men 18 thru 44, under penalties of fines, prison sentences, or army induction for violators. The amendment would have guaranteed workers compelled to change jobs against any obligation to join a labor union against their wishes.

Democrats Solid.

It was defeated, 178-142, on a teller vote, with Democratic congressmen lined up almost solidly against it.

The second revision, proposed by Rep. Clason [R., Mass.] was an FEP [fair employment practices] clause forbidding discrimination because of race, color or creed, by employers of workers assigned to war plants under the measure. Again, the Democrats voted in bloc, to kill it, 148-113.

Prior to today's session, conservative southern Democrats had strongly indicated a preference for the anti-closed shop clause, but bitterly opposed the FEP proviso, while left-wing Democrats, elected with CIO support, had taken the opposite stand on both. This led New Deal leaders to express fears yesterday that the labor draft bill, with the two amendments included, would be defeated.

Ignores Bill's Merits.

Rayburn, making one of his rare appearances in the house well just after Wadsworth offered his amendment, asserted he was not discussing the merits of the proposal itself, but wanted the "bill passed in the interest of the war." He cited the demands of army and navy leaders for the measure.

In the vote that followed, a handful of Republicans joined with the Democratic majority against the anti-closed shop clause.

Defeat for Clason's FEP amendment was assured a few minutes later when, on top of Rayburn's plea, it was denounced by Rep. Powell [D., N. Y.], freshman Negro congressman from New York City, who surprised his colleagues by going down the line with the New Deal. Powell told the house that what the Negro race wants is not a "trick clause" inserted in a temporary war bill, but a permanent FEP commission set up by separate congressional statute. His speech, congressional sources said, swung a wavering minority of left wing Democrats.

Wadsworth, speaking for his anti-closed shop proposal, told the house that without such a safeguard, workers shifting to war jobs will be required, against their convictions, to pay fees in the form of union dues for "making patriotic sacrifies to their country."

Rep. Marcantonio [A. L., N. Y.], who was elected with communist support, claimed the proposal was designed to destroy the entire labor union movement.

CALL OUT GUARD AS NEW STORM HITS NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 31 (AP).—Gov. Dewey called out state guard members from Albany to Buffalo today and pleaded for the services of every man not engaged in war production to combat a weather born transportation crisis that has brought dangerous shortages of fuel, food, and feed.

Freight movements bogged down again at Buffalo, scene of the worst railroad tangle, when a new snow and wind storm hit the city. Albany was another bottleneck.

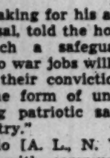

Coal Shortage "Critical."

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP).—Harry A. Sutter, area distribution manager for the solid fuels administration, reported today that many eastern factories, including war plants, have only a five to seven day supply of coal. Weather drew the chief blame for the "critical" shortage.

Emergency at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP).—Mayor Bernard Samuel today declared a state of emergency here in Philadelphia's coal shortage. The mayor banned "delivery of solid fuel to places of amusement until further notice."

It's a Cold Winter for Chicago

A COLD JANUARY SCRAPES — 4.4° IN FAREWELL BOW

Schools May Be Hit in Coal Shortage.

Chicago wound up a chilly January yesterday as the temperature dropped to 4.4 degrees below zero, then rose to 12 above. January and December combined were the two coldest months since 1919-'20, the weather bureau reported. Since February usually is the second coldest month of the year, Chicagoans have another period of low temperatures ahead, the bureau said.

This was borne out with a prediction by Forecaster G. L. Canaday that today the thermometer would rise to 15 during the daylight hours, but in the evening would drop to 5 above.

Another week of weather like yesterday's would force closing of some city schools because of lack of coal, John Howatt, chief engineer and business manager of the schools, said.

22 Schools Get Supplies.

Howatt said that 22 schools which reported less than five days' supply of coal on Tuesday were supplied yesterday, but added that deliveries continued 4,000 tons under total consumption. The schools burned 11,000 tons and only 700 tons were delivered because of shortage of labor for the second consecutive day.

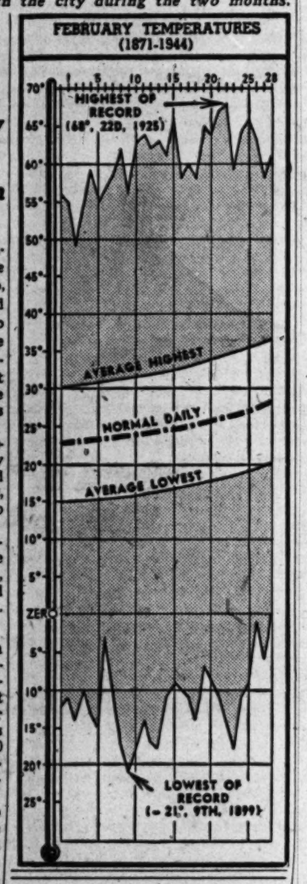

Deliveries are being made to schools where shortest supplies are reported. If the temperature would rise to 32 degrees average, schools would burn only the 700 tons delivered daily, Howatt said. But if the schools are to replenish their supply, a good thaw is needed.

Tomorrow is Ground hog day and many are looking forward to the furry animal's annual long range weather forecast. If the ground hog sees its shadow when it leaves its burrow it means another six weeks of winter. If it does not see it the winter is about over, legend says. Forecaster Canaday predicted a fair day tomorrow with increasing cloudiness. In the morning the ground hog will probably see a shadow but clouds in the afternoon may change the prediction, Canaday said.

A Bear in Original Myth.

Weather men remarked that Ground hog day is symbolic this year. The myth traces back to ancient German lore, but the animal in the original legend was a bear. The Russian bear now is casting a long shadow over Germany, they commented.

January proved to be a cold and cloudy month, said O. T. Lay, chief of the weather bureau. The temperature averaged 19.2 degrees, which was 3.1 degrees below normal. The lowest reading was 8 degrees below zero on Jan. 9.

SHOTGUN DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

The death yesterday of William Lister of 404 Warner av., Lemont, was pronounced a suicide while temporarily insane at a coroner's inquest. Lister's wife, Michaeline, found her husband shot to death in the basement of their home. A shotgun lay nearby.

CHARGE ATTEMPT TO 'BUY' SURPLUS SALES CONTRACT

Accused N.Y. Auctioneer Got It Anyway.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—A timid little man who tipped his hat the wrong way told the senate war investigating committee a fantastic story today regarding the Defense Plants corporation and the beginning the Roosevelt administration has made in the sale of the nation's prospective 100 billion dollars' worth of surplus war property.

He told of threats and of offers from representatives of a company which got the contract for auctioning DPC's surplus—after he had informed his superiors of the company's proposals. The senators suggested that the offers in reality were bribes.

And he accused DPC employes of mysterious activities at a DPC auction in Burlington, N. J., at which it is charged that surplus property which cost $250,000 was sold at 17 cents on the dollar.

Explanation Demanded.

His testimony brought from Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] a demand for an explanation of why DPC awarded the auction contract in the face of adverse reports on the auctioneering company.

The witness was John Van Ginhoven, a $5,600 a year DPC engineer. The auctioneering company is Surplus Liquidators, Inc., of New York City, headed by Jacob Goldberg.

Van Ginhoven spoke in a rasping whisper because of laryngitis. His manner was earnest and his inexperience in testifying was shown when he looked wonderingly at the machine on which a stenographer was pounding out his testimony in the midst of the hearing and offered an explanation of one of his statements, "in case you want to write any of this down."

Courtesy for Goldberg.

Van Ginhoven said he was in Cleveland last summer to make a report on DPC surplus property there when he was requested by superiors in Washington to give "every courtesy" to Goldberg.

The report was to be one on which DPC, which owns 16½ billion dollars' worth of war plants, would decide whether or not to give the Cleveland auctioneering contract to Goldberg's firm.

Questioned by Committee Counsel Rudolph Halley, Van Ginhoven said he was called next day to Goldberg's room, where he found Goldberg, another man and two bottles of liquor.

Van Ginhoven said Goldberg told him surplus property disposal was a business of "billions," and illustrated the company's "know how" with the story of how it unloaded the surplus bugles from the last war by putting them in boxes adorned with an Uncle Sam picture and advertising them in "Boy Scout magazines."

$15,000 a Year Offered.

The witness said his hosts told him they wished to put him on their pay roll, that men such as he were worth $15,000 to $20,000 a year, and that "Jake knew how to make it possible" for Van Ginhoven to get the farm he wanted for his family.

Van Ginhoven explained patiently that he was to stay on the DPC pay roll while working for the company, and that when he finally left DPC his company pay would be "slightly retroactive." His hosts, he said, told him "Jake" had "an in," and could "fix it."

Goldberg, Van Ginhoven testified, said:

"You can lay stones in our way and stop us for a long time. You can report against us. We can take care of you in a nice way. We can also take care of you in a nasty way."

Told Story to Superior.

Van Ginhoven said he came to Washington, unalterably opposed to giving Goldberg's company the contract, and told his story to his superior, Carl Wilcox.

Wilcox later confirmed this on the witness stand and told of telling his own superior, Roger Wilson, and commenting:

"Roger, I don't want to let you down, but if you want to go into this deal I'll throw my hat in the street."

Goldberg's company nevertheless got a contract to auction DPC surplus last Sept. 15, Sen. Ferguson said, altho the Cleveland goods, said to be worth about $500,000, have not yet been sold.

While the contract was pending, Van Ginhoven testified, Goldberg visited the office of Walter E. Joyce, vice president of DPC.

Tipped Hat as Signal.

"Later," Van Ginhoven said, "we stepped into Wilsons' office and then had lunch with Goldberg at the Mayflower hotel."

Van Ginhoven said he tipped his hat the wrong way at the Burlington auction last fall—as a signal directed by Don Brown, whom the witness called "the big chief" of the DPC construction materials division. Goldberg, Van Ginhoven, said, was auctioning materials for the construction of factories and utility plants.

Despite the riches to be auctioned and a "fat catalogue," Van Ginhoven testified, few buyers attended. He said Brown told him:

"It's fixed so badly it smells. Get the evidence for me. Get in there and get yourself a bargain. Get in there and give me a sign if you find the guilty people."

Over His Eye.

"I was to tip my hat over my eye," Van Ginhoven explained, tipping an imaginary hat from the back. "Somebody was to take the names.

"As soon as two or three bids were made, the man on the right side raised his hand. The man on the left stopped bidding. The man in the center got the goods.

"Pretty soon the lady from DPC who was recording the sales took me by the arm and said:

"'Boy friend, what are you trying to do to us—hold an investigation? Mr. Don Brown says you're getting names. The man who just gave me a $500 deposit is a good friend of ours.'

Signaler Bought a Lot.

"I went to Trenton that night with Mr. Loweth of our Chicago office. [DPC said it has a Robert C. Loweth on its Chicago pay roll.] I told him:

"'Don Brown fixes me properly. He tells me to do something and then goes and squeals on me. He makes a jackass out of myself.'

"At dinner, two of the men who did the most buying were at the next table. Next day I met them in the coffee shop.

"They said the auction ha continued until 11 at night and that they had bought all the plumbing and steamfitting material. One of them was one of the fellows who had signaled when the bidding was to stop."

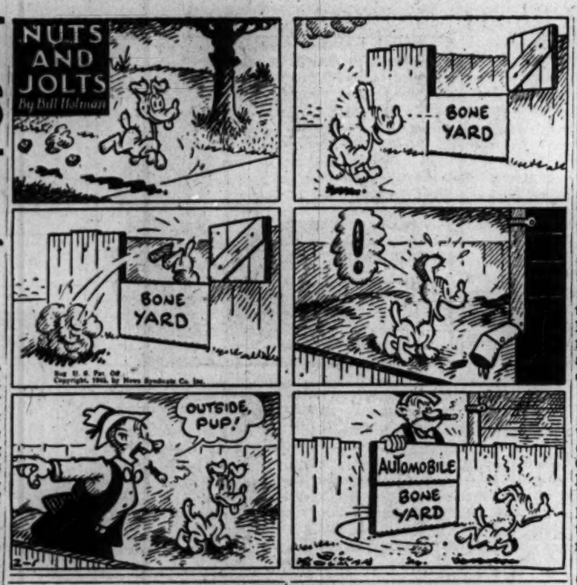

"In other words," said Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], "the supposed competitive bidders were together."

Van Ginhoven told the committee he was "annoyed at Don Brown for selling me down the river on that lady" but offered no explanation of Brown's actions.

Sen. Ferguson said he hopes to get more light on the Brown situation tomorrow, when Goldberg is to be a witness.

Much of Van Ginhoven's testimony went without full explanation, but it was indicated its significance will be disclosed later.

Van Ginhoven, whose headquarters is at Nashville, Tenn., pictured himself as a simple, honest employe, relating facts without trying to interpret them, and made it clear that he wants to keep his job and protect DPC from scandal.

10 COMPLAINTS SIGNED AGAINST TEEN AGE GANG

Complaints charging larceny of purses have been signed by 10 women against eight teen age members of a gang which had terrorized residents on the northwest side for three months, Acting Capt. Patrick O'Shea of W. North av. police said yesterday.

Police said that the gang had adopted titles for their jobs, and knew their roles by those titles. One was known as a "searcher," another as "grabber," and a third as "slugger."

William Babcock, 21, of 955 N. Ashland av., a member of the gang, will appear in court today on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors and disorderly conduct. At a special showup yesterday, where all were identified, the gang demonstrated tactics used in staging more than 50 strong arm robberies.

Scheduled to appear in Juvenile court at a later date are Edward Lesniewzy, 16, of 1848 North av.; Joseph Wasz, 15, of 1838 Iowa st.; Frank Di Cosola, 15, of 1657 Erie st.; Anthony Costello, 16, of 1941 W. BOTH SIDES MAP SHOWDOWN ON WALLACE TODAY

Powers Challenged.

The minority report complained that "the President's right to designate members of his cabinet is being challenged by the action of a majority of the senate committee on commerce.' It claimed the senate, "under our democratic tradition," does not exercise broad veto powers over the President's cabinet appointments.

No mention was made in the report that a President's cabinet appointments have been turned down by the senate six times previously, the last in 1925 when President Coolidge's nomination of Charles B. Warren for attorney general was twice rejected by the senate.

Possible parliamentary moves by the opposing factions in the Wallace fight at tomorrow's senate session were being discussed thruout the capital tonight.

It was generally agreed that Barkley—or Hill, in the event Barkley is unable to be present—will obtain the floor at the opening of the session and move for the immediate consideration of the George bill. By custom, the Vice President first recognizes the majority leader.

Unless Bailey is persuaded at the morning caucus to recede from his position—and he said tonight he intended to stick to his guns—he will then move that the senate go into executive session, a procedure necessary before nominations can be considered.

Assuming Bailey's motion were to carry, the Wallace nomination would be called up in regular order. Then, according to Pepper, Barkley would attempt to hold Wallace's name on the calendar until the George bill is passed, a matter of several days or weeks. Pepper told reporters tonight he was certain the administration would have the votes to keep the nomination on the calendar.

Withdrawal Held Unlikely.

Pepper and other administration leaders, altho opposed to the George bill in principle, have acknowledged that Wallace has no chance for confirmation unless the federal lending agencies are divorced from the department of commerce. For that reason, they say, they will use every parliamentary device to have the George bill passed before any vote on Wallace.

Asked if the White House will withdraw Wallace's nomination, to assure passage of the George bill, and then resubmit it after the George bill becomes law, Pepper said there was no chance of such a procedure.

"There's no need for it," Pepper said. "I am confident we have the votes to hold up action on the Wallace nomination until after the George bill is disposed of."

Republican strategy at tomorrow's session was not disclosed today. Sen. White [R., Me.], minority leader, said he knew of no definite plan. Other Republican senators said they would support Bailey, Senators Byrd [D., Va.], McKellar [D., Tenn.], and other anti-Wallace senators on the Democratic side, but let the Democrats fight over parliamentary procedure among themselves.

Senate parliamentarians told reporters today that a motion to go into executive session would have precedence over Barkley's motion. The only question would be whether Vice President Truman would recognize Bailey, but it was emphasized Truman's failure to do so would be unusual under customary senate procedure.

MAGIC FINGERS OF RADIO REACH INTO NEW WORLD

A new era in radio communications—the period of control at a distance—is opening up, Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff asserted in the current issue of Radio Age, out yesterday. During the last year radio performed services believed impossible only a few years ago, Gen. Sarnoff, who is president of the Radio Corporation of America, continued.

"In meeting the challenges of war," he said, "science has given electronic fingers, with a sense of touch, to the hands of radio communication. After the war by the use of techniques of television, which enable us to see at a distance, we shall be able to reach out and operate many actions."

Many of the dreams of using radio to start, steer, control, and operate aircraft, tanks, torpedoes, automobiles, and boats already have come true, the article stated, adding: "Radio and electronics are bringing new meaning to the word 'automatic.' Hundreds of radio devices are used to regulate machinery, measure the velocity of projectiles, level elevators, analyze and match colors, sort products, control lighting, create heat, or hold materials in exact position in manufacturing processes."

JUDGE L. W. CARR TO TESTIFY IN BRIBERY TRIAL

Mason, Mich., Jan. 31 [Special].—Judge Leland W. Carr of Ingham county Circuit court, whose one man grand jury has returned many indictments charging legislative corruption, will be a prosecution rebuttal witness tomorrow at the trial of Floyd Fitzsimmons, Benton Harbor lobbyist, who is charged with attempted bribery.

Disclosure by Kim Sigler, special grand jury prosecutor, that Carr would be his final witness, followed a day of sensational developments.

These included admission by Herbert J. Rushton, former attorney general, that he had received $15,000 "for an eighth interest in a mine" from Clarence "King" Lehr, head of the Detroit Racing association, which conducts horse race meets on the state fair grounds track at Detroit.

Relative to the mine interest purchase, Sigler asked Rushton what Lehr had paid him $15,000 for.

"Do you mean graft?" flared Rushton.

"No, what was it for?" Sigler persisted.

Rushton, whose home is in Escanaba, explained that Lehr had purchased half of a quarter interest in an upper peninsula mining property for which Rushton had paid $1,500 "many years ago." He said the mine owners recently had been offered $250,000 for the entire property.

Mrs. Adriana Pearson, 19, of 5011 Maypole av., and the triplets born to her on Jan. 22 at St. Anne's hospital, were reported to be "doing very nicely" yesterday. The babies, Eugene, Kathleen, and Corrine, will have to remain in the hospital until each weighs 5 pounds. The father is Warren Pearson, 24, a commercial artist and returned veteran of the South Pacific.

COUNCIL GROUP'S FIRE CURB PLANS GIVEN APPROVAL

Amendments to the city building code proposed by a subcommittee investigating fire traps were approved unanimously by the city council yesterday. Ald. Duffy [19th], subcommittee chairman, introduced the proposals, which would authorize police and fire commissioners, the commissioner of streets and electricity, commissioner of buildings, and the president of the board of health to close any building in which fire hazards imperil life, health, or property.

Ald. Duffy said the amendments are directed against flagrant violations by operators of hotels and public buildings, rather than against private homes and small apartment buildings. Mayor Kelly complimented Duffy on the "good work" of the committee.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Saves Big Dollars. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It is so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough medicine, very effective and quick-acting, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

IT'S VITALLY IMPORTANT TO KEEP PROPER IRON LEVEL IN THE BLOOD

One-ounce dish of KELLOGG'S All-Bran gives over ⅓rd your daily minimum iron needs

EVERYONE, young or old, needs iron constantly to help keep up the "iron level" in the blood—to help keep vitality up to par.

The best place to get this iron is in foods. But—there are only a few foods that have a significant amount of iron. Thus, your diet can be lacking in iron without your knowing it—and your "iron level" may decline.

KELLOGG'S All-Bran is made from the VITAL OUTER LAYERS of finest wheat

Fortunately, there is one everyday breakfast cereal that is a rich, inexpensive source of readily assimilable iron. It's KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, which actually gives you more available iron than spinach. And, in addition to iron richness, this nut-brown, crunchy breakfast cereal is an important natural source of calcium, phosphorus, and vitamins B_1, B_2 and niacin. That's because ALL-BRAN, produced by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, is made from the vital outer layers of finest wheat.

You know that the skin of a potato and the peel of an apple are richest in vitamins and minerals. In the vital outer layers of wheat, too, Nature stores some of the grain's most important nutrients. ALL-BRAN is made of these vital outer layers and is more abundant in many food elements than whole wheat itself.

America's Great Regulating Cereal

And, in addition to being a storehouse of iron and other important elements, famous KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is Nature's great REGULATING CEREAL. Millions of people eat it regularly. It's America's most widely used regulating FOOD. Just a one-ounce serving eaten daily is usually adequate for satisfactory laxation. ALL-BRAN does not interfere with normal digestion. It is triple-milled for golden softness.

Be sure your family gets a good start on its requirements of iron and other important food elements! Serve KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly, beginning today!

Many delicious ways to eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

In muffins!

As cereal!

DONOR OF 7 PINTS OF BLOOD

MORE BLOOD DONATIONS NEEDED NOW

Miss Edith Jane Meyer, 835 Trinity Ave., Bronx, N. Y., gave her first pint of blood on her 21st birthday, two years ago. To date, she has donated 7 pints. Other patriots are urged to donate blood for urgently needed plasma. Fluid part of the blood is restored in a few hours. Maintaining the body's proper "iron level" helps to rebuild the red corpuscles.

10TH WARD AIDS SEE REPUBLICAN COUNCIL VICTORY

6th Ward Candidate Also Expected to Win.

Favored by a three way split of their Democratic opposition, 10th ward Republicans announced yesterday they expect to elect Alfred O'Connor at the special aldermanic election Monday to serve out the term of the late Ald. William J. Pieczynski, a Democrat.

O'Connor, a lawyer who has resided in the ward for 51 years and is widely known, is the only Republican in the race. Opposed to him are M. A. Pieczynski, nephew of the late alderman, Frank Sowa, and Emil V. Pacina.

Pieczynski and Sowa are expected to divide the Polish vote of the ward. Pieczynski, who has the backing of County Treasurer Schlaeger, draws most of his strength from the 10 Polish precincts near his home in the northern part of the ward, while Sowa is favored in the six Polish precincts near his home in the southern part. Pacina has the backing of the regular Democratic ward organization.

Printed Matter Sent Out.

More than 30,000 pieces of campaign printed matter have been distributed, particular attention being given to the ward list of Republican primary voters. Special Polish literature has been distributed in the 21 precincts where Polish voters reside.

The final meeting of the campaign was held last night in ward headquarters at 3649 E. 106th st., where Dr. Harry E. L. Timm, ward committeeman, received optimistic reports from precinct captains. Dr. Oliver K. Bovik, 6th ward committeeman, predicted the victory of George C. Johnson as alderman in that ward. Johnson is seeking the unexpired term of his father-in-law, the late Ald. Patrick Sheridan Smith. Running in a normally Republican ward, Johnson is further favored by divided opposition.

Two Democratic Opponents.

Against him are Francis Hogan, who has the backing of the regular Democratic ward organization, and Woodrow Wilson, World War II veteran, who was identified in past campaigns with the former Courtney-Horner faction.

M. W. Bieszcat, a Democrat, is unopposed in the 26th ward, where a council vacancy also will be filled Monday.

GAS RATIONING PLAYS BEASTLY TRICK ON CIRCUS

The other half—including the performers and management—is in Hammond, Ind. That was the problem Marion Isbell, metropolitan OPA director, was asked to solve yesterday. He said he will ask Washington, D. C., to do something about it.

When the circus finished its engagement in Hammond, R. B. Jones, manager, told Isbell, the animal cages, carried on trucks, were granted gasoline by the office of defense transportation for the trip to Louisville, the next stop.

But the cars and trailers carrying the performers, he explained, are under the jurisdiction of the OPA, which refused to grant the necessary gasoline.

"He doesn't like me to come down and watch him cross streets on the way home, so I don't let him see me."

PRICE CEILINGS ON FOUR FRESH VEGETABLES CUT

The OPA has lowered prices on four commodities on its weekly fresh fruit and vegetable ceiling list, effective today. The decreases include fresh beans, down 3 cents a pound to 21 cents; peas, off 2½ cents to 20½ cents a pounds; carrots, topped in bulk, 1 cent a pound lower at 5 cents, and iceberg lettuce, 1 and 2 cents a head lower at 9 and 11 cents.

OPA officials here said heads of the agency soon will meet with its dairy products advisory committee and war food administration officials in Washington to consider a 6 to 8 cents a pound increase in the price of butter. WFA officials have advocated the price boost "to effect better distribution" and to divert more milk to butter making, but the OPA has resisted the move, heads of the latter agency said. Farmers as a rule receive less for butter fat sold for butter production than for fluid milk, curtailing the production of butter, WFA officials said.

MOVES TO OUST CLABAUGH FROM COMMITTEE JOB

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—A showdown on the proposal to revise the Cook county versus downstate balance of power in the legislature became imminent today when Rep. Rategan [D., Chicago] disclosed he would seek to oust Rep. Clabaugh [R., Champaign] as chairman of the house committee on reapportionment.

Rep. Clabaugh.

Clabaugh was appointed yesterday by Speaker Hugh Green. Altho Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly both have indorsed reapportionment, Clabaugh pulled no punches in telling where he stands.

"I still oppose any reapportionment plan that would give Cook county a single additional vote in either house of the legislature," he said.

Illinois' legislative and congressional districts have not been changed to fit population shifts since 1901, altho the constitution orders that it be done each 10 years. Downstaters, with 63 per cent of the legislative seats but less than half of the Illinois population, have refused to go along with revision.

SEEK TO HALT DIVERSION OF HIGHWAY FUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 31.—Under a new anti-diversion proposal for which sentiment developed today, the state treasury's general fund surplus, built up chiefly from the 2 per cent sales tax, would be used to retire the 30 million dollar relief bond issue and to pay the cost of the state highway police force.

Further diversion of highway funds to those purposes might jeopardize the 23 million dollar yearly grants which Illinois expects to get under the new federal aid post-war financing program, it was said.

On the ground that all money from automobile license fees and the motor fuel tax should go to highway construction and maintenance, the Illinois highway users' conference at a meeting here voted to request that relief bond and police costs be paid from the general fund. It was understood that state officials are giving serious consideration to the proposal.

Without waiting for agitation about a new state constitution, the the conference decided to press immediately for a constitutional amendment to prohibit diversions.

HUNT 3D VICTIM IN WRECKAGE OF HAMMOND CAFE

Hammond [Ind.] firemen yesterday resumed the job of digging thru the twisted steel and concrete that was left Monday night after an explosion had wrecked more than one-fourth of the Phil Smidt restaurant, 1170 Indianapolis blvd., Hammond, in a search for the body of Werner Petrie, 35, of 4716 Hickory st., Hammond, believed to be buried in the debris.

A huge power shovel was taken to the scene of the rubble early yesterday, but several hours later the rescuers reported they had found nothing.

The explosion said by firemen to have been caused by gas, took two lives and injured 17 others, two of them seriously. The body of Mrs. Marie Hart, 30, of 627 Douglas st., Calumet City, was found in the wreckage, and Mrs. Isabel Morgan, 38, of 7020 Jeffery av., an expectant mother, died of internal injuries in St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond.

Rapid Transit Settles Last Taxes for $716,823

The last of the back tax obligations of the Chicago Rapid Transit company were settled yesterday with a payment of $716,823 to the county treasurer. The rest of the company's delinquency in taxes was satisfied two weeks ago, the payment totaling $2,675,000. The settlement was approved by Judge Michael L. Igoe of the federal District court, who is in charge of the firm in bankruptcy, and by State's Atty. Tuohy.

FINISHING OFF JAPAN.

Frank Buck, the animal trainer, says that the white race is too humane to keep Japan in check after peace. Consequently he proposes that we provide against this softness by annihilating the entire Japanese population with poison gas before bringing home our forces. Mr. Buck's proposal is both horrible and ridiculous, but, after all, he is only an animal trainer, not secretary of the treasury, and there is no indication that Mr. Roosevelt is disposed to adopt his policy, as he did adopt Mr. Morgenthau's scheme to impose a Carthaginian peace upon Germany.

Before this country gets involved in discussions about its post-war arrangements for Japan, it might be well to take stock of our military task. We have liquidated a good deal of our account with the Japs. Our navy victories have avenged Pearl Harbor and we are rapidly acquitting our debt of honor to the loyal Filipinos. We are well along in the process of rescuing from the Japanese the islands which our allies in the last war gave them at our expense.

It is time that somebody else join the game. On all sides we see our supposed allies in the Pacific standing by with every appearance of impatience, waiting for us to finish the job for them. The opposing factions of Chinese are engaged in watchful waiting and doing the Japs no harm. Gen. Stilwell's Americans and Chinese made possible the opening of the Ledo road and the British have begun a series of practically unopposed landings farther down the coast of Burma now that that arduous job is out of the way.

We do not believe that the British will be content to rest under the disgrace of the reverses in Burma or Malaya three years ago, and we feel sure that those Canadians who are reluctant to fight in Europe will be anxious to avenge their countrymen who were tortured and massacred at Hong Kong. We doubt that the Australians will be satisfied in mopping up the half famished Japanese garrisons which we have isolated for them.

We believe that the British navy, which has a force of more than token size in eastern waters, will want to regain the great reputation it has held so long but which has slipped away from it in recent years. We think that the Dutch, who are assuming that a hearty welcome awaits them in their former colonial possessions, will wish to do something toward settling their score with Japan. We even think that the Russians would like to avenge Port Arthur and Mukden.

We have done all the fighting in the Pacific so far. We are not convinced, despite the apathy that has been evident to date, that any of our allies will want history to record that only Americans dared fight and were able to beat the Japanese. We expect our allies to do some of the fighting from now on. The area of primary interest to America in the Pacific has now been virtually cleared of Japanese domination. The Chinese, the British, the Australians, the Dutch, and the Russians stand to profit from here on in. It is time for them to begin fighting a few of their own battles.

A VICTORY FOR AMERICA.

The British government has approved the request of the crown commission governing Newfoundland that air bases on that island and in its possession, Labrador, be made available to peace time use by American and other non-British air lines.

This is an objective for which THE TRIBUNE strove vigorously. At one time in recent months ours was, to our knowledge, the only voice raised for it. American air transport companies realized the necessity of the Newfoundland and Labrador bases for trans-Atlantic passenger travel, but were prevented from speaking freely by the fact that they must seek approval for their projected routes from federal agencies, and thus dare not antagonize them.

Certainly the Roosevelt administration did little, if anything, to obtain the concession. When the British delegates at the Chicago air conference at the last moment excepted the Newfoundland and Labrador privileges from the general agreement signed here, the American delegation let the matter go by default. In calling attention to the value of the facilities, THE TRIBUNE repeated its performance in connection with the British West Indian and other Atlantic naval and military bases. After terming our proposal that the United States acquire them "silly," Mr. Roosevelt was forced by public opinion and strategic necessity to take them in the destroyer deal.

In this and other matters THE TRIBUNE gets added satisfaction from the fact that its views are increasingly accepted in the British empire as those of the American people. The acceptance is not always acknowledged in terms complimentary to us, but the very acknowledgment is confession that, while British policy controls our officials, it must also take into account American public opinion, which we represent.

PAY-OFF IN BROOKLYN.

Our old neighbor, Dr. Harry Gideonse, didn't always see eye to eye on educational matters with President Hutchins when he was on the faculty of the University of Chicago, but we shouldn't be surprised if Dr. Gideonse is willing to concede today that Dr. Hutchins had something when he abolished football. Five members of the basketball team of Brooklyn college, the municipal institution of which Dr. Gideonse is the head, have just been caught taking an honorarium from some Brooklyn gamblers. In return, two of the players have confessed they were to throw a basketball game with the University of Akron which was to have been played in a public hall at Boston.

We don't think for a moment that collegiate morals are in danger of collapse because these few athletes proved to be suckers for a pair of particularly slimy members of the gambling racket. We do think that colleges everywhere might have foreseen the possibility of some such unsavory incident as this when, a few years ago, they began to let their teams out of the college gymnasiums and fieldhouses to engage in commercially sponsored contests.

We will grant that putting the college basketball teams in metropolitan stadiums has enabled a great many more people to watch an exciting sport. It also has proved profitable to the colleges, to the extent that a small minority of them are taking on the aspect of basketball foundries. We will also admit that there is always going to be gambling on amateur athletic contests, wherever they may be played. Business men down in Indiana and Illinois put up some sizable wads from time to time on their high school teams. But they don't put them up with professional bookmakers, and if such a community caught any one trying to tamper with its athletes the tamperer would leave town in sadly dilapidated state.

We don't say that all of the colleges, on the basis of this lone scandal, ought to pull their teams out of commercially sponsored contests, but we think the colleges ought to recognize what they're up against if they keep their teams in there.

IN THE SHADOW OF THE GALLOWS.

There was a time not so many years ago when Hitler must have welcomed his anniversaries. They gave him the occasion to review his victories of the year and to howl derision at his enemies.

He couldn't have welcomed the task that faced him on Tuesday, the 12th anniversary of his rise to the chancellorship of his country. He had to make a speech to his people; the omission of it would have argued that he was in a panic. Nothing that he could say, however, could lead his people even for a moment to forget that their defeat is near and inevitable.

Another year has gone by which can contain no shred of comfort for Hitler and the Germans. It has been another year of almost unbroken retreat. France, Belgium, and a part of Holland have been liberated and in the process, the German command lost a million of its best soldiers, most of them now American prisoners of war. In the west, Americans occupy a strip of German soil and, after a brief setback, are again on the offensive. In the east, the Russian armies are pushing ever closer to Berlin. The natural resources of the Saar valley and of Silesia are all but lost and the Ruhr is threatened. Hitler knows, as everybody else does, that without these citadels of heavy industry, Germany could not long make war, even if she had the men and the will.

Faced with these prospects, Hitler could only once again denounce his eastern enemies as barbarians and his western enemies as scoundrels. It may be doubted that even he expected his people to find anything reassuring in this message, but it was all he had to offer beyond his assertion that he must be the darling of Providence because the bomb intended for him didn't get him. If the German people are capable of speculation they may conclude that an all-wise Providence had preferred to save his neck for the hangman's rope.

Hitler was talking fast, as gangsters sometimes do in the shadow of the gallows. The blackest chapter in his long record of infamy is the last one in which he is found driving his country to continue a war which is palpably lost. He knows that the longer the war lasts, the worse it will be for Germany and the Germans, but he has put his own safety above that of his people. Perhaps they deserved nothing better. Certainly they asked for something like this when, 12 years ago, they turned over the government to him.

EASY PICKINGS.

Again some foolish people who hoarded cash in safety deposit boxes in a vault have paid for their folly. Practically all of the 2 million dollars worth of valuables, except $89,000 in cash, taken from the Rumbold vaults on 119th st. in the robbery on Jan. 20, has been recovered. The owners of the war bonds were secure against loss even if none of the loot had been retaken. The bonds are registered in the name of the owners and they aren't worth a nickel to anybody else. The loss having been established and a reasonable time having elapsed, the government would have issued other bonds to replace those taken by the robbers.

When a Portage Park vault was cracked by bandits in the summer of 1943 they made off with only cash and some readily marketable stuff like jewelry. They scattered the war bonds found in the safety deposit boxes all around, but didn't bother to take any away with them.

Those who do not either buy war bonds with their idle money or deposit it in a bank which can invest in war bonds are hurting the war effort. The government needs the money to pay for the cost of the war. It offers to pay for the use of it. Owners of slacker dollars in vaults are losing this interest. And there is a real danger, as the Rumbold and Portage Park robberies prove, of losing the principal, too.

A new born baby doesn't know much, if anything, but his intuition is remarkably keen. As soon as he lands in this fool world he sets up a howl.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

At Newark, after months of surveillance, the FBI closed in and captured a spy. Now to question the fellow and find out what's our foreign policy—Detroit News.

BONESETTERS' WINTER.

Chicago's meanest weather trick is the wet snowfall immediately followed by a sharp freeze, turning every sidewalk and street crossing into a short cut to a hospital. This winter began on Dec. 10 with a masterpiece of such malignance, and its ice survives wherever there is a vacant lot or a lack of man power. It is dark, sinister, geologic ice, hard as granite, and every foot of it is hummocky, with slick curves and slopes to trap the unwary walker. Therefore this should be called the winter of the bonesetters, who have grown weary of manipulating fractures.

* * *

For 50 days and 50 nights we have been shuffling over these glacial lanes, which are especially dangerous in the suburb of our habitation, wondering when our turn for an ambulance ride would come. We gaze upon a friend who is lugging a broken arm around in a 12-pound cast and say, "But for the Grace of God and three pairs of rubbers, there go I." We have become morbidly fascinated by the duration of this ancient ice, which the sunlight kisses in vain, and expect to see it recorded by science as all-time champion. When its run extends to 75 days we will ask Stalin to shoot off all the cannon in Moscow.

* * *

This winter, however, cannot challenge the old-timers in general ferocity. In 1779-'80 the entire valley of the Mississippi became an arctic zone; the bayous of Louisiana were frozen, and the buffalo herds of the Illinois prairies perished from freezing and starvation. In the winter of the deep snow, 1830-'31, blizzards began in December and continued until February. In 1912 the oranges of Florida were frozen stiff, and Lake Superior was an ice field from shore to shore. Boy, those were the good old days!

EARLY MORNING NEWS.

I take my breakfast coffee to a cozy easy chair;
I like to listen to his news; I really, truly try,
But seldom do I hear him. The reason? Here is why:

The minute he comes on the air
Two lively girls come down the stair.
"Where's my Latin?" "Where's my French."
"I left my pencil on this bench!
Who took it?" "Mom, I need a dime
For notebook paper." "Gee, it's time
To go. I've gotta pack my lunch."
"Where's my lipstick? I've a hunch
You took it, Sis." "No, I did not!
Or did I? Here, I just forgot."
"My dear, your slip shows there behind;
Just pull your skirt." "I cannot find
My other mitten." "Mom, this button
Just came off." "What? We get mutton
Sandwiches? Just give me cheese
Or peanut butter, if you please."
"Hey, you, is that my newest sweater?"
"It's small for you. On me, it's better."
"Time out, I've got to darn a sock
Or give the faculty a shock."
"Good-by, my dears. Get lots of A's."

The front door slams. I'm in a daze,
And turn back to the news, with sorrow,

Boy with Big Red Sled.

This winter's abundant snows have reawakened memories of a red sled. Pa made it from scrap lumber just for me. An old can of red paint decided the overall color. Green screen paint transformed it into a glowing beauty, with my name lettered in showy script on the boards.

Since Pa thought I might some day be as big as himself, the sled was a monster which dwarfed me to half pint stature. Kids waited their turns to ride down the hill with me.

Whenever the butcher's wagon passed our house we hitched our sled ropes to the tailgate. The driver was a combination of Scrooge and Old Nick. He would urge his horse to a full gallop, and flying snow stung our faces and hands. Then came knee deep drifts into which he tried to dump us by suddenly driving off the road. Many kids lost their sleds to him because the big knots at the end of the ropes couldn't slip free from the tailgate.

The old Shylock would let you buy back your own sled for a quarter. The corners in his barn were filled with unclaimed sleds of many winters which he gleefully showed you. He taunted you thru the winter when he highjacked your sled and you didn't have that all-important quarter.

EASIEST PARTING.

And had I rather Death should take your hand
And lead you from me to that other land
While yet this fire between us burns so clear
That life without you would be death, my dear?

Or had I rather each succeeding day
Should take a little part of you away
Till at our final parting there should be Naught left to either but a memory?

H. C. writes: "I am attending a school full time under the G. I. law. The cost is $250 a year. Can I attend a part time school at the same time under the same program? The cost of the part time school will be $150 a year."

A veteran may attend two schools at the same time provided he is enrolled in one as a full time student, making satisfactory grades, and the total cost of both schools does not exceed $500 for a full year.

M. A. U. asks: "If a veteran dies before he has received mustering out pay and he was single but survived by both parents, who are divorced and remarried, can the parents file for this pay?"

When both natural parents survive a veteran and are otherwise entitled to mustering out payment, each parent shall be entitled to one-half of the amount payable regardless of his or her marital status.

S. P. C. asks: "If I qualify for and take navy radar training, would I later be disqualified under the G. I. law for college?"

No, navy radar training does not fall in the same category as cadet training. Training that does not lead directly to a commission does not disqualify for later training under the G. I. law.

PENICILLIN LOZENGES IN MOUTH INFECTION.

FROM time to time emphasis has been placed on the importance of a clean mouth. This state is highly desirable particularly when infection within the oral cavity proves stubborn.

Mention has been made of the beneficent rôle of penicillin. Now comes the suggestion that gelatin lozenges containing from 250 to 1,000 units of this new remedy may be allowed to dissolve slowly on the tongue. As we would expect, the results have been most satisfactory with acute ulcerative lesions, including those for which Vincent's organisms are responsible. In many instances, the typical patches have healed within 24 hours. Cases have been cited wherein pain and general symptoms, together with the characteristic fetor of the breath, have disappeared within 48 hours. Within four or five days, improvement has proceeded to the point where the drug may be discontinued.

Tests have shown that when the pastil is permitted to remain inside the cheek for from 15 to 30 minutes, a considerable quantity of the chemical is liberated. It can be detected in the saliva and, of course, is swallowed without the slightest harm. Patients are instructed not to chew or suck the disc but to let it melt away naturally. Under the influence of from two to five tablets daily, many a victim of acute tonsillitis has been rendered comfortable. This response, as a rule, surpasses the record of the sulfa drugs. Fever drops promptly and in a short while the individual appears out of danger and is able to take solid food.

All this indicates that we now have a plan under which "carriers" of noxious germs within the throat may be freed from infection. MacGregor reports experiments made with 12 subjects, who harbored streptococci within the pharynx. Seven shook off these invaders within 24 hours; three, within 48 hours; and two, within 72 hours.

Fortunately, the salutary effect lasts a number of days, even tho a fresh supply of "bugs" drains into the locality from the sinuses. We should recall, however, that the influence is largely local. While some absorption does occur, the dose is not sizable enough to destroy bacteria within neighboring structures which cannot be bathed with saliva.

Sufferers from chronic tonsillitis may well find in this procedure a veritable boon which will make them noninfectious. As every dentist knows, one of the difficult complications which he may be called upon to treat is a fracture of the jaw, which has been accompanied by injury to the soft tissues. Not only was this method successful in cases of this character but it was helpful following stubborn extractions associated with bruising of the mucous surfaces and adjacent areas.

There is every reason to believe that we have in this régime a method which is preferable to all others heretofore followed for clearing out dangerous microbes from the mouth and surrounding regions. It will no doubt reduce the absorption of toxins from "strep" organisms and other vicious species so quickly that the interval of illness will be shortened.

COLON BULGES.

E. R. writes: Every once in a while I suffer pain on the left side, low down. My doctor gave me various tests and tells me it is diverticulitis. He just said to be careful. What needs to be done?

REPLY.

Treat these outpocketings tenderly and they will remain on their good behavior. This means the avoidance of constipation and of heavily fibrous foods.

SURGERY NEEDED.

W. K. M. writes: My son has had an infected finger for three years. It is called a "felon." What can be done to cure it?

REPLY.

The area must be opened and drained surgically. This painful disorder is the result of injury, associated with bacterial infection. Take your boy to the best surgeon in your vicinity.

HE MAY BE SENSITIVE.

Mrs. H. writes: I have a young grandson who suffers from asthma. He has a pet kitten which he fondles and holds to his face. Could this be responsible?

REPLY.

Yes. An allergy to animal dandruff is not unusual.

ADHESIONS.

T. R. writes: Can adhesions occur without surgery?

REPLY.

Yes, indeed. The most common cause is inflammation. For example, an attack of pleurisy may bind bits of the pleural surfaces together.

Here, gentlemen, we have a heart
Out of a living creature;
She has herself delivered it
For your consideration
In ocular if not in oral privacy.

Three minutes only, now, where does
Her sickness lie?

First Dove of Peace.

You'll never convince us the war is not nearing its end. Or did you, too, notice the help wanted ad Monday which began: "Wanted, stenographer. Work is hard, pay is poor, conditions terrible."

Capsule Education.

From a Seabee comes a tale of the navy V-12 student who was asked, "Do you learn fast in V-12?" "Fast?" he echoed. "Once I dropped a pencil, and leaning over to pick it up, I missed a whole year of college algebra."

Nomenclature.

From Time, the concise magazine: "But Russia clearly had more faith in the Warsaw government's President Boleslaw Beirut. . . . Under the name Bienkowski he had been head of the Polish section of the Communist International. Under the name Rutkowski he had been head of the Polish section of the GPU [secret police]. The name Beirut was a combination of the first syllable of these two noms de guerre. Bierut's real name is Krasnodebski."

Pronounced Chomondeley.

Society Note.

Item in the Fairmont [W. Va.] Times:

"These are not dull dress affairs. Several of the ladies present Wednesday night wore slacks."

Explanation?

"About your refund," began the printed slip clipped to the order for a meat chopper returned by Montgomery Ward & Co. to the Chicagoan who had sent his $4.78, "we expected to be able to fill your order promptly—but we are unable to do so, as the attached papers will explain."

The only paper attached was the man's original order, on which he had penned: "I hope the United States army will be so gracious as to pass this order—I am a Republican and anti-New Deal."

No one will ever convince that particular consumer that the company was out of meat choppers.

No Part of It.

Newsmen raced around the Northwestern railroad's City of Los Angeles the other night waiting for the tardy arrival of Col. James Roosevelt and his wife. Among them were many photographers, their cameras ready. A Pullman porter, walking a black Scottie on a leash, saw them and cringed in mock horror. "This ain't no Roosevelt dog, gentlemen!" he cried.

Bargain.

It was after 6 p. m. when the telephone rang in the busy theatrical agency. An excited voice stated that its owner was the proprietor of a South Chicago night club and that he wanted a dance team for the evening. "A good one, too," he insisted. "I'll pay them $15. You understand, like Veloz and Yolanda." The agent gasped and took a firm hold on the telephone. "I'd like to know your name, please," he said. "Panic," was the brief answer. That is what followed.

She's Still Around.

In the event any one wonders how Frank Buck won eligibility to his Bring-'Em-Back-Alive nickname, Cornelia Otis Skinner, who comes to Chicago again this month in "The Searching Wind," has an answer. She was born in Chicago, her parents living in a south side hotel where Buck was bellboy. His duty each afternoon was to take young Miss Skinner for a buggy ride. "The yellingest infant in captivity," he reported later.

THE BOY SHE HELPED.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—A few days ago "Service Mother" wrote to this column commenting on the thoughtlessness of a group of street car passengers. I'd like to thank her for her kind deed. The soldier she helped was my little brother, in the city on a four day leave before leaving for New York and overseas. He has only been in this country six months, not including the last few days, so he cannot quite understand the American custom of hurrying everywhere all the time.

So thanks for helping a stranger in a mess. JUAN CIMARA BARACELLA.

P. S.—That brother of mine has been wounded in action five times in three years of service.

AROUSING FALSE HOPES.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Today some one telephoned my home asking for my next door neighbor, saying it was long distance. My neighbor, not being at home, this party said to call operator No. 14 in New York.

This family has five boys in service and recently the war department gave one up for dead. This family was so excited that they called long distance operators in Chicago, New York, and Washington, and overseas operators, too, hoping that maybe George was alive, or Frank was coming home, or that Jimmies or Alex or Nick wanted to talk to their mother before going overseas.

After seven hours of calling and waiting for the telephone to ring, you can imagine their heavy hearts when they realized that the call was from a bill collector just trying to get some information. PHILIP CATALANO.

EUROPE'S "CIVIL" WARS.

Goshen, Ind., Jan. 7.—The theory that you must get the other fellow before he gets you is false. This is also true of nations, and must be exploded or there can be no lasting peace among nations. We resented it, and rightly, when England meddled into our Civil war. The principle must be right when reversed, and we should stay out of the civil wars of Europe, which occur at regular intervals under the balance of power policies of that continent. Mr. Roosevelt was 100 per cent right in his 1940 stand that our American boys should never again be sent to fight and die in foreign wars in which the actual defense of America is not an issue. If the actual defense of America is not the issue, is it not time for a clear cut answer as to what we are fighting for, and if there is no clear cut answer, is it not time to be planning an honorable way out of the European turmoil?

PACIFIC POSTAL SERVICE.

Scottsbluff, Neb., Jan. 17.—I, too, think that a word of praise should be given the postal service.

In October I sent two packages, containing cookies, to two different parts of the Pacific.

One went to Oahu, the other to the Philippines. Both soldiers received their packages in plenty of time for Christmas, and in the best of condition. They said the cookies were as fresh as if they came right out of the oven.

I think the manner in which packages are wrapped has a whole lot to do with their reaching the recipient. This writer thinks the postal service is tops.

MRS. EUGENE CHRISMAN.

A BURDEN ON THE STATE, BUT NOT ON THEIR CHILDREN.

Homewood, Ill., Jan. 25.—Your editorials usually exhibit the marks of careful thinking, but the one on the proposed amendment to the Illinois old age pension law yesterday was an exception for its superficial treatment of this subject. True indeed, children should love, respect, and care for aged parents. The question is not that simple. Let us have the answers to the questions of who in a family of several children will be the assessor and collector among them for the support of a parent, and what action does he take in case of default. One or two children usually carry the load and no court action is taken against the careless or distant child for obvious reasons. Few parents will sue their children short of starvation. Even when cared for rather well they are inclined to feel they are a burden, an undesirable state of mind in the declining years of life.

This is definitely a job for the state and old age pensions will not be a real success until they are paid as a dividend due a citizen for a well invested life of endeavor. There should be but two qualifications—age and citizenship. Payments should be only enough to provide the frugal necessities, leaving room for private charities but making the oldsters independent. From what I have observed of old folks, they prize independence highly and do not want to be a burden on their children.

VANDERVER VOORHEES.

UNION MEMBER FEARS WALLACE.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 28.—As a laboring man now past 60 years old I fail to see where the coming of Henry Wallace has been any gain to labor and where his going would be any loss. His idle dreams have only added to the tax burden that labor must always pay—taxes and more taxes—on our bread, our clothes, our homes, and now, our pay checks. A few more idle dreamers of his kind and all of labor will be slaves working for bread and taxes only. It's time for responsible members of labor unions to do some thinking. C. K. J.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

COMPLAINER.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—I have lived in my present apartment over three years. Recently a new tenant moved into the premises immediately below me. 1. This tenant complains that I am too noisy, in spite of the fact that there were no complaints from the former occupants and I have not changed my habits in the meantime. 2. I have complained to the owner, who tells me to [3] ignore the tirades of this impossible person and finally she will get tired of being nasty. I've tried that with no results. It's got to the point that no one can do a thing in our flat without the "lady" downstairs banging radiators, slamming doors, and blasting her radio just to agitate me. 4. When I go out on my porch she opens her doors and calls me nasty names. Is there anything at all I can do in protection of myself?

S. B.

1. In general, the proper remedy for unjustified complaints is to ignore them.
2. We see no reason why you should take this course. See 1.
3. Correct.
4. You might try reporting this to the police. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

Refugees' Aid Predicts Need to Find Homes

Lawrence Parrish, for 16 months a delegate of the American Friends Service committee in an office operated by the Quakers and five other American relief agencies to assist refugees in Madrid, Spain, yesterday predicted that eventually it will be necessary for an international body to set up procedures for helping refugees in Spain to find a place to settle. If left to their own devices, many will have difficulty in finding locations to which they can emigrate, he said.

Parrish returned last month from Spain to his home, at 611 Juniper rd., Glenview. He spoke yesterday before the Chicago section of the National Council of Jewish Women in their headquarters, 185 N. Wabash av.

The Madrid office has developed into a sort of unofficial consulate, Parrish said. Workers there deal with the cases of stateless refugees, those persons who have no national representation in Spain. In many cases stateless refugees are Jewish and, for that reason, are deprived by law of their citizenship in Germany and other central European countries.

Parrish revealed that it is his job, and that of other workers in the office, to provide refugees with money, counsel, and representation before the Spanish authorities. Each refugee is given a cash allowance, enough to live adequately but not luxuriously, until the person is able to emigrate to the United States, South America, Jerusalem, or the United Kingdom, he said.

Mrs. Irving M. Engel, national chairman of the service to the foreign born department of the national council, said that more requests for information on location of friends and relatives in Europe have come in during January, 1945, than in any single month of the department's history.

On the Aisle By Claudia Cassidy

Irony Bites Boxoffice.

Remember how "The Voice of the Turtle" hustled K. T. Stevens' understudy, Nancy Holland, to New York when both Betty Field and Florence Rice fell ill, and how at the last minute Miss Rice went on while Miss Holland stood in the wings, still an unseen actress? Well, yesterday Miss Stevens had a painful bout with indigestion and missed both performances, tho she made a brave effort last night and got as far as the theater before she had to give up. New York was notified to send Miss Holland right back, and she will arrive today, but in the meantime the Selwyn refunded $4,700 to two disappointed capacity audiences. Tonight the play will go on, with Miss Stevens if she has recovered, otherwise with the traveled Miss Holland, who certainly has a performance coming.

That Theremin Again.

Lucie Bigelow Rosen, whose appearance suggests Lillian Gish in black velvet and old lace, is faithful to her trust, the theremin. That is the electrical instrument devised some 20 odd years ago by the Russian whose name it bears, and it gives out sound and volume according to the way you wave your hands at it. Probably it is fun to play, as Miss Rosen played it last night at the Eighth Street theater, but the fun of listening remains questionable. No matter what it imitates—the human voice, the violin or the violoncello—the theremin continues to emit a weirdly wailing sound dubious in pitch and lugubrious in tone. I can't quite fathom why you should listen to ludicrous imitations of music when you can hear the real thing.

Long Term Payment.

No one ever knows if a show yanked out of town while it is booming can recapture that impetus in a return engagement. But no matter what happens to Ruth Gordon's "Over Twenty-one" when it takes over the Studebaker Monday night, Miss Gordon paid a debt while it was here last fall at the Harris. She got tickets for Irene Castle when the box office was stripped as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard. And this is one reason why. A long time ago when, as Ruth Jones, she battled Broadway and almost lost the first round. Miss Gordon was so broke she had to avoid her landlady, but she couldn't avoid eating. So she got a job as extra in a New Jersey film studio where Irene and Vernon Castle were making a picture. She was paid $1.25 and two ham sandwiches a day. She appeared in a tough dance hall scene, but isn't sure how she looked. She couldn't afford to see the picture.

Wives Adopt Code for Help in Households

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

A dozen homemakers stepped into the buyers' market for help yesterday with the adoption of a set of standards for household workers as the guiding chart of the newly organized Y. M. C. A. Household Employers' league.

Wages for household help were set at $20 to $25 a week, with time and a half for overtime, along with one week paid vacations and four national holidays a year, in the draft of standards accepted by the representatives of "management" meeting in the Y. W. C. A. loop center, 59 E. Monroe st.

The scale for workers living "in" was based on a 54 hour week. Those living "out" will operate on a 48 hour week, but eat meals on their own time. The differential of six hours takes in traveling time, but in either case the work week is not to exceed 60 hours except in emergencies.

Living in conditions are carefully defined. For instance, time on call thru the day, when the worker is free to do what she likes but available to answer doorbells, telephone, and emergencies, are on a two for one basis—two such hours counting for one actual working hour. The employe must have a private room adequately furnished, adequate access and use of bath, and adequate diet.

Membership fees in the league were set at $5 a charge for expenses of publicity to interest capable young women in turning to household work as industrial employment slackens. The league is building a post-war plan.

First hand advice on interesting such women came from Mrs. Julia S. Peters, a household helper on the north shore for 15 years, but now a waitress. She said she represented 15 other women, nearly all of whom had left domestic service. The best way to keep a good helper is to treat her well, said Mrs. Peters. "Treating a girl well doesn't necessarily mean paying her high wages," she added. "It is in terms of courtesy and respect." Even tho she likes cooking and housework, no inducement could lure her back to domestic service, she said. She prefers a night shift waiting on tables.

Mrs. Henry Little Jr. of Winnetka was elected president of the league, with Mrs. Emory Luccock of Evanston, vice president, and Mrs. James Luther Adams, secretary. Mrs. Adams was chairman of the committee for household employers of the Y. W. C. A. from which the league developed.

Mrs. S. M. Wolffson of Oak Park presented the draft of standards as chairman of the standards committee.

Referred to the executive committee for debate was a question of membership in the league for women who subscribe to the ideals of the standards but do not quite conform to them for various reasons in their own employment practices.

Smart Parents Do Not Foster Fear of Illness

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I only sneezed because I looked up at the sun," replied Molly with a laugh. "I didn't know you were so afraid. I haven't got a cold."

Ann left the group and ran home just the same, visibly agitated.

It is difficult to strike a happy medium between being too careless about taking precautions and being too careful. If we're careless we do open ourselves and the children to infections unnecessarily. If we're too careful we're apt to become obsessed with fears and to impregnate the children with them. And if there's one thing we don't want to do it is to be ruled by fears ourselves or to let the children start life with fearful attitudes about many things.

Often you must keep your children away from other children who are ill or apparently coming down with some illness, perhaps a contagious disease.

Sometimes you can do it without bringing it to the children's attention, but not always. When you do have to make the children take precautions or to segregate them, it's best to do it in a practical way, being as utilitarian as possible, as if it were simply the sensible thing to do, without any suggestion of fear about it.

To a child who is old enough you sometimes can put it on the ground of intelligence: "It's only intelligent to keep as well as you can. And if you avoid catching cold or the measles and the like, then you can't pass them on to others. But you needn't run away when you hear some one sneeze. When people didn't know very much about these present day sanitary precautions, children were expected to have almost everything. So we'll just do this and this, and then forget it."

Handle it as a matter of education, not fear. And only dwell upon it enough to make them intelligently cautious.

The best protection in the world, of course, against infections of any kind is to keep your child built up; see that he has the proper food, sufficient sleep, and plenty of outdoor exercise, and when in doubt let your doctor examine him.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Myrtle Hansen, 4046 Keystone av.]

THE QUESTION.

What have you done repeatedly after resolving, "I'll never do that again"?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Lois Clancy, student, 308 Washington blvd., Oak Park—When I say, "No, mother, I won't buy any more phonograph records," it doesn't mean a thing. Altho I don't intend to buy any, I can't resist going into a store to listen to new recordings. Then with music ringing in my ears and I'm off again buying records.

Marilyn Fields, student, 424 S. Taylor av., Oak Park—I keep promising myself, "I won't ever put off my home work again. I'll do it on Friday night. Then I'll have the whole week-end to spend as I choose." But every Monday finds me carrying my books back to school practically unopened.

Lorraine Hansen, clerk, 6144 Bishop st.—Every morning my mother has to call me at least six times before she can get me out of bed. After I'm fully conscious I can't understand how I can be so dopey. "From now on," I resolve, "she'll never have to call me more than once." But next day it's the same story.

Catherine Shannon, rate clerk, 7954 Vernon av.—My first thought at the beginning of each week is, "This is going to be an early-to-bed week—11 o'clock at the latest every single night!" It never works out that way. Each night I stay up late I swear I'll never do it again. But it seems to be the thing to do at the time.

B. J. Kennedy, steamship and traffic agent, 140 S. Dearborn st.—"I shall never again partake of fattening desserts," my better judgment resolves after I have finished a big, juicy piece of apple pie. But it's a funny, thing—I can't force myself to think that before I have finished my desert.

Thru the Looking Glass

We're always sorry to see a woman with white hair who doesn't make an asset of it. She's missing a good pictorial bet, we think, if she doesn't keep her hair as white and crisply groomed as possible.

Gray or white hair demands some exacting care, but the profits are enormous. The white haired woman who ignores styling or who doesn't fuss about the tone and the luster will look old and a little shabby, no matter what she wears.

White hair needs shampooing about twice as often as darker hair, and it must be shampooed with loving care, using only the purest of soap. It needs rather exceptional rinsing, too, and a bit of bluing added to the final water will help.

The yellow tinge that often mars the beauty of gray hair has several causes. The most common, we expect, is heat. Hand drying is far better for snowy locks than sessions under the dryer. Another cause, we suspect, is excessive perspiration of the scalp. The remedy is more frequent shampoos.

Then, of course, there are the cases of illness or exceptional acidity; this always reflects itself quickly in white hair. The obvious solution is to find the cause.

And if white hair is limp, as it often is because it is usually fine textured, professional treatments will help its elasticity, as will the plain old fashioned remedy of brushing, plus scalp massage.

War Changes Lessen County Hospital Load

BY DOROTHY JOHNSON.

The war has decreased the patient census at County hospital, Wood and Harrison sts., Gen. Manus McCloskey, warden, said yesterday, when only about 2,400 of the institution's 3,300 beds were occupied.

Better family incomes, because of increased employment; corporations' facilities for giving medical care to workers, and the fact that the army and navy now hospitalize men who, before December, 1941, would have received free medical aid at the institution, account for the decrease in patients, he said.

Rationing of automobile tires and gasoline also has been a factor in the lower patient load, Gen. McCloskey said, by reducing the number of traffic accident cases brought to the hospital.

There now are 90 interns and 60 resident physicians on the staff, an average of one doctor for every 25 patients, the warden said. Before the war there were 100 interns and 80 resident physicians. Under a system adopted for the war period, interns now work in nine month periods, with some selected to stay thru 27 months for advanced training.

Altho the case load at the hospital has dropped, there is a shortage of nurses, Gen. McCloskey said. Comparative figures of County hospital school of nursing which, thru an organization administered by selected citizens on a volunteer basis, supplies the hospital's nursing staff under contract, indicate that in December, 1941, the hospital's patient census was 2,861, and in the same month last year, 2,212. In December, 1941, there were 55 supervisors of nurses, 81 head nurses, and 638 nurses on the general staff. Last December the figures were 55, 69, and 149, respectively, in the three categories.

Student nurses in December, 1941, numbered 171 in the hospital's school, 211 affiliating students from other hospitals schools, and 50 postgraduate students. For the same month last year the figures were 228, 286, and 27, respectively.

Nonprofessional members of the nursing staff, classified as clerks, attendants, and orderlies, numbered 347 the last month of 1941, and 375 for the same period in 1944. Whereas before the war the orderlies were men, they now are predominantly husky women.

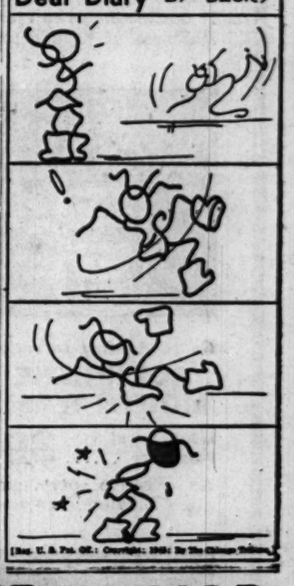

Under a plan recently instituted by the American Medical association, military doctors medically discharged or invalided home may attend the hospital for "refresher" courses. The plan, now operating in part, has been extended so far to pre-war members of the hospital staff.

There has been no alarming decrease in the number of maids, Gen. McCloskey said, but offers of higher pay have lured many cooks and bakers away from the institution, whose budget does not permit competition with higher bidders for the workers' services. Except in a few instances, the warden said, the hospital's appropriation has not been increased for 1945.

The present site for County hospital, founded in 1866, was chosen, and construction begun, in 1875. Thru the years its facilities have been revised and expanded to keep pace with medical progress. The hospital now offers complete medical care. All patients enter thru the receiving room, where doctors make preliminary diagnoses to determine to which ward they will be sent. There are surgical, medical, maternity, children's, fracture, contagious, and tuberculosis wards, an X-ray department, a dental clinic for children, a pathology laboratory, and an out patient clinic and dispensary.

The average stay of a County hospital patient is seven to ten days. He leaves by the main entrance where he sees, probably for the first time, the lobby's pink stone statue of a mother and two children and brilliant murals, both dating from the WPA era.

Virginia Waller Is Married to Flght Officer John Hill

BY JUDITH CASS.

NEWS of the marriage yesterday in Kansas City of Miss Virginia Waller and Flight Officer John Barber Hill of the army air transport command will come as a surprise to their Chicago friends. The wedding took place so suddenly that the bride's father, William Waller Jr., en route here from the family's winter home in Palm Beach, was unable to be present, but Mrs. Waller and Mrs. Fred Thatcher, the bride's sister, were there to hear the chaplain of the 33d ferry group command read the service at 5:30 p. m.

Also present was an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Howard Vincent O'Brien of Winnetka, but the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Hill of Dundee, were not able to be there.

The new Mrs. Hill, a member of one of Chicago's old families, was educated at Dobbs Ferry and Sarah Lawrence college and made her debut several years ago. She and Flight Officer Hill met at Sky Harbor, where the former Miss Waller took flying training. She has received a pilot's license and instrument rating and has been instructing in Dallas, Tex.

Flight Officer Hill attended Elgin academy and the University of Illinois. His bride will live in Kansas City, where he is based. Mrs. Thatcher is living with her parents while Lt. Thatcher is overseas with the army air forces. Mrs. Waller is returning to Chicago today.

Other Wedding News.

Miss Patricia Ann Moore and Gordon Lennox Pirie Jr. of the coast guard, who were planning a spring wedding, were married suddenly in Baltimore last Saturday after Mr. Pirie received a change in orders. The wedding took place at 4:30 p. m. in the First Presbyterian church of Baltimore, with a dinner following in the Belvedere hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wells Moore of Highland Park, parents of the bride, and Mrs. Pirie of Glencoe went east for the wedding, at which the bride was attended by Mr. Pirie's sister, Miss Priscilla Pirie. His twin sisters, Miss Nancy and Miss Martha Pirie, who are students at Western college, also were present at the wedding. John H. Quinlan served as his nephew's best man. Mr. Pirie and his bride are at home in Baltimore temporarily.

Red Cross News.

Characterized by Miss Eleanor Shanahan, a Red Cross Overseas club director, as "glamor girls who arrive in a clap of thunder with doughnuts and coffee" are the young women who serve overseas with Red Cross clubmobile units. Soon to join fellow workers abroad is a young Winnetkan who will be an attractive addition to some unit, Miss Carolyn Sutter, daughter of the Alvar H. Sutters. She is in Washington, D. C., for her final training before embarking.

Another young Winnetkan who just has gone overseas—probably toward some Pacific isle—is Mrs. Derek Bovingdon, the former Barbara Sieck, whose duties with the Red Cross will be to entertain the troops. She probably will be one of the young workers whose ability to dispense doughnuts, coffee, gum, home town newspapers and jive records, as well as to "shoot the malarkey," does so much to help the boys to relax, according to Miss Shanahan, when she spoke informally before a Red Cross meeting here.

Before being accepted by the Red Cross for overseas service, Miss Sutter taught in a Winnetka nursery school and was a blood donor several times. Mrs. Bovingdon, daughter of the Herbert Siecks, is the young widow of an army flyer, the late Lt. Bovingdon, who was killed in an airplane crash in April, 1943, three months after they had been married.

Miss Shanahan terms her own work as "the unglamorous job of being in charge of a large Red Cross club." During her service in England and Ireland her club once took care of 10,000 men from 10 to 6 o'clock one Saturday, among them many Chicagoans.

Service Notes.

The ribbon decorations worn by Lt. (j. g.) J. Thomas Martin III. recently were increased, for he has been awarded the air medal and the gold star in lieu of a second air medal, his parents-in-law, the Robert Hixons, have learned. The citations accompanying the awards, signed by Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher, commander of the first carrier task forces of the South Pacific fleet, praise the young navy flyer for his bravery while participating in 17 bombing missions last summer in the Marianas, Bonins, and Philippine Islands. Lt. Martin returned from the Pacific in November after 179 combat hours, and since then he and his young wife have lived in three different cities, the most recent of them Boston, Mass.

In Winnetka on leave recently was Tech. Sgt. Dorr Eugene Tippens of the army air forces, who had completed 65 missions as a radio-operator and waist gunner on a bomber which was the lead plane in his

Suits for Spring Have Drama, Dash and Color

BY REA SEEGER.

The suit story this coming spring is crammed with drama, color, and streamlined news. The sternly tailored masculine models are gone. The new simple affairs look soft and feminine. The exciting new combinations, with skirts in one color and jackets in another, are models that look at least six weeks into spring. Some of the jackets are patterned. There also are slim and trim two piece suits of fitted jacket and skirt. In addition, there are duets of slim skirts and square cut, loose straight line box jackets that clear the knees.

Also in the news are smart straight line jackets with the Chinese coolie coat silhouette, dashing boleros that hug the ribs, and swanky short boleros that hang straight and slim down to the belt line. There also are ruffled peplum jackets, jackets with a flared peplum at the back, and convertible jackets in simple silhouette that can be belted to define the waistline or worn loose and easy minus the belt.

Colors are legion, from off white to sable black, with the high colors of green, red, gold, and purple running a close second to dozens of striped and checked mixtures in wool, rayon, and combination heavy rayon and wool.

Scheduled for summer are very swish suits of surah and silk, as well as very handsome models in faille and bengaline. The latter are dress parade suits, distinctive costumes that can be dressed up or down with accessories. The first surahs are most effective. They are crisp and colorful in plaids, very demure and ladylike in tiny all over brocade patterns. They are the last word in simple elegance when made of solid neutral shades such as dark brown, black, navy, and slate blue or oxford gray.

Variety Spice of Dating Life, Boy, 16, Told

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

on the SOLID side

Q.—"I am a junior in high school and am 16 years old. For my age, I go out a lot and not always with the same girls. I may go out with one particular girl for some time and some I take out only once or twice. Around school I am getting the name of a "wanderer." I wonder if I am wrong in wanting many girl friends? The other evening I had a date with a girl from another school and even she had heard about this reputation of mine. . . ."

A.—Variety is the spice of high school dating and if that's the way you like it, that's the way you can have it. At 16 no one should expect you to pick one ever-lovin' gal and date her alone. Don't worry about being dubbed a "wanderer"—maybe the other fellows just wonder how you do it!

Q.—"I had gone steady with a boy for 11 months, while I was a junior in high school, and during that time he joined the marines. After his boot training he was granted a 10 day furlough. When he came home I found him changed. On his first night home we had a small argument so I asked him if he felt differently toward me, and he said that altho he still liked me he didn't feel as he had before. He is now in the South Pacific, has been for some time, and I haven't received a single letter from him. A friend of mine told me he had written to his sister saying that everything was over between us. I don't know why he didn't tell me instead of his sister. After all, I didn't see the letter and cannot be sure it is true. Could I write to him again?"

A.—You know the old adage: Absence makes the heart a wanderer. The boy may have thought you were the only girl for him as long as he was near-by, talking with you and seeing you every other day. But when he found out that he could get along without you, he probably decided that was what he would rather do. Don't wait for him to tell you that it's all over; the fact that he hasn't written at all says it plainer than words.

Old Masters' Art Inspires Paris Milliner

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Rembrandt and Leonardo da Vinci are the inspirations of J. Suzanne Talbot, whose new spring millinery is based on the same lines and colors as the artists' masterpieces.

"Pasha" is a foot-high turban of pomegranate red straw, trimmed with a bright nosegay on top. Its shape resembles the headdress on Rembrandt's "Portrait of an Oriental."

A long orange feather made of felt sticks straight up at the front of "Saskia," named after another painting by Rembrandt, whose "Portrait of an 83 Year Old Woman" also inspired an afternoon hat of stiffened organza. The crown of the model has been heightened and adorned with a huge bouquet of field flowers.

The headdress of Da Vinci's "Madonna" has inspired an exquisite off-the-face toque made of tiny multi-hued ruffles laced with net. "Leda" is an evening hat following the same lines as Da Vinci's "Study for Leda." Gold braid forms graduated rings over the ears, and the lacing in back is made of glittering spangles.

Milliner Rose Valois combines feathers, flowers, velvet, straw, and felt to fashion her latest spring models. The high pointed crown of "Rhapsodie" is of purple felt, the upturned brim is of lavender straw, and a huge bow is of orange velvet.

"Azalee" is a toque of brilliant turquoise straw with a wide band of purple satin and a cluster of four pale azaleas. Pink tulips adorn a plaited black straw sailor called "Halem," while red roses set among blue ostrich feathers trim "Barcarolle," a large brimmed hat with tall slanting crown.

Fashion flashes: Heim's new boxed leather bags are being worn on wide belts instead of shoulder straps. . . . Vera Borea is featuring man tailored woolen slacks to go with sport coats for street wear and with dressing gowns for unheated apartments. . . . Lancel's latest clips are four inch high multicolored figures of WACs, G. I.s, military police, and army nurses.

On the Memo Pad.

There are two classes every morning now, Mondays thru Fridays, in home nursing offered by the Red Cross especially for business girls. The classes are held in room 1424 in the First National Bank building. [Use Clark st. entrance.] If you haven't taken this course, drop a card to Miss Mary Burris, 105 W. Adams st., Chicago 3, or to Miss Bernice Dodge, 1400 Lake Shore dr., Chicago 10. Be sure to give your address and your telephone number. The course consists of six lessons of two hours each. There are only 10 students in each class, and you can make up your own group if you wish or enroll individually. . . . New classes in court reporting are beginning this week in Jones Commercial Evening school—a free course about which you can get full information by calling the board of education, Dearborn 7801. Some of the recent graduating students are expected to receive certificates of proficiency for speed and accuracy in court reporting from the National Shorthand Reporters association. . . . With unbecoming lack of modesty, this department reports that clippings from the White Collar Girl column will adorn a screen on the stage set when Victory Players [business girls by day and actresses by night] present "Claudia" on Friday and Saturday night in the Kimball building.

INSTALMENT XXII.

SIMILAR GUN.

Everything was friendly, but it was the friendliness of a handshake in the prize ring after the gloves are on.

"You're a busy man yourself, Capt. Maclain," Daniel Pine said. "I read of your work in Hartford when you ran down that spy ring. You're cleverer than most people."

"I paid a lot for it," said Maclain.

Pine gave his silent laugh. "You are not going to tell me anything, are you?"

"We can trade," said Maclain. "I want to know why you were having me followed, and you want to know why I came."

"Very well, we'll lie quite frankly."

"I have nothing to lie about," said Maclain.

"Okay, we won't lie. I'm a widower. I like women and I have a lot of money. I expect to be gouged, reasonably of course, but that puts me in the position of knowing what they want before I make their acquaintance. Then, the chislers have to be smart and atractive. Taking it all together, it saves a lot of time."

"It creates a certain amount of excitement," the captain offered.

"And headaches," added Pine. "I met a girl a few months ago that looked expensive but interesting. She turned out to be both."

"If her name was Singleton, you're not the only one she's hooked," said Duncan Maclain.

"For a blind man, you keep your eyes wide open. Her name was Singleton all right, but as a matter of fact, she didn't get expensive until she got herself murdered. Prior to that, she hadn't hooked me for a dime, barring a few dinners, of course, which are always part of the game."

"So you didn't get worried until after she was killed."

"I never get worried," said Pine. "I protect myself. Every newshawk in the country has an eye on Daniel Pine. The Singleton girl had a husband. Did you know that?"

"I heard of him this morning," the captain admitted.

"I heard of him night before last," said Pine. "He came out to the plant to see me."

"Wanting money?"

"I'd have had him arrested if he wanted money. Apparently, all he wanted was information about what his wife had been doing while he was away. I didn't have any to give him, but I had him followed."

"And me." The captain chuckled.

"Well, I sort of included you on the list when I heard Mrs. Jordan had called you in to try to clear her husband."

"I didn't know that was public property."

"Money can buy you lots of things before the newspapers get them," said Pine.

"I could tell you quite a bit about Troy Singleton if I wanted to. I had her followed for some time. Since she was killed, I've had a lot of other people followed, people who might be interested in trying to build up something that didn't exist between Singleton and Pine."

"And you intend to continue having them followed?"

"Until Jordan's safe in the chair," said Pine.

The captain got up, and holding onto Schnucke's U-shaped brace, started a tour of the room. He walked to one end, brushing the walls two or three times with his finger tips. Back at his chair, he sat down.

"Well, what do you make of it?" he asked Maclain.

"You must have twice as many guns as Jordan," the captain told him.

"Who told you I had guns?" asked Pine.

"I read your profile," said Maclain. "I have means of reading even if I am blind."

"Are you interested in guns?"

"Very. Did you ever heard of a Harper's Ferry flintlock pistol dated 1804, Mr. Pine?"

"Just one, and I have it," said Pine.

"That's most interesting. I'd like to examine it some time."

"You can examine it now," said Pine.

Keys rattled and Maclain heard the sound of a sliding glass door. He waited an instant, then stretched out one hand.

Pine watched with interest as the captain's educated fingers slowly promenaded along every contour of the flintlock gun.

"An interesting piece," said Duncan Maclain. "I examined one just like it last night." He returned the pistol.

"If it was a Harper's Ferry flintlock dated 1804, it was a fake," said Pine.

"That's right," Maclain agreed. "The date on it had been filed off and changed. But Larmar Jordan thinks it's genuine. Where did you get yours?"

"That's my business, captain," said Pine.

If Duncan Maclain clung to any fetish while traveling thru years of darkness, it was that of being careful. Moving too fast and without his usual calm consideration had at one time trapped the captain and Spud in a burning building, and very nearly ended their career. From that time onward, Maclain had approached every undertaking on the assumption that death was very near.

The circumstances connected with Troy Singleton were different. Perhaps it was the people involved.

Gallagher, of course, might be dangerous due to his mental condition. Dan Pine was saber-toothed but he worked within the law, using a battery of large caliber lawyers.

The fact that Troy Singleton was dead should have been a stop light to Duncan Maclain. Yet, for once in his life, he became so concentrated on the fascinating technical possibilities of a killing that the human element fell into shadow. It was doubly dangerous. It lowered his guard and allowed him to act without full premeditation.

It was past six when Cappo admitted him to the penthouse far above 72d st. and Riverside dr., and said with a touch of reproach, "You are late, captain. The ladies are already here."

"The ladies?"

"Miss Sybella and Mrs. Jordan. I mixed them cocktails."

"That's fine." Maclain was in a good humor warmed with a pleasant elation over the outcome of his visit to Pine.

He went into the office stretching out both hands.

"Well, this is delightful."

"Yes, isn't it, darling?" Sybella said, amused. "You asked me to invite Lucia to dinner with us tonight." She took his hand and glanced at her tiny wristwatch. "I think 5 o'clock was the time set for you to meet us here."

"GOW."

Produced by Capt. E. A. Salisbury and presented at the La Salle.

By Mae Tinée.

There are a lot of familiar names in this film—Tulagi in the Solomon Islands, Samoa, Port Moresby—but unfortunately the tale it tells is long out-dated. It is the record of an expedition to the Pacific in search of head hunters and cannibals, but the captions referring to "fiends incarnate" seem somewhat exaggerated considering the nature of the real fiends—the hypocritical yellow men who apparently supplanted the simple minded natives who don't know any better than to be what they are. How the Japs got in where the cannibals used to be I do not know—maybe they ate them—I wouldn't be surprised.

The narrative and captions work hard at making the painted black jitter-bugs into horrid creatures, which they are, of course—but in view of the way some of the so-called civilized nations have behaved, it all seems a bit childish.

Some of the lines which accompany the picture are unintentionally amusing and decidedly clumsy. They build up to a native dance—"never before witnessed by civilized man, etc."—supposed to be an unheard of and terrible performance, and then announce that censorship would not permit more than the mild and quite uninteresting sight of painted warriors knocking themselves out in what they think is a dance. Thank heaven for the censors—anything to shorten this was all right with me!

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin

By George Rector
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

THRIFTY AS THE CHINESE

They're thrifty, those Chinese allies of ours. They save time in the preparation of meals and save every drop of flavor and nourishment in each ingredient used. We do well to copy their flair for eye appeal in preparing exciting vegetable and meat combinations, too. Today, we've gone back to a secret of centuries ago in preparing this delicious, time-saving, point-thrifty dish.

Mor.. Chinese Style—A Delicious, Point-Thrifty Dish

1 can MOR, slivered
1 cup celery, slivered
1 cup onion, slivered
½ cup green and red peppers
¼ cup bacon drippings
3 tsp. Wilson's B-V
4 tbsp. hot water
Almonds for garnish (optional)

Steam rice until tender. Saute celery, onion and peppers in the hot bacon drippings (or lard) for about 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Add MOR and continue heating for about 2 minutes. Add hot cooked rice and the Wilson's B-V which has been dissolved in the hot water and mix well. Cover, reduce heat to low and allow flavors to mingle for 10 min. Serve at once, garnished with blanched almonds. Serves 4.

------------ Clip Recipe Here ------------

IT'S A SECRET!

We know now that vegetables are best if they're cooked quickly in only a small amount of water but the Chinese used that secret thousands of years ago. It's a thrifty way to cook them because the vegetables are kept plump and firm and retain their valuable nutrients. Vegetables sauteed before a short period of steaming as in this MOR.. Chinese Style retain their bright colors and fresh flavors, too, and the mingling of delicious MOR and Wilson's B-V adds enough zip to tempt the appetite to a second and even a third serving.

It Pulls Votes!

MOR.. Chinese Style is a dish your family will vote to have for dinner often. Highlight it in a company meal by serving a grapefruit avocado salad garnished with orange ice, a variety of rolls and apple cobbler for dessert.

MOR.. Chinese Style is quickly prepared. It takes only about 20 minutes from start to finish if the rice is cooked ahead of time. You'll find it easy to serve on wash days or days you spend at Red Cross, and as a supper party dish, it's "tops."

It's Easy on the Red Points

With meat becoming harder to shop for, what could be easier to use than low-point MOR? It's all meat with no waste and is adaptable for cold cuts and hot dishes alike.

It takes planning ahead these days to be able to serve good substantial meat dishes every day. The proteins of the no-point and low-point meats are just as nutritious as those of higher point value but it does not take more imagination and ingenuity (and often more time) to prepare them. You will be the winner, however, if you learn to use these low-point meats because many of them have a truly delicious flavor and will add pleasing variety to your meals.

Sincerely,
George Rector

Crocheted Doily

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted doilies with petal edges are popular and effective pieces of table decoration, either under dishes or as a centerpiece. They are especially effective when crocheted of fine white cotton with the petals edged in an ombre thread repeating the colors in the table service.

For instructions in crocheting the petal doily, No. 1000, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 heart	Double
Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	3 no trump	Pass	Pass
Pass

Whether a hand is good or bad cannot be determined merely by looking at your 13 cards. What may be a poor hand under one set of facts might prove to be a very fine hand under other circumstances.

If, for example, you should deal yourself an evenly balanced hand with an ace and a king you would consider it a very poor hand and would pass. If, however, your partner should open the bidding you would consider that you had a rather fair holding and would keep the bidding open for him. On the other hand, if your partner should open the bidding with two of a suit you would properly consider that you had a very strong hand and would immediately contemplate its slam possibilities.

So, too, you must change your attitude toward your 13 cards when partner doubles and forces you to bid. In today's hand South made a light third hand opening of one heart and West doubled. East responded with one spade. This is the proper procedure even tho the diamonds are stronger. Preference is always given to the major suit in responding to doubles, more especially when it is cheaper to show it. West was justified in his two no trump bid and East said to himself, "I have a perfectly miserable hand" and passed, and an easy game was missed.

It is true that standing by itself East's hand was no ball of fire, but in light of partner's vigorous bidding it assumed a position of some respect in the community. If West had opened with a bid of two no trump East would have no qualms about taking him to three, having more than half a trick. West's bidding shows that his hand is such that he would have opened with a bid of two no trump had there been no interference. East must remember that he might not have had the king of diamonds. It is sound policy for the partner of the doubler to overbid his hand.

The ring mold is a convenient kitchen utensil. We used to employ it for little else than jellied salads, but nowadays the ring mold turns out rice rings, spinach or carrot rings, noodle rings, meat loaves, a dozen other kinds of food which look attractive on the platter in circular form. Sometimes coffee cakes, cakes, and desserts are baked in ring molds, too.

Curried Rice Ring.
[Serves six.]

1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted margarine
⅛ teaspoon celery seed
¼ cup minced parsley
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1-16 teaspoon pepper
3 cups firmly packed boiled rice

Beat eggs until light. Add milk and blend. Add remaining ingredients, stirring until well mixed. Fill well greased 8-inch ring mold. Place mold in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 1 hour. Cool for 5 minutes. Unmold on a hot serving platter and fill center with creamed fish or chicken. Garnish with parsley.

Spinach Ring with Corn.
[Serves five.]

1½ pounds fresh spinach
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ cup crushed soda crackers
1 teaspoon onion juice
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
Dash of nutmeg
3 eggs, separated
1 package frozen corn
1 pimiento, chopped
½ green pepper, chopped [optional]
Margarine, salt, pepper

Wash spinach carefully and steam until just wilted. Chop. Blend flour with margarine, add milk, and cook over hot water until thickened and smooth. Add crackers and seasonings. Stir in egg yolks, beaten until light. Remove from heat and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into well greased ring mold and place in pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 45-50 minutes, or until firm. Fill center of ring with cooked corn seasoned with pimiento, green pepper, margarine, salt, and pepper.

Spaghetti and Chicken Liver Ring.
[Serves six.]

1 8-ounce package spaghetti
½ pound chicken livers
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced green pepper
3 tablespoons bacon or sausage drippings
5 tablespoons flour
Salt, pepper, paprika
2 cups milk
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Cook spaghetti until tender in large amount of boiling salted water. Drain. Saute chopped livers, minced onion, and green pepper in the meat drippings. Blend in flour. Add seasonings and milk and cook, stirring, until sauce is thick. Add spaghetti. Mix in slightly beaten eggs and turn into well greased ring mold. Place in pan of hot water and bake in 350 degree oven for half an hour or longer, until mold is firm. Unmold and serve with tomato sauce.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 31.—Harry Cohn finally found the right boy to play Al Jolson, and that, I'm told, is one of the finest scripts ever turned out. The plum goes to Larry Parks, who's 26, and also knows how to put over "April Showers." . . . Now that Bob Cummings is back at Paramount, it's interesting to know that he was dropped there eight years ago because it was thought he would never be a star. He returns with a weekly stipend as big as the other big boys receive. . . . Vic Fleming, who'll be ready to start "Strange Adventure" with Clark Gable in six weeks, is trying desperately to get Barry Fitzgerald, but Barry's supposed to go into "Stork Club" for Buddy De Sylva. In the meantime, a cable has gone to Wilford Lawson in London, asking if he can come over. You man remember him—he was the chimney sweep father of the heroine in "Pygmalion." He's a superb actor. . . . Humphrey Bogart meets Lauren Bacall in New York Friday. I'm glad it isn't the 13th.

If You Care to Know Things.

Gloria Swanson's bridegroom, William M. Davey, used to keep company with Peggy Joyce, also Ruthie Selwyn. Bill's very well known here. Has loads of personality, and a bank account to match. . . . I'm told Eddie Small owns the rights to "Bella Donna." Wonder why? It's been made twice. . . . Phil Spitalny must have sold his music for the Abbott and Costello picture by the yard. Anyway, when he heard 16 feet of what was supposed to be in was cut out, he insisted Universal bring the finished prints back from New York and restore the music. All the faces left on the cutting room floor can now stand up and cheer. . . . Rita Hayworth is not going to New York. Her lord and master came home. If Orson gets a daily radio chore, must we call him Gabriel Welles? . . . The Leland Haywards, after putting up their home here for sale, decided not to, but then it was too late. Now it belongs to the Fred MacMurrays, so Maggie and Leland have no little gray home in the west.

Boy or Girl—Still Kit Carson.

The Jack Carsons will welcome another stranger in five weeks. Their little boy is 3. If it's a girl, they'll call her Germaine Katherine. If a boy—he'll be Christopher, but boy or girl, the nickname will be Kit Carson—cute? . . . Now I'd like to ask Warners a question. After Jack Carson's performance in "Roughly Speaking," are you going to throw him right back into those roughneck parts or give him the kind of story he deserves? . . . Countess Dorothy Di Frasso had another automobile spill in Mexico. The car turned over and knocked down a signpost which marked the spot of another accident where a man had been killed. . . . Sam Wood is trying to convince Claudette Colbert their next picture should be made in Mexico, and Claudette is lending an ear. She likes her part and direction in "Guest Wife." . . . The extras on "Mildred Pierce" who spend all morning eating on the set, always get a laugh when Mike Curtiz calls "Dismissed for lunch."

Birthday in South Pacific.

Sonny Tufts' mother, Mrs. Bowen Charleston Tufts II. from Boston, has arrived to visit her son. She hadn't been there half an hour before she was into her old clothes and out into the garage, cleaning up the place. Sonny says she's always been like that. He's glad she had the garage to work on, instead of him. . . . Bob Stack is celebrating his 26th birthday in the South Pacific. He says in a note he hopes there'll be a good character part left for him when he comes home. . . . Porter Hall spoke at the University of California in Los Angeles on "What My Church Means to Me and My Profession." It's one of a series of speeches from men in different walks of life. . . . Tony Romano turned down a screen job to tour with Bob Hope. I should think he would. Hope's more fun.

TONIGHT: ROUND 2 IN LOYOLA GOLDEN GLOVES

BASEBALL MEN LEAVE TODAY FOR NEW YORK

Program for 2 Day Parley Uncertain.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Chicago's contributions to the more or less special major league meetings in New York tomorrow and Saturday will head East today, but like all the other magnates, etc., who will attend the party, they have no idea as to what kind of a show will be staged.

The sessions have been ballyhooed by the typewriter artists as the time and place for the naming of a commissioner to succeed the late Judge K. M. Landis and as the possible spot for a decision calling off the 1945 major league races because of war needs.

Actually the meetings were called primarily for the purpose of adopting a new agreement under which the American and National leagues operate and this, except for rumors, may prove the only business transacted.

Frick's Message Expected.

Ford Frick, National league president, is supposed to have a message he'll reveal to the magnates at the meetings. It has to do with what Frick thinks he learned when he wandered down to Washington recently and sought out those in authority on the man power question.

After his prowl for inside information Frick professed to be gloomy about baseball's 1945 chances, this attitude being sufficient to stir the dream baseball writers into many words about the game being a dead duck for the remainder of the war. In contrast to Frick was Clark Griffith, Washington club president, who also did some unofficial snooping. Griffith subsequently proclaimed there will be baseball, so take your pick.

It is a fairly safe bet that all either self-appointed emissary learned was that baseball can continue—if it can find enough players.

Joint Meeting Saturday.

The new agreement is ready but the committee in charge will meet tomorrow afternoon for a final checkup before presenting it to the two leagues. The latter will meet separately as soon as the draft is presented. If it is acceptable to both leagues at their private sessions it will be brought up for adoption at the joint meeting on Saturday.

If and when the agreement is formally accepted, the magnates will be in a position to talk on the vacant commissioner job, but the sentiment apparently continues to be that there should be no hurry. There are those who want the chair filled tomororw but they are in the minority.

AMERICAN GEARS FIVE DEFEATS PITTSBURGH, 62-60

The American Gears, Chicago's representative in the National Basketball league, scored its fourth straight victory in beating Pittsburgh, 62 to 60, in the Coliseum last night. Bil McDonald of the Gears tallied from the middle of the floor with nine seconds to go in the final period and the scored tied at 60 all.

Once again it was Stan Patrick, former Illini star, who led the Chicago team in scoring honors. Stan totaled 21 points with nine baskets and three free tosses. For Pittsburgh, scoring honors went to Huck Hartman with 14 points.

In the preliminary game the Filarets Girls of Rochester, N. Y., defeated the White Liner Girls, 32 to 28. The White Liners led at the end of the first period, 7 to 2, but fell behind when the Filarets counted 18 points in the second quarter. Line-ups:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE Cubs' traveling secretary, Bob Lewis, votes this incident the most embarrassing in Charley Grimm's long baseball career: The Cubs were playing the Braves in Boston and a fan in a nearby box seat laid down a continuous verbal barrage on Grimm, who was covering first base. . . . In retaliation, Grimm strode over to the rail, thrust his finger in the heckler's face and bellowed, "All right, just for that, I won't buy any more silk socks from you," thus hoping to establish his tormentor as a hosiery salesman in the minds of the fans around him. . . . After the game, Grimm learned the man was a member of the Boston club's board of directors. . . . Three members of last season's Great Lakes basketball team are starters on the unbeaten naval air technical training center quintet in Memphis, Tenn. . . . They are Fred Shaus, John Oldham, and Dallas Zuber. . . . The passing of time has obscured the fact that Ed Barrow, who was president of the New York Yankees until their recent sale to the MacPhail-Topping-Webb syndicate, was the man who issued the order that set Babe Ruth's feet on the road to home run fame. . . . As manager of the Boston club in 1919, Barrow switched Babe from the mound to the outfield so as to get the daily benefit of his heavy bat. . . . Ruth established a new homer mark of 29 that season. . . . Red Dutton, president of the National Hockey league, insists Maurice Richard of the Montreal Canadiens is as good a hockey player as the late famous Howie Morenz. . . . In some sectors this is heresy, but Red stands by his guns.

The press agent who grabbed considerable space for French Lick last spring with the blurb about the Cubs and Sox being supplied with goat's milk and furnished a photo of the three nannies to prove it, no longer is an employe of Tom Taggart, overlord of the Indiana spa. . . . Pitcher Jesse Flores denies he ever considered signing up with the Mexican Baseball league. . . . "I'll play for Connie Mack until I am called into the service," says Jesse. . . . Joe Cambria, Washington Senators' scout, received a gold watch from Cuban players who landed major league jobs on Joe's recommendation. . . . For the first time in 11 years and for only the second time in 34 years, whistling swans have been spotted in the Louisiana marshes. . . . Lt. Edward [Rip] Whalen, guard on Northwestern's 1935 football team, has been assigned to an aircraft carrier in the Pacific after serving two years as officer of an armed guard crew. . . . When the Pacific coast ice skating championships are decided on a Berkeley [Cal.] rink, Feb. 20, only girls and women's events will be held in the senior division, because all the adult male skaters have gone to war. . . . Jeff Heath of the Cleveland Indians reports that a knee operation to which he submitted early this winter was a complete success.

The City.

The city is a gruesome place
Where live the men of sallow face,
Within its crowded borders wells
The tumult of a hundred hells;
Its racketeers, its fetid air,
Neuroses sprouting everywhere,
How awful the environment
In which the urban soul is spent!
O, how much better to reside
Out in the tranquil countryside!
How glorious the hill and glen
Far from the city's snick a snee
Much nicer the bucolic cup
Than is the one from which we sup.
Now I've got that off my chest,
But still I like the city best.

I wonder . . . but I'll never learn

JURY INDICTS 2 IN BASKETBALL BRIBERY CASE

Seek Legislation to Cover Offense.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 31 (AP).—Action in the basketball gambling scandal moved fast today as the Kings county grand jury indicted the two men alleged to have bribed five Brooklyn college players, state officials prepared to make such an offense a felony, and sportsmen thruout the country urged prompt steps be taken to curb wagering on intercollegiate sports.

The grand jury, in session until midnight last night on instructions of Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz, handed down an indictment charging Harvey Stemmer and Henry Rosen with conspiracy to commit the crime of larceny and defraud divers persons who would make money bets with Stemmer.

"More Vicious than Robbery."

Judge Leibowitz fixed bail of both men at $25,000 each after Assistant District Attorney Martuscello had called their crime more vicious than robbery and said the ramifications of the case may assume such proportions that the defendants might want to flee. Their trial was set for Feb. 13. A third defendant, listed as John Doe, also was indicted.

The five players involved—Bernard Barnett, Larry Pearlstein, Jerry Green, Robert Leder, and Stanley Simon—also were named as co-conspirators but were not charged with any crime. In testimony before the grand jury the players said they had received money from Rosen and Stemmer on agreement to throw the game scheduled against Akron university in Boston tonight. This game has been canceled.

The quintet, all regulars except Pearlstein, already have been dropped from the basketball squad. Further action by the school will be taken tomorrow when the faculty-student athletic committee convenes. Leder is a member of the committee and also head of the College Men's Athletic association.

May Amend Penal Code.

The state law, as it now reads, makes it a felony to bribe a professional athlete but a bill amending the penal code so that amateur sports and athletes may be covered was offered in the legislature today.

Manhattan police disclosed that since horse racing came to an end on Jan. 3 more than a dozen men have been arrested in connection with bookmaking on sports events in the Garden.

Led by Dr. Forrest [Phog] Allen, the veteran University of Kansas basketball coach, sports officials asked that something be done quickly to curb gambling.

Ned Irish, acting president of the Garden, and metropolitan athletic heads, took undisclosed steps to curb gambling and protect players from approaches by persons interested in influencing the outcome of games.

WASHINGTON AROUSED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—The federal bureau of investigation and members of congress, tho on the sidelines, today labeled the bribery expose in eastern college basketball today as something that must be stamped out.

An FBI official said the agency lacks authority to investigate such matters unless interstate traffic is is involved, and some members of congress viewed the situation as "a mess for the college authorities to straighten out."

"Certainly everything possible should be done to completely expose and stamp out such practices," the FBI said, "but this is a matter of local law enforcement. We don't have constitutional jurisdiction."

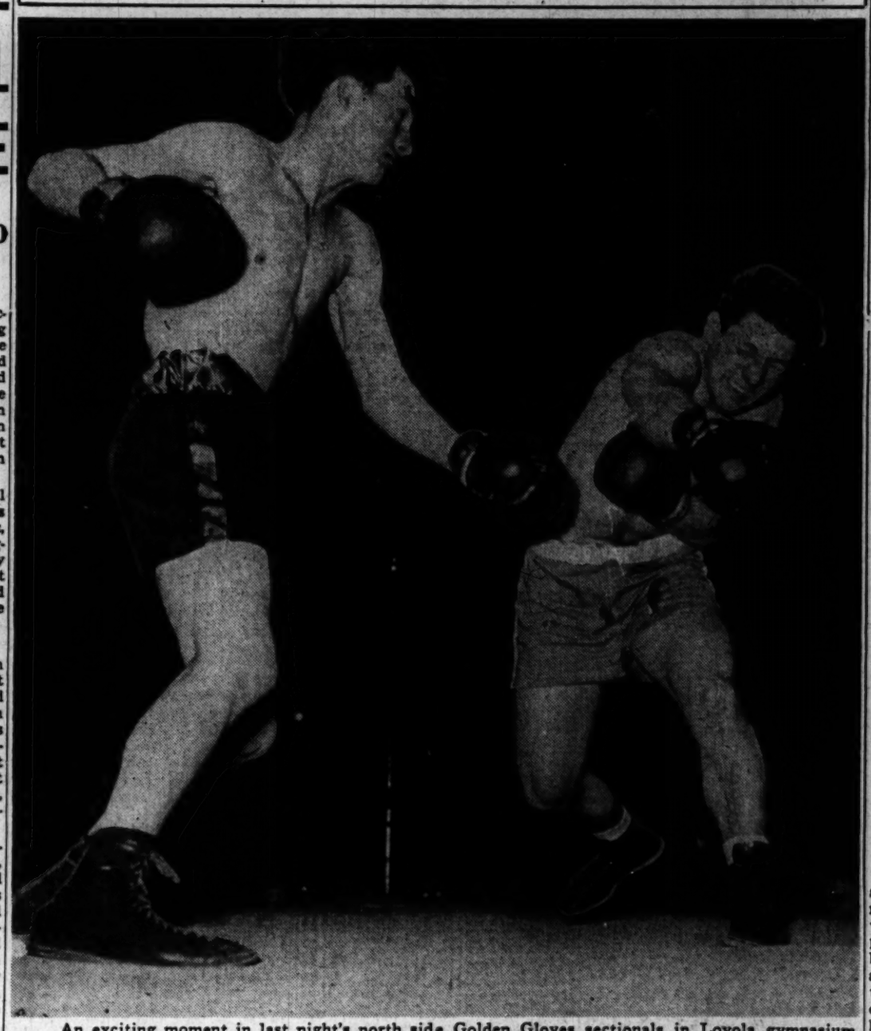

Make It a Felony—Weiss.

Rep. Weiss [D., Penn.], a national football league referee, said that legislation by the various states to make bribery a felony "would scare those chiselers [the gamblers] back into their holes."

He immediately began looking into the possibility of introducing a resolution that congress recommend passage of such legislation by the states. Weiss said, "This strikes at the very roots of our athletic life . . . goes right into our homes and colleges. If we can prevail upon state legislators to make bribery a felony instead of a misdemeanor, this thing of taking advantage of college kids will stop."

As a felony, a person found guilty of attempting to bribe any college student or athlete would be subject to 10 to 20 years imprisonment, Weiss said, pointing out that the penalty for a misdemeanor now is only two years in most states.

THIS BOUT REALLY HAS GOLDEN GLOVES STAMP

An exciting moment in last night's north side Golden Gloves sectionals in Loyola gymnasium. Don Lonergan of the Madison A. C. towers over Charles Tayiri, C. Y. O. novice lightweight, and prepares to launch a right after his opponent misses with a similar blow. Lonergan took the decision and later won a second bout. The sectionals will continue tonight and conclude tomorrow. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

PURDUE GROOMS LEWIS TO FILL IN FOR GOSEWEHR

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Purdue's loss of Billy Gosewehr, the team's leading scorer in eight Western conference games, dulls the attack by which the Boilermakers have won three of their last four Big Nine games and acquired a .500 standing for the season. Gosewehr, 18 year old freshman from Frankfort, Ind., reported yesterday for induction and will not play against Northwestern and De Paul in the Stadium round robin tomorrow and Saturday.

Gosewehr scored 81 points for Purdue in eight games and is second only to Max Morris of Northwestern in the conference individual standings. Coach Ward Lambert expects to replace Gosewehr with Bob Lewis, navy trainee, for the opening game tomorrow night with Northwestern altho Dean Trump, a reserve center and forward from Mishawaka, Ind., is a possibility.

Hoffman Is Mainstay.

Purdue will have its other four regulars, who have contributed to the recent victories which include the 52 to 48 overtime conquest of the Wildcats in Lafayette. Most valuable, in all probability, is the rugged Paul Hoffman, who was shifted from forward to center for the 1945 campaign. Despite a fractured toe, which kept him on the side lines at Iowa and Indiana, Hoffman has scored 64 points in six conference games.

Myrwin [Red] Anderson and Charles Haag are the other lettermen. Anderson, a civilian from Edwardsport, Ind., has scored 68 points in eight conference games at forward. Haag, dependable guard from Evansville, Ind., has 55 points. John Hinga, freshman guard from Fort Wayne, Ind., completes the varsity.

Irish Meet De Paul.

The Notre Dame-De Paul game, which starts at 10 o'clock tomorrow night, climaxes the first evening of the round robin tournament. The Irish have the fastest team De Paul has met this season and if Notre Dame has fair success in stopping George Mikan, the Demons may suffer their second defeat of the campaign. Notre Dame has averaged more than 60 points a game.

Saturday night Purdue and De Paul lead off in the Stadium while Northwestern and Notre Dame will provide the climax.

1944 Golden Gloves Novice Inspires Loyola Academy Pair

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Two of the most colorful novice boxers to qualify for tonight's quarter-finals in the North Sectional Golden Gloves tournament in Loyola university gymnasium, are Billy Roche, light heavyweight, and Lee Cordell, welterweight. These 17 year old lads, members of the Loyola Academy Boxing team, aim to follow in the footsteps of Christopher Fitzgerald III., who won the 1944 North Side novice welterweight title as a representative of the Loyola school and who now is a student at the University of Maryland.

Lee, unable to fight in last year's tournament because of a thumb fracture, last night scored a first round technical knockout over Wesley Brashares of 2121 Sheridan rd. His father, two brothers, and two sisters saw the performance and will be back expecting more of the same tonight.

Roche Draws a Bye.

Bill, regular full back on the school football team and specialist in the half-mile and mile on the track, drew a bye to qualify for tonight's competition. His five sisters and two brothers will attend, accompanied by their dad, Police Sgt. Tom Roche of the Albany Park station. Roche, 6 feet 1 inch tall, is harmless appearing with his shell rimmed glasses but is a rugged, speedy, powerful hitting lad as testified by the fact he scored a victory in each of four dualmeets Loyola won last year against Grant Community High school of Fox Lake, Morgan Park Military academy, St. Rita High school, and Culver Military academy. Three of the accomplishments were knockouts.

Johnny Behr, veteran Golden Gloves referee and coach of Chicago's intercity teams, last night made his first appearance as the third man in the ring since entering the service in 1942 at a brief encounter between Anthony Greco Jr., Madison A. C. novice lightweight, and Robert Lamb, C. Y. O. Greco stopped Lamb in 30 seconds. It was his second first-round knockout of the evening.

Lt. Roy F. Sessions, commanding officer of the navy V-12 school at Illinois Tech, and a number of men from the school's ships company cheered Apprentice Seaman Charles [Chuck] Hatstat Jr., novice welterweight, who is a student there, to an impressive victory over Johnny Fabbrini of the Madison A. C. Hatstat, who thus moved into this evening's fighting, is a veteran of three major engagements in the South Pacific and wears three campaign ribbons—European, American, and pre-Pearl Harbor. At 21 he has seen four years' service in the navy, three of which were spent at sea as an electrician's mate on the U. S. S. Washington.

Colvin [Leo] Norris, 20 year old coast guard dischargee, given a double examination by Dr. William Rothman, medical director of Chicago Tribune Sports promotions, and Dr. W. Lloyd Kenny before being allowed to box, knocked out Blaine Fitzpatrick of Savanna, Ill., in the first round. Norris, novice middleweight of 4652 Sheridan rd, was discharged from the service last October after recovering from shrapnel wounds received at Attu.

Pvt. Vince Pellegrini of Fort Sheridan, and Al Nero, former C. Y. O. title holder, will see action in the open lightweight class for the first time tonight, the former against Robert Williams of the Savoy A. C. and Nero against Johnny Ceresa, Elgin. Williams is last year's novice Golden Gloves 135 pound finalist while Pellegrini is the 1944 C. Y. O. champion in that weight class.

CUB DIRECTORS FORMALLY ELECT LEWIS, GRIMM

An official executive stamp of approval was given to Charley Grimm, manager of the Cubs, and Bob Lewis, traveling secretary, yesterday at the annual meeting and election of officers. They were formally elected along with President P. K. Wrigley, Vice President and General Manager Jim Gallagher, Treasurer Earl Nelson, and Secretary Margaret Donahue.

Otis Shepard was added to the board of directors, the others being renamed as follows: P. K. Wrigley, Ada E. Wrigley, Gallagher, Paul Harper, Gilbert Scribner, George Getz Jr., Charles A. Weber, and Frank Ellis.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Amateur boxers from the north side of Chicago, a bit nettled by the reverberations from the south side, where 16 novice and open championships were crowned in St. Sabina gymnasium Tuesday night after one of the best shows in sectional Golden Gloves history, set out last night to prove they, too, have what it takes to bring down the house.

So, before a capacity crowd in Loyola university gymnasium, the north section boxers went to work with added vigor as they punched their way into the favor of their followers.

They Start the Long Trail.

It was a gala evening for a lot of lads who never before had appeared in an organized tournament—those inexperienced boys of the novice division whose principal asset is courage. They stepped around the ring like veterans tho, took and gave to the limit of their ability, and won or lost in true Golden Gloves fashion.

And for the performers in the open division, those who had been to the wars before, the night was their first opportunity of the year to participate in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S 18th annual Tournament of Champions. They made the best of it.

After Tony Greco of the Madison A. C. and Tommy McGavin of 3009 Warren blvd. had set the tempo of action with cleverly executed victories early in the evening, a tall straight shooting lad from the Madison A. C., Don Lonergan, and Charles Tayiri, an American born Japanese from the C. Y. O. squad, made their bid for the bout of the night honors.

Tayiri Runs Into Trouble.

Tayiri, confident and quite a stylist for a novice, stepped out like a veteran and forced the fighting, but carelessly left an opening, and Lonergan raised him off the canvas with a right to the chin. Tayiri, up without a count, launched another attack to gain lost ground as they went into the second round. This one was even, tho Lonergan was getting the range at its close. In the third, however, the Madison A. C. lad really warmed up and Tayiri was almost out on his feet, rolling along the ropes as the bell sounded. The big crowd was in a frenzy of excitement as the boys went to their corners. Lonergan won the decision, then went on to defeat Laurence Martin of the Royal Viking A. C.

A certain amount of caution is displayed in 99 of 100 fights, but the fans were treated to that 100th one when Charles Hatstat, an apprentice seaman in the V-12 unit at the Illinois Institute of Technology, and Johnny Fabrini of the Madison A. C., stood toe to toe and slugged it out for three full rounds as the crowd went wild.

Each Has Rooting Section.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Three squads of good and experienced bowlers went out onto the drives in Archer-35th recreation last night and took their respective cracks at the 1,577 total with which Detroit's Al Heinden sets the pace in the Petersen Classic. That Al is still the leader this morning attests to their success, or lack of it. That the boys tried like the very dickens is attested by the following events, all of which transpired last night:

Barney Corsiatti, Coal City, Ill., rolled a 1563 series and took second place; Vern Anderson, Chicago, turned in a 1536 and wound up in sixth; Bill Mielke, Canton, O., came home with a 1533 and tied for seventh; Warren Trotter, another Coal City pinman, totaled 1529 and finished in ninth; and Carroll Davies, Milwaukee, registered a 1524, now good for tenth.

When Davies, renowned as a member of Hank Marino's Hell team, shot his 1524 on the first squad it was good for sixth place. Then came Corsiatti with games of 179, 204, 211, 157, 222, 196, 213, and 181, to push every one except Heinden down a notch. Trotter's effort was good for seventh when he got it, but the final shift came along with its Anderson and its Mielke, and there he is in ninth. Half the leading ten knocked out! Yep, the boys really tried.

They'll be trying again today as three more squads take their chances. The first will be started promptly at 4:30, the second at 7:30, and the last at 10 o'clock.

MARSHALL STILL RULES AS CRANE LOSES, 32 TO 30

Defeat, which has come seldom to Marshall High school's junior basketball team in the last several years, almost caught up with the Commandos yesterday in the form of Crane Tech, before the Marshall five won the closely contested game, 32 to 30.

Forward Irv Doman, whose efforts for the day totaled seven points, tossed in the winning goal after Crane had rallied to tie the score at 30-all with two minutes remaining.

Marshall's Sixth in League.

The victory was Marshall's sixth in as many appearances in the west section of the City league. It was Crane's third loss in six starts.

Crane took the lead in the first quarter, holding an 11 to 10 advantage as the period ended. Marshall rallied, to gain a 20 to 15 lead at the intermission. By the end of the third period, Marshall was out in front, 27 to 21. The Crane rally ended when Joe Bromberg threw in the goal to tie the score.

Cherney, Anderson Lead Scorers.

Roosevelt, in the north section, gained a double victory over Steinmetz. The Roosevelt seniors won, 51 to 39, while the juniors were victorious, 48 to 37.

PITTSBURGH BEATS HERSHEY.

Hershey, Pa., Jan. 31 [AP].—The Pittsburgh Hornets pounded out a 3 to 1 victory tonight over the Hershey Bears in an American Hockey league game here.

HAWK PRESIDENT URGES MOVE TO CURB GAMBLERS

President Bill Tobin of the Blackhawks yesterday urged a speedy organization of professional and amateur sports officials into a committee to take action against gamblers who, he says, are infesting sports events to a greater extent than ever before. Tobin said that action should be immediate if Chicago is to avert a scandal similar to the one just uncovered in New York in connection with a planned basketball coup in Boston Garden.

"Gamblers long have harassed the Blackhawk management," said Tobin before departing on a short scouting trip, "but the problem has increased greatly since the closing of the horse tracks.

Promises to Take Action.

"As soon as I return to Chicago, in a few days, I propose to invite other sports officials to join me in formulating some plan by which the evil of betting not only on games but on individual plays at the sports events can be stamped out."

Tobin pointed out that the fact the Hawks have been experiencing an unsuccessful season from the viewpoint of winning is not a deterrent to the gamblers. The gamblers give points in the scoring, usually including a fraction of a puck to pers do with half strokes. At the game they bet on individuals and the scores by periods on a handicap basis.

How Odds Shift in Game.

In last Sunday's Stadium contest with Detroit, the Red Wings had been established as a 2 to 1 pre-game favorite, allowing a working margin of one and one-half pucks. During the first intermission the Red Wings were made 6 to 5 favorites, but in the second period when Don Grosso and Pete Horock scored within 35 seconds to give Chicago a 2 to 1 lead the Hawks were then made 6 to 5 favorites. In the final period the odds on Detroit grew to 9 to 5.

During the recent visit of Montreal's Canadiens the champions were made 17 to 5 favorites. The amount of the wagers on hockey games in the Stadium usually range from $50 to $100.

neighborhood and Charley his shipmates. The din they set up was terrific as first one and then the other took the upper hand with pile driving punches which never lost their steam. They give no draws in Golden Gloves. There has to be a winner and the decision fell to Hatstat.

Abe Lee, Chinese senior at St. Rita High school and 1944 C. Y. O. welterweight champion, took his first step toward the city title meet with a one round knockout over John Giuliano of the Elgin Boys' league in a 147 pound open division bout. Lee never gave his foe a chance to get set and put him on the canvas for the count midway of the round.

Hold 30 Bouts Tonight.

Tonight those surviving the rigors of the opening matches will continue in their quest for sectional titles. Tomorrow night the eight novice and eight open winners will have earned their championships and the right to meet the south side champions in the battles for city honors in Marigold Gardens Feb. 12. Then the open champions will form Chicago's team in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 26, 27, 28, and the finals on March 9.

Thirty bouts are on tonight's program, the first one scheduled for 8 o'clock. Competition will come from several clubs and as usual the Madison A. C., the C. Y. O., the Savoy A. C., the Evanston Y. M. C. A., and the Elgin Boys' league will be heavily represented.

While the Chicago battling continues tonight and tomorrow at Loyola university seven of the 27 out of town centers in the Golden Gloves area advance their programs. The Memphis [Tenn.] Commercial Appeal's tournament goes into its final round tonight as the Cleveland [O.] Plain Dealer embarks on its first round. The Fort Wayne [Ind.] Journal-Gazette, Port Huron [Mich.] Times-Herald, Evansville [Ind.] Courier, Grand Rapids [Mich.] Press, and Indianapolis [Ind.] Times also hold preliminary events.

BARROW STAYS WITH YANKS, BUT NOT AS YES MAN

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—Ed Barrow's policy under the new ownership of the New York Yankees will be to offer advice but not to interfere with Col. Larry MacPhail as president and general manager.

In a formal statement released today after his first business conference with MacPhail since the sale of the club, the 76 year old Barrow said, "I told him we could not both be head man and that I would stay as chairman of the board of directors as long as my health would permit. He said I could have any office I wanted.

"As my policy is never to interfere, I am sure we will get along without any friction. I told him that he should be president and run things and I would stay in an advisory capacity. I will support him when he is in the right, but when he is wrong I will simply keep my mouth shut."

Hawks Meet Champions on Montreal Ice

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago Blackhawks are in Montreal this morning, dreaming, dreaming, and dreaming what a remarkable thing it would be if they were able to beat the world champion Montreal Canadiens tonight. Hockey fans wouldn't believe it, at first, and such a triumph wouldn't get the Hawks out of the National league cellar but it certainly would make hockey history.

Perhaps the Hawks wouldn't even be dreaming about a victory except that they won their first road game of the season Tuesday night when they achieved a 5 to 3 triumph over the Boston Bruins. The Hawks had beaten the Bruins once in Chicago but they have not conquered the Canadiens any place this season and not in Montreal in several years.

The game tonight will be the fourth of the season between the teams in Montreal and the Hawks like to remember that one of the three already played was close—2 to 1.

We are not one particular eager to circulate discouraging items but there are a few statistics which indicate that the Hawks will be skating up hill tonight, in a manner of speaking.

Thus far the Montreal offense has scored 156 goals this season. The Hawks have scored 88. In 17 home games this year the Canadiens have scored 97 goals. The five teams which have engaged them there have scored 44 goals.

KUM BUM FAME SHRINKS TO NIL IN FRAUD TRIAL

Hugh Greer Carruthers, who attracted thousands of paying members to his Neological Foundation, 185 N. Wabash av., by posing as a high priest of the Kum Bum lamasery in northeast Tibet and as master of the great lodge of the White Brotherhood, was never out of the United States long enough to study such lofty philosophy.

This admission was made yesterday by his attorneys before the jury in federal District court, where he is being tried on mail fraud charges. In return, the prosecution agreed not to call his first wife, Mrs. Minnette Boerum of New York, as a government witness.

Defense attorneys also conceded that Carruthers was known as Henry J. Boerum until 1935, that he never served in the British air force as "the flying parson," and that he never was graduated from a university.

Reads Lincoln's Words.

As these admissions were made, Carruthers sat with his eyes fixed just above the entrance to the courtroom where are engraved Lincoln's words: "Every man is said to have his peculiar emotions."

As the trial progressed several elderly women, who said they had given money to Carruthers for the manufacture and sale of two products, San-Gene, a hair shampoo, and Happy Hearts, a laxative, testified to substantiate the government's charges that thru misrepresentation Carruthers obtained more than $215,000 from his followers.

One Woman Gets Paid.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cadman, 4508 West End av., said she gave the foundation $247.50 and got it all back with interest.

Mrs. Catherine Jones, 444 Roslyn pl., who served as a consulting psychologist at the foundation headquarters, admitted she never earned a degree as a psychologist.

She was described as "a gift of God" to distressed, worried, and discouraged persons in an article, "Meet Catherine Jones," written by Carruthers.

Assistant United States Atty. Francis McGreal said he would ask Mrs. Mildred Carruthers, second wife of the defendant, to testify.

UNUSUAL GAIN SHOWN IN 'LOSS' OF RATION BOOKS

An "unusual" increase in the number of ration books reported lost or stolen in several Chicago wards has been noted since Dec. 26, when the office of price administration canceled many red and blue stamps and raised the point value of butter and most meats, Marion W. Isbell, OPA area director, said yesterday.

Local ration boards have been instructed to demand character references from individuals applying for replacements for lost books, he said. Applicants also must report the losses or thefts to police. Boards may withhold the issuance of new books for as long as 60 days if they suspect negligence.

Isbell said board No. 42, at 830 Rush st., issued 352 replacements for lost books in December, compared with 85 by the Oak Park board, which serves the same number of persons, 62,000. Board No. 2, at 3452 State st., issued 501 replacements in December; No. 3, at 5125 Calumet av., 447 books, and No. 20, at 815 Polk st., 314. Eight thousand books were reported lost in Chicago in each of the last three months of 1944. Police said they believed most reports of stolen books were "phony."

WLB SIDESTEPS FOREMEN'S PLEA FOR RECOGNITION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—The special war labor board panel studying demands of 7,600 war plant and ship yard foremen reported today the supervisors' interest in organizing was "out of proportion" to their grievances. It said this interest sprang mainly from fear of layoffs or demotions when war orders are canceled.

Altho sidestepping the issue of union recognition and bargaining rights, the panel recommended that 12 of the 13 employers involved should set up grievance machinery for foremen which it outlined. The 13th had not requested such machinery.

In appointing the panel last May, WLB specified that the union demand for recognition on behalf of foremen could not be resolved by it. The national labor relations board has ruled that foremen may organize for bargaining with coöperating employers, but that it could not force a company to recognize a foremen's union. A strike of foremen in 13 plants last spring seriously threatened war production, principally in Detroit.

ASKS CONGRESS TO RELAX CURB ON FOOD SUBSIDY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—The administration today asked congress for a modification of the restrictions on subsidy payments in an effort to encourage farm production "without forcing an increase" in retail food prices.

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard wrote the house banking committee that modifications seem desirable "to permit the operations of the Commodity Credit corporation to be more flexible." Congress last year, after a bitter battle with the administration, restricted consumer food subsidies to direct appropriations beginning next July 1.

Jones Asks Clarification.

War Food Administrator Jones told the committee he did not believe congress intended to put an end to government payments for farm price supports, and he believed the law should be clarified.

The committee is considering an administration sponsored bill offered by Chairman Spence [D., Ky.] which would:

1. Extend the life of the CCC to June 30, 1947, and increase its borrowing power from 3 billion to 5 billion dollars.

2. Remove restrictions on the quantities of CCC held cotton that may be sold so long as loans are maintained at 92.5 per cent of parity.

3. Provide for the sale of nonbasic perishable agricultural commodities in case of danger of loss or waste thru spoilage.

View on Consumption.

Jones told the committee only 25 per cent of the nation's food production has gone to the military and lend-lease programs, and "civilians in the United States have eaten more in war time than they ever have before."

While he was testifying, the senate banking committee approved similar legislation in which the borrowing power increase had been whittled to 4 billion 500 million. The agency had asked an increase to 5 billion, but Sen. Taft [R., O.] contended an increase of 1½ billion would be sufficient.

SEC ASKS RIGHT TO SEE SECURITY ADVISERS' BOOKS

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 31 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission recommended amendments to the investment advisers act of 1940 in a report submitted to congress today.

The amendments would tighten regulations on investment advisers' activities to prevent "the type of fraud in which certain unscrupulous investment advisers have been able to engage without detection," the commission said. All investment advisers using the mails or other means of interstate commerce would be required to open their books and records "to reasonable periodic inspection or examination."

The amendments also would require written contracts between investment advisers and their clients and would prohibit any registered adviser from having custody of clients' securities or funds unless his registration application disclosed that he had such custody. Fraud provisions of the act would be applicable to any adviser using the mails, whether or not he is registered.

STEEL MILL RATE SLUMPS BELOW 90% OF CAPACITY

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—The steel industry this week had "one of its most drastic production setbacks since the war started" because of severe weather, freight embargoes, man power shortages, and employe fatigue, the magazine Iron Age said today.

"The raw steel [ingot production] rate for the country has fallen three points to 89.5 per cent of rated capacity," it said. "Some curtailments which were existent a week ago are still in effect.

"Steel order volume this last week continued to mount and order books generally bulged to twice the size of a month ago and were about 50 per cent ahead of the similar period last year."

ELECTRIC AUTO-LITE.

The company readily adapted its operations to war work, supplying its regular products to manufacturers of aviation, marine, and automotive equipment. Specialized military equipment has accounted for a substantial part of sales, however, along with replacement parts for military and civilian vehicles.

Net sales of $136,348,000 in 1943 compared with $56,346,000 in 1939. Profits have been subject to the restraining effect of the heavy increase in taxes. The 1944 net income before renegotiation of contracts is estimated unofficially at $4 a share on the 1,196,793 shares. In earlier years the share earnings were: 1943, $4.06, subject to renegotiation; 1942, $3.41; 1941, $4.90; 1940, $5.01; 1939, $4.72; 1938, $1.43; 1937, $3.43.

Electric Auto-Lite is a leading manufacturer of automobile starting, lighting, and ignition systems, batteries, and various other automotive equipment. In 1940 more than two-thirds of sales went to car manufacturers, about 52 per cent to Chrysler corporation alone. Replacement sales of batteries are an important item. The outlook for business in the early post-war years is considered good.

Dividends in the last two years have been at the annual rate of $2. Consolidated net current assets as of last June 30 were $18,641,000. Long term debt was 5 million dollars.

INLAND STEEL'S PROFITS DIP TO $6.28 A SHARE

Republic Earnings, Sales Shrink.

Inland Steel company and subsidiaries in a preliminary report for 1944 yesterday announced net profit of $10,249,395, equal to $6.28 a share, compared with $10,801,564, or $6.61 a share, in 1943. The company voted a dividend of $1 on capital stock, the same as a year ago. The preceding dividend was $1.50 last Dec. 1.

The 1944 profit was determined after charges and federal income and excess profits taxes amounting to $17,647,000, the company said. In 1943 federal and excess profits tax provisions totaled $19,325,000 and $1,009,638 was set aside for post-war and other adjustments, Operations during 1944 were maintained at a higher continuous rate than during any previous year in company history, averaging 108.4 per cent of theoretical capacity, with a record production of 3,684,147 ingot tons of steel, the report said.

War Demand Increases.

"The demand for many important steel products resulting from war needs recently has been increased beyond any previous requirements for such purposes, but the fulfilment of these demands and our ability to continue at our present level of production will depend largely on obtaining sufficient man power and the ability of the railroads to move the vast tonnages now being handled in and out of our manufacturing properties," the company said.

Republic Steel corporation, the nation's No. 3 steel producer, announced net income in 1944 was $10,130,296, equal to $1.44 per common share, against $12,011,057, or $1.77 per share for 1943.

Sales totaled $531,235,000, compared with $552,329,000, and the production rate in 1944 was 99.8 per cent of capacity, against 100.4 the preceding year.

Despite an unprecedented volume of business, Illinois Bell Telephone company earnings last year decreased $602,533 to $10,881,441, A. H. Mellinger, president, said in the annual report. Profit per share was $6.70, compared with $7.07 in 1943.

Phones in Service Higher.

Total operating revenues were $129,532,908, an increase of $8,845,349 over a year earlier, but expenses including taxes showed a larger increase, up $9,622,359 to $115,966,459, Mellinger said. The rise in expenses was principally in wages and taxes.

Telephones in service at the end of 1944 totaled 1,825,797, an all-time high. Increase for the year was 26,629, provided largely for applicants with war time priorities, compared with 82,292 in 1943, when reconditioned instruments and other reserve facilities were available, Mellinger said.

After the war the company's first job will be to clear up held orders as rapidly as possible, and next to restore exhausted plant equipment reserves, he said. Long range plans call for the erection of several new buildings to house dial equipment, the introduction of subscriber dialing of short distance toll calls, operator dialing of more distant toll calls, a new unit-type private switchboard, and an experimental license to provide a general vehicular radiotelephone service for Chicago and vicinity.

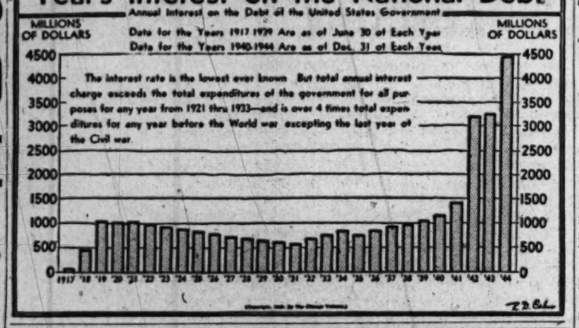

Westinghouse Has Gain.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in a preliminary report for 1944 showed net income of $26,019,096, or $8.11 a share, compared with $21,401,568 or $6.67 in 1943. Share earnings were based on combined common and preferred stocks after allowing for the participating provisions of the shares. Unfilled orders on Dec. 31 totaled $534,652,727 against $885,708,065 a year earlier.

Oliver corporation, farm implement manufacturer, reported earnings of $1,735,140 in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, compared with $1,761,593 in the preceding year. Share earnings were $2.56, when adjusted to compensate for a two for one split of common stock since the last annual report, compared with $2.63 a year earlier.

Grain Prices Are Advanced by CCC Plan

Senate banking committee approval of a bill to increase the borrowing power of the Commodity Credit corporation from 3 billion to 4½ billion dollars yesterday was construed by grain traders as likely to result in higher prices for grain. This, with expectations of an increase in the government subsidy to wheat millers, touched off buying that swept futures up rapidly on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Closing trades on wheat futures were at gains of 1⅞ to 1¾ cents a bushel. Rye advanced more than 2 cents from its early low and closed 1⅝ to 1⅞ higher. Corn was ⅝ to ¾ higher, oats 1 to 1⅛ higher, and barley ¾ to ⅞ cent higher.

CCC Reported in Market.

The wheat advance was helped by reports that brokers who frequently act for the CCC had resumed buying cash wheat in Minneapolis. The CCC said it had exchanged large quantities of wheat with mills recently, giving them high protein grain.

Some short covering by professional traders was believed based on intimations of important international political developments soon.

Cash Corn Business Large.

Altho no new government support measures are expected, brokers said the increase in CCC funds would enable it to make good the congressional pledge to maintain major farm prices at 90 per cent of parity for two years after the war.

Purchases of cash corn for deferred shipments from the country were estimated at 325,000 bushels, the largest single day's business recently. Near ceiling prices were paid in the southwest for dry corn.

EXPORTS SET RECORD THRU LEND-LEASE; IMPORTS 15 YEAR HIGH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—The value of United States exports in 1944 exceeded all records and imports were the highest since 1929.

Foreign trade figures for the year announced today by the census bureau, department of commerce, showed the value of exports in 1944 was 14 billion 65 million dollars, including 11 billion 287 million lend-lease and 2 billion 778 million non-lend-lease exports. The figures do not include goods shipped to American military forces abroad. The 1943 total of 12 billion 714 million included 10 billion 171 million lend-lease and about 2 billion 543 million not lend-lease.

Total value of imports in 1944 was 3 billion 911 million, compared with 3 billion 372 million for 1943 and 4 billion 399 million in 1929.

The census bureau also released for the first time information on the physical volume of foreign trade. Total export shipping weight in 1944 was 185 billion 391 million pounds, compared with 173 billion 135 million pounds in 1943. Only 42 per cent of the 1944 shipping weight was lend-lease, altho 80 per cent of the total export value was lend-lease. Total import shipping weight in 1944 was 118 billion 844 million pounds, compared with 100 billion 144 million in 1943.

MONTH'S PRIVATE FINANCING SET AT HALF BILLION

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—Nearly half a billion dollars in new financing was completed in January in addition to federal government operations in the money market. State and municipal issues were larger than corporate offerings because of housing authority paper and 75 million dollars of serial bonds sold by New York City to provide transit and airport funds.

Corporate bond offerings aggregated $190,117,000 and new preferred and common stock issues were $9,885,000. Long term state and municipal bonds totaled $115,726,177 and another $119,334,000 of shorter term paper was sold.

Among the larger corporate issues in January, most of them to refund higher interest obligations, were $53,835,000 Louisville and Nashville railroad 3⅜s, $51,782,000 Pennsylvania railroad 3⅛s, and 30 million Armour 4⅛s.

NASH BORROWS 16 MILLION FOR POST-WAR JOB

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 31 [Special].—Nash-Kelvinator corporation today increased its working capital with a 16 million dollar low interest loan placed with 18 banks, H. A. Lewis, vice president, reported.

Specifically earmarked for "non-war production," the new fund will give Nash-Kelvinator additional means for operations when resumption of peace items becomes possible, Lewis said. The loan was made for eight years at 2¼ per cent interest.

Chicago area electricity output of the Commonwealth Edison group of companies, excluding sales to other electric utilities, last week was 208,205,000 kilowatt hours, 5.9 per cent above 196,652,000 a year earlier, the company said yesterday.

Stocks Rally from Early Dip to End Higher

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—Reversing the order of yesterday's session, the stock market started lower today but closed on a rising trend. Final gains in the leaders ranged from fractions to more than a point and some specialties made larger advances.

Stocks believed to have the best peace prospects were in stronger demand than the heavy industry issues and other war shares. Steels and motors overcame early weakness to close generally higher.

A. T. & T. Rallies, Closes Higher.

The Associated Press 60 stock index rose 0.1 to 58.7. Transactions amounted to 1,177,960 shares, compared with 1,529,458 yesterday.

American Telephone fell 1½ early on top of its 2½ point decline yesterday, but recovered to close up ¾. Johns-Manville finished 2⅝ higher, American Distillers up 1⅝, Case up 1⅜, Montgomery Ward up 1⅜, and Studebaker up 1. Fractional advances were made by United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, New York Central, Southern railway, Great Northern, and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Curb stocks closing higher included Ainsworth, E. W. Bliss, Pantepec Oil, and Consolidated Textile. Transfers were 395,575 shares, against 508,250 yesterday.

BOND MARKET UNEVEN.

New York, Jan. 31 (AP).—The bond market was irregular today. Rails moved in both directions, industrials generally were weak, and utilities steady. Sales of $7,969,800 compared with $8,380,200 yesterday.

Uneven movements developed almost at the start of trading, but a gradual pull away from the lower side was evident in late transactions. American Telephone 3s, heavy on Tuesday and most of the time today, came up from a low of 116 to end at 117⅞, a net gain of ⅜.

CHICAGO LIST LOWER.

Prices were lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on turnover of 53,000 shares. Volume leaders were Automatic Washer, up ½; Miller & Hart, up ¼; Chicago corporation, up ⅛, and Electric Household and Middle West Utilities, unchanged.

UHLMANN GRAIN GETS BUSINESS OF VEHON FIRM

The Uhlmann Grain company will branch out into the cash grain receiving business in Chicago today in taking over the business of M. L. Vehon & Co., it was announced yesterday. Liquidation of Vehon & Co. became necessary thru the death of its sole owner, M. L. Vehon.

Henry F. Harvey, long associated with Vehon, will be in charge of the new cash grain department. Uhlmann will continue operation of Vehon branch offices at Jacksonville, Lincoln, Hoopeston, Springfield, Kankakee, and Bloomington, Ill.

Uhlmann Grain company was founded 22 years ago by the late Fred Uhlmann. It has a chain of country elevators in Oklahoma, and operates elevators and terminal offices at various Missouri, Oklahoma, and Texas points. Paul Uhlmann of Kansas City, Mo., is president and Richard F. Uhlmann and Jack A. Benjamin, both of Chicago, are vice presidents.

REPORT VETERAN ENGINEER TO RUN SURFACE LINES

Well founded reports yesterday said the post of general manager of the Chicago Surface Lines would not be filled at once and Evan J. McIlraith, veteran of the lines' engineering staff, would be acting general manager.

The post becomes vacant today when the resignation of Fred A. Nolan becomes effective. Nolan has accepted the vice presidency of the American City Lines, which operates bus lines over the country. For the last month he has not been active in surface lines business and the work has been handled by McIlraith in a manner reported to be satisfactory to the trustees and to the federal District court, which controls the lines in bankruptcy.

CHICAGO TO GET FEWER ORDERS FOR WAR GOODS

WPB Aid Describes New Policies.

Procedures recently adopted by the war production board will reduce the number of war contracts to be awarded to Chicago area manufacturers until the labor supply becomes more plentiful, John H. Martin, chairman of the production readjustment committee of the WPB, said yesterday. He outlined the general policies which would govern contract renewals and terminations at a Chicago Association of Commerce luncheon in the Hotel Sherman.

The measures which will affect Chicago provide for a review of prime contracts over $100,000, reappraisal of orders of $100,000 or more for special metal products which require additional man power, and prohibition of new facilities in Group 1 labor areas except in extraordinary cases.

Group 1 labor areas, of which Chicago is one, are those in which man power shortages are most severe.

Terms Chicago Situation Extreme.

"This means a slowing down on the placement of new business in Chicago as long as the tight labor condition exists," Martin said. "It is not a prohibition, but it is a definite down grading of war work which will come in here. As outsiders, we in Washington view the Chicago situation as almost the tightest a labor supply can be."

Martin said altho the "cornerstone" of the government's contract termination and renewal policy was that procurements must be based on requirements only and not on the maintenance of business or employment, every effort would be made to avoid any "suddenness in terminations" and waste of facilities and man power.

Costs, Facilities Considered.

Other factors which will receive consideration when contracts are renewed, reduced, or terminated are costs, financial condition of the contractor, performance, standby facilities, adaptability of equipment, location, status and type of contracts, and transportation, he said.

If east coast and west coast manufacturers are making Pacific war items and the program is reduced, the east coast contracts probably will be curtailed or terminated because of the obvious transportation factor involved, he said.

Independent Retailers Report 1944 Sales Gain

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—Independent retail stores reported their 1944 sales were 6 per cent higher in dollar volume than in 1943, the census bureau said today.

Expect Cut in Meat Supply; Pork Scarcity Becomes Acute

Alter Subsidy Plan

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31 (AP).—Civilian meat supplies soon will be reduced further as a result of government action today to channel a larger portion of current production into military and lend-lease stocks.

The war food administration asserted that essential war needs were not being met under present control measures. Shortages were attributed to increasing demand and reduced live stock production.

Today's action changed the government slaughter subsidy program to restrict cattle and hog purchases of about 27,000 nonfederally inspected slaughtering plants whose full output goes to civilians. This is expected to channel more meat animals to the larger federally-inspected plants, sole source of government supplies.

Larger Set-Aside Promised.

WFA said orders requiring federally inspected plants to set aside a larger percentage of output for the government will be issued soon. Present regulations channel more than half the federally inspected beef and about 45 per cent of the pork to the government.

If war allotments are met, civilians supplies during the first quarter this year will be at least 20 per cent less than a year ago, officials said. Reductions will be more severe in areas served largely by nonfederally inspected slaughterers.

Civilian supplies in limited areas served almost wholly by federally inspected plants may increase somewhat, however. Like the government, they have not obtained their allotted shares.

How Subsidies Are Curbed.

Noninspected slaughterers will be paid subsidies on no more cattle and calves than they slaughtered a year earlier. The hog subsidy will be limited to 70 per cent of corresponding 1944 figures. Many small plants were said to be killing more live stock than a year ago.

Subsidy payments are an important part of slaughterer income. Ranging from 50 cents to $2 per hundred pounds on cattle and $1.30 on hogs, they are designed to permit payments to producers out of line with meat ceilings. Limitation on subsidy payments will weaken the competitive position of the small slaughterers.

Hog Receipts Fall

The pork shortage thruout the country reached the most acute stage of the war yesterday. Movement of hogs to market has declined rapidly in the face of increasing army, navy, and lend-lease requirements. Some packers disclosed that only a small part of their fresh pork output was going into civilian trade because of urgent government orders.

Receipts in the Chicago stock yards dropped to 11,000 hogs, including shipments direct to packers, smallest Wednesday total since October, 1943, when the price ceiling first was imposed on hogs. From the standpoint of the tonnage for civilians no Wednesday supply has been as low in a January.

Output 65 Pct. Under Year Ago.

The day's pork production was estimated at 56 per cent below the average of the last eight weeks, and 65 per cent smaller than a year ago. Less pork is available to civilians than during the period of scarcity last summer when markets had almost no pork chops and many restaurants took pork off the menu.

All buyers at the stock yards again had far more orders than they could fill and paid the highest prices permitted for about 95 per cent of the supply. Nearly all good hogs, regardless of weight, brought the $14.75 ceiling and all sows and stags sold at $14, their top. Only pigs, inferior grade hogs, and boars failed to command ceiling prices.

Steers Far Below Ceiling.

There was no pressure on the ceiling in the cattle trade. Prime long-fed steers sold at $17.25, or 75 cents under the ceiling that became effective Monday. This was only 10 cents above the lowest Wednesday top since the middle of May. Most steers sold at $13.50 to $16.50. Strong to 15 cents higher prices were paid for heifers, beef cows, canners, and cutters. Bulls and calves were steady.

Sheep and lambs brought steady to 15 cents higher prices. Top lambs reached $16.25 and yearling wethers, $13.90.

Sears Roebuck Acquires Newark Stove Company

Newark, O., Jan. 31 [Special].—T. D. Adams, president of Newark Stove company, today announced Sears Roebuck & Co. of Chicago, long a substantial stockholder, had acquired complete ownership. Adams also said the company will continue its $750,000 remodeling and building program for post-war production of its full domestic stove line.

DISTILLERS CUT RETAIL QUOTA TO CONSERVE STOCK

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 31 (AP).—Louisville distillers have decided to cut by 25 or 50 per cent their allotments this year to retail distributors as the result of reports from Washington that there can be no more "holidays" from production of war alcohol in 1945.

W. L. Lyons Brown, president of one distillery, said the industry was forced to make a closer distribution of existing supplies than it had expected. Many had hoped they would be allowed to resume unlimited production this year, but war demands have increased.

ILLINOIS RIVER FREIGHT SETS RECORD IN 1944

Barges Fight Thru Thick Ice Now.

Approximately 7,250,000 tons of freight — the largest amount in history—were moved in barges over the Illinois waterway system during 1944, the army engineers reported yesterday. The larger part of the freight consisted of heavy bulk cargoes, of which coal was the principal item. Other cargoes of substantial size included sulphur, grain, and petroleum.

By moving large amounts of coal into the Chicago area, the barge lines have been able to lighten the load of overburdened railroads.

The barge lines have been able to continue operations this winter despite the unusually severe weather, which has resulted in some stretches of the approximately 350 mile run from Chicago to St. Louis being covered with ice 8 to 12 inches thick.

Three Ice Breakers Used.

Three ice breakers have been used by the coast guard to keep a channel open. One is the tow boat Roosevelt, under lease from the Federal Barge Lines. The others are the coast guard cutters Fern and Lantana. All three are equipped with Amsterdam plows—built of structural steel and attached to the bows. The plows are designed to break the ice and to push it aside.

A substantial part of the coal coming by barge into the Chicago area is shipped from Havana, about 30 miles below Peoria. One operator said his barge line started a movement from Havana Tuesday morning consisting of three tow boats with two barges each, to transport about six thousand tons —an amount that would require 120 railroad coal cars.

Ice Is Thickest Near Peoria.

Most of the difficult ice conditions are encountered in the 15 mile Peoria lake section, where the waterway's ice is thickest. The 30 miles between Chicago and Lockport are relatively free of ice.

Some package freight is moved by barge over the Illinois waterway, but not in the quantities transported before the war, because much of such freight originates in war plants which require fast service. Sugar and other imports which moved to Chicago before the war have been largely cut off.

Waterways have assumed the task of moving large quantities of petroleum since the war, particularly over the Ohio river system, and the barge lines are expected to fight to retain a substantial part of this business after the war.
